U. S. Navy Board Condemns London Treaty

ELPS OTHERS, EAKENS US, EXPERTS' VIEW

Admirals Criticize Delegates' Work.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 16.—[Special]—The navy general board, comprising eight of the highest ranking admirals and officers of the United States naval establishment, today placed itself squarely on record before the senate foreign relations committee as opposed to American approval of the London naval agreement.

Speaking as the board's spokesman, Rear Admiral Mark L. Bristol and committee members that the treaty should be rejected because:

It does not give the United States parity.

It gives Great Britain and Japan advantages denied this country.

It violates American traditional naval policy.

Rear Admiral Bristol, only recently returned from the orient where he commanded the Asiatic fleet, testified that raising Japan's ratio in naval strength, as is proposed by the treaty, would establish a bad precedent, put the United States in a bad position at the next conference in 1935 and endanger American naval success in Japanese waters in case of another war.

Backed by Admiral Jones.

Both Rear Admiral Bristol and Rear Admiral Hilary P. Jones, veteran naval expert and technical adviser, who appeared before the senate naval affairs committee and the foreign relations committee as well, criticized the provisions of the treaty which increased Japan's cruiser and submarine tonnage above the ratio of 5-3 established at Washington in 1922.

The major sections attacked by Admirals Bristol and Jones were those relating on cruiser tonnages, the ratio granted to Japan and section [illegible] which it was asserted carries a loophole which would permit Great Britain to begin construction of eight 8 inch gun cruisers as replacements in 1936 if she so desired. Both naval officers attacked the cruiser section, which divides cruisers into two categories and limits the United States to sixteen 8 inch gun cruisers, only seven of which can be completed by the end of 1936.

Bristol Reads Statement.

"I am talking as a representative of the general board," Rear Admiral Bristol stated in beginning his testimony. He then read this statement, prepared by the board for insertion in the record:

"The recommendations of the general board were arrived at by extended investigations conducted and deliberations by officers of the highest standing in the navy. Thus for over twenty years the United States has had consistent and almost unvaried policy which was based upon the evidence and ideas of the best minds of the navy.

"The general board has consistently recommended a fleet second to none. In order to provide a fleet second to none there must be some measure of parity, especially between the naval strengths of Great Britain and the United States. The measure of parity was admitted at the conference in Washington in 1921-1922 for certain categories of naval vessels, namely, battleships and aircraft carriers, and it is not or outspoken admission ever has become recognized.

"The general board has become convinced that the only just and fair basis must be based upon an equal number of tons of displacement assigned to the fleets of Great Britain and the United States, and the ratios of other fleets should be based upon these tonnage.

Recognized in Washington Pact.

"This principle was definitely recognized in the Washington treaty. In fact it was stipulated that the tonnage in cruisers for Great Britain would be 339,000 tons and aircraft carriers 135,000 tons, and for the United States an equal amount. That is parity in these two categories and the ratios of the fleets of the contracting nations should be five for Great Britain, five for the United States, and three for Japan, and 1.75 each for France and Italy.

"The general board has not been able, after eight years of study, to see any just reason for changing the principles then established, but on the contrary is firmly convinced that limitations in armaments should be based

CHILD IS SAFE, IS KIDNAPER'S NOTE TO MOTHER

Going to California, Woman Writes.

"Don't worry about your baby, I've taken her to California and we'll be on our way when you receive this note. You can spare her for two months."

This was the gist of a message wrapped about a $5 banknote, which was received at 8:30 o'clock last night by Mrs. Michael Moroney, 5200 Wentworth avenue, whose 2 year old baby, Mary Agnes, was kidnaped on Thursday by a well dressed young woman who posed as a social worker. The note was signed "Julia Otis," the same name the woman gave Mrs. Moroney when she took the baby out "to buy her some new clothes." It was postmarked 4:30 p. m. and was sent special delivery. The police last night were seeking the descriptions of all women who took trains for California late yesterday.

The investigators believed a "child-hungry" young woman had taken this means of procuring a child companion.

Expect Another Baby Soon.

The Moroneys were panic-stricken. Besides Mary Agnes there is a younger child, Anastasia, and a third is expected within a month. It was by her attentions to this coming event that the kidnaper was able to win the Moroneys' confidence.

In need of aid, Kathryn and Michael Moroney inserted a plea for help in a newspaper three weeks ago. They had no word until Wednesday, when "Mrs. Otis" appeared.

The family lives in the second floor back above a grocery at the Wentworth avenue address. Before "Mrs. Otis" climbed the stairs to the dwelling she stopped at the store and bought $2.55 worth of fruit, vegetables, and other food from J. Mahoney, the grocer. Entering the apartment she placed them upon the table with a bright smile.

"Mrs. Henderson, the social worker, sent me to see you," the caller said. "What can I do to help?"

"Pretty and Nice," says Mother.

"She was so pretty and nice," said Mrs. Moroney last night, "and she told me that she had seen our request and had called the newspaper for our address. I told her all about our money troubles and she seemed so taken with Mary Agnes. Mary Agnes is a shy child, but she made up to Mrs. Otis in a hurry. She said she had always wanted a child like her. She said she'd like to take Mary Agnes to California with her."

The mother confided to the woman that another baby was soon to arrive and found her visitor a sympathetic listener. She left, after again admiring Mary Agnes, but on Thursday morning she was back with a large bundle. Opening this the delighted Mrs. Moroney found a complete "bassinet" outfit—clothes, bonnets, and shoes for the expected baby.

The outfit was purchased from Goldblatt's department store, Ashland and Chicago avenues, with a new $50 bill, the police learned.

While the mother was examining her new possessions, "Mrs. Otis" took Mary Agnes, now completely won to her new friend, by the hand and said: "We'll just run down to the corner and buy this baby some new things, too," and she was gone.

Message from Kidnaper.

When she opened the message last night Mrs. Moroney read:

"Please don't be alarmed. I have taken your little girl to California with me. I have hired a special nurse to care for her. We'll be back in two months, and by that time you will be on your feet again and will be able to care for her. She didn't even cry a bit. She is outfitted like a princess.

"In the meantime, I'll help all I can to get you on your feet. Don't worry about her or anything else. When you get this letter we'll be on our way already. As ever,

"JULIA OTIS."

Mrs. Moroney wept as she told her story to the police. She was able to give only a general description of the kidnaper. The woman was about 22 years old, 5 feet 2 inches in height, and weighed about 125 pounds. She was dressed in a gray suit with blue trimmings, a gray lace hat, and wore a pearl necklace and a jeweled wrist watch. Mary Agnes has blonde hair.

Having attended a party at the Ambassador East hotel, the young couple strolled to Jeffries' car, parked at Astor and Goethe streets, and were about to enter when three young men, all armed, halted them. They demanded Mr. Jeffries' keys, which he had dropped to the sidewalk at their approach. When he protested that the keys were lost they searched him and fled afoot with $15, not molesting Miss Wheeler.

JEALOUS DOG BITES MASTER AND IS KILLED

Bingo, a police dog owned by Edward Thilgie, a restaurant proprietor at 2425 Madison street, became jealous last night when Thilgie offered a piece of pie to a visiting dog and lost his life in consequence.

Glaring at his master as the strange dog was devouring the pie, Bingo leaped and before bystanders could interfere he had bitten Thilgie's left leg and right wrist. Thilgie tried in vain to fight off the dog until Policeman David Mulcrone, hearing the uproar, ran in and dispatched Bingo with a bullet.

Thilgie last night was a patient at the county hospital.

Dawes Coming Home; Rumor He May Quit

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 16.—[Special.]—A semi-official announcement today that Ambassador Charles G. Dawes is expected to make a trip over from London this summer gave rise to rumors that once back in this country the Chicago financier will not go back to the Court of St. James's.

Administration officials denied one report, that the ambassador was returning to aid in the treaty fight, but had no comment to make on the reports that he planned to give up his post. Intimations that Gen. Dawes was preparing to get out of the diplomatic service have been circulating among his Washington friends for some time.

Fair Might Keep Him Here.

While some reports stated that Ambassador Dawes is tired of the exactions and formalities of diplomatic life at London, the general assumption here is that if the former Vice President retires it will be to devote all his time to working for the Chicago World's Fair. Gen. Dawes has played a major part in the financing of the project and it is believed he would like to be on the ground to see that the fair is a financial success.

Henry P. Fletcher of Pennsylvania, who resigned last year as ambassador to Italy, already is being mentioned in capital gossip as a possible successor to Gen. Dawes. Mr. Fletcher has long been a friend of President Hoover and it is considered certain that he would be among those considered if a vacancy occurred.

Tired of Knee Pants?

One old friend of Ambassador Dawes, who spends much of his time in Washington, spread the report recently that the general was tired of dressing up for court functions and was desirous of returning to his home in Evanston. Other reports are that Gen. Dawes considers that with the negotiation of the London treaty he has performed the major task he went to London to do, and therefore has earned the right to come home.

Reports were current in Washington during the arms conference to the effect that Ambassador Dawes probably would not spend another year in London.

KILLS WIFE, HER FATHER, MOTHER; MOB IS FORMING

Brownwood, Tex., May 16.—(AP)—Mrs. Opal May Shield, 33, and her father and mother were shot to death late today at Brookesmith, 15 miles southwest of here. Mrs. Shield's husband, Joe Shield, 35, an oil field worker, from whom she had been estranged for three months, was arrested and held on three charges of murder.

The younger woman, her father, J. D. Shields, 77, and his wife, 73, each was shot through the heart.

Joe Shield tonight was taken to a jail in a nearby county, Sheriff M. H. Denman explaining that he was "afraid of mob violence." The sheriff said he had received reports that a mob was gathering near Brookesmith.

Mrs. A. L. Dunn, sister of Mrs. Shield, testified at an inquest that the younger woman was sitting on the front porch of her parents' home when her husband drove up in his automobile and asked if their two children were going with him on a trip.

She testified that her sister replied, "I don't know."

Shield then got out of his car, Mrs. Dunn said, and fired two shots from a rifle, killing his wife. Mr. Shields was killed as he ran out of his store across the street and his wife was slain as she hastened from the house, calling for help.

San Quentin, Cal., May 16.—(AP)—Armando Boltares, 26 year old Mexican, was hanged at the state prison here today for the murder last November of the five members of the Alvarez Garcia family in San Fernando, Cal. Boltares killed the family, with whom he lived, because they exposed his sweetheart as a bootlegger.

Cermak Acts to Give State a Referendum

BY PARKE BROWN.

A. J. Cermak, leader of Chicago Democracy, announced last night that immediate steps will be taken for a state referendum on prohibition in the November election.

In approximate form these are the three questions he proposes for submission to the voters of Illinois:

1. Shall congress pass a resolution for the repeal of the eighteenth amendment?

2. Shall congress repeal the Volstead act?

3. Shall the Illinois general assembly repeal the state search and seizure [prohibition] act?

The exact wording, Cermak said, probably will be determined next week and petitions will be printed and put into circulation as soon as possible in order that the 350,000 signatures required to place questions of public policy on the little ballot may be obtained well in advance of the legal deadline for filing, which is 60 days in advance of the election.

Primaries Start Discussion.

Ever since the primaries of April 8 there have been interested discussions among Republican as well as Democratic politicians in Chicago about the desirability of having a popular vote on the wet and dry issue in the November election. The Democratic ticket is headed by James Hamilton Lewis, a wet, and the Republican by Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick, a dry, and opinions have varied widely about the effect of a referendum upon their respective votes.

But among the Chicago Republicans as well as the Democrats there has been a feeling that submitting the liquor question to the people would help their local tickets and there has been some agitation in favor of a Republican petition.

But, according to Cermak's announcement, he and his associates were prompted to action by a desire to keep wetness as an exclusively Democratic plank. And, sub rosa, it was said that this desire was the cause of planning the submission of three questions, the maximum number of questions permitted under the public policy act, this move being calculated to keep off any variation of the question being submitted through the activity of other agencies.

"Democratic Party Is Wet."

"The Democratic party is the wet party," said Cermak, "and so long as I am chairman of the Democratic county central committee there will be no pussyfooting on it.

"There have been suggestions that some association opposed to prohibition or some organization with similar purposes sponsor a referendum, but the issue is a Democratic one and we won't submit to its being carried off by outsiders. We won't take any chance of letting the plan miscarry. Scott McBride said in Washington that this state is dry and now we want to be sure to give him and the other blue noses a chance to prove it.

"The petitions will be circulated throughout the state, for the wets aren't confined to Chicago, and they'll all have a chance to vote on questions that are clear and not subject to quibbling, such as the drys have relied upon in the past.

Rips Home Brew Decision.

"This most recent blow by the drys to the centuries old principle that a man's home is his castle, this striking at harmless home brew by arresting men for selling bottles and corks, has strengthened our cause immensely. It has added 10,000,000 more votes to the majority we already have in the nation.

"About all that remains for the drys to do is to classify the possession of a bottle opener as a felony and to make the carrying of a corkscrew equivalent to carrying a deadly weapon and the vote against the fanatics will be unanimous among thinking voters."

FORT DONS DRY COLORS TO RACE WITH MORROW

Wets Urge His Foe for Presidency.

New York, May 16.—[Special.]—Congressman Franklin W. Fort, one of President Hoover's closest friends, today entered the Republican senatorial primary fight in New Jersey as a "bone dry"—against Dwight W. Morrow, ambassador to Mexico.

Mr. Fort's announcement came within 16 hours after Mr. Morrow, in his speech in Newark last night, advocated repeal of the eighteenth amendment and thereby made himself the leader of the anti-prohibition forces in the United States.

The entrance of Mr. Fort makes three G. O. P. candidates, the third being former United States Senator Joseph S. Frelinghuysen, who recently became a wet convert.

Fort Not Speaking for Hoover.

The situation, according to Washington dispatches, thus becomes somewhat embarrassing for the administration, since both Mr. Fort and Mr. Morrow have been personal friends of President Hoover and the result is expected to be a public declaration from the White House that it will keep hands off in the Republican senatorial primary.

In his statement, issued at his office in Newark, Mr. Fort took particular pains to emphasize that he was not acting in behalf of President Hoover. When it was first announced, unofficially to be sure, that the congressman would oppose Mr. Morrow should Mr. Morrow declare himself wet, the rumor started that Mr. Hoover was anxious to have his ambassador defeated, thus eliminating him as a possible rival for the presidential nomination in 1932.

In fact, the Rev. James K. Shields, superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League of New Jersey, told reporters that Mr. Morrow is unquestionably a presidential candidate for 1932 on a wet ticket.

Declares Rumor False and Unjust.

Mr. Fort's statement begins:

"I have determined to become a candidate for the Republican nomination for United States senator for the long term. I would not feel free to do this if it were not for the close relationship between both of my opponents and President Hoover. The suggestion made in advance in some quarters that my candidacy would carry an implication of any personal preference on his part is not only untrue but is utterly unjust to him, to the other candidates, and to me.

"It is unjust to the President because his office necessarily makes it impossible for him to speak for himself in such a contest between Republicans in any state.

"The true motive for my candidacy is obvious. I am opposed to any return of the sale of intoxicating liquor under any known or suggested form of law or regulation. I believe in the eighteenth amendment and I am unwilling that my native state should, either directly or indirectly, go on record for its repeal."

Congressman Fort frankly admits that "apparently" the odds are against him.

Drys and Wets Both Cheered.

Washington, D. C., May 16.—[Special.]—Wets and drys both found reason today for satisfaction in developments of the last twenty-four hours in the New Jersey Republican senatorial primary situation.

The declaration by Ambassador Dwight W. Morrow in last night's speech at Newark for repeal of the eighteenth amendment and transfer of the power over control of liquor to the states was especially gratifying to the wets, while today's announcement by Representative Franklin W. Fort of his candidacy against Mr. Morrow and former Senator Joseph Frelinghuysen on a platform to uphold the eighteenth amendment was pleasing to the drys.

Hoover Doesn't Comment.

There was no comment from the White House, but it is taken for granted that President Hoover will keep his hands off the primary contest in accordance with his general policy. Whether the divergence of both Mr. Morrow and Mr. Frelinghuysen, both of whom are considered close friends of the President, from his prohibition policies will cause a break with the administration is a question which is causing wide speculation.

Among Republican wets there is a disposition to believe that if Mr. Morrow is nominated and elected it will place him in the running as a candidate for the Republican Presidential nomination either in 1932 or 1936.

His declaration, it is believed, may have an important influence in stiffening up the wets within Republican ranks, particularly in the western states. Because of Mr. Morrow's close relationship with Mr. Hoover it is assumed that a number of Republicans who would not otherwise have taken up the prohibition issue will venture to declare themselves similarly.

A presidential boom for Mr. Morrow was suggested by Representative R H. Clancy [Rep., Mich.].

"Mr. Morrow's speech, as I see it, puts him directly in line for the White House," said Mr. Clancy. "If he carries New Jersey by a sweeping majority, as he no doubt will, he will be one of the outstanding candidates for the next Republican nomination. As a big business man and former ambassador to Mexico he has the other qualifications. Now he has an issue —the only really big issue before the country—prohibition."

Mr. Clancy said he believed Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, Morrow's son-in-law, reputed to be a dry, would campaign for him and make him more popular than ever.

Tydings Indorses His Stand.

Senator Millard E. Tydings [Dem., Md.], one of the most active wets in the senate, said that the repeal plan proposed by Mr. Morrow is in exact line with his own views, adding that "if more candidates would come out in the open for direct repeal it would clear the atmosphere and make the issue more clean cut."

"Mr. Morrow's statement was splendid in every respect and I believe in line with the very definite trend of public sentiment against the eighteenth amendment," said Senator Tydings. "The fact that he has taken such a sound, sensible stand should encourage others who are hesitating to follow his lead and denounce a law which they know is bad."

Simmons Doesn't Approve.

Senator F. M. Simmons [Dem., N. C.] was one of a number of drys who criticized the position taken by Mr. Morrow.

"While I do not care to comment on the situation in New Jersey," said Senator Simmons, "it is well known that I am a strong advocate of prohibition, and, of course, I cannot approve of any suggestion to repeal or modify the law. I strongly oppose turning this proposition over to the states for solution."

The drys are hopeful that with two wet candidates in the race for the primary nomination, Representative Fort can win.

1,386,216 VOTE DRY; 1,836,104 TO REPEAL LAW

New York, May 16.—[Special.]—With a total of 4,562,761 ballots cast, The Literary Digest will present in tomorrow's issue semi-final tabulations in its prohibition poll, giving the combined repeal and modification sentiment a majority of 1,790,329. The figures will show 1,386,216 for enforcement, 1,340,441 for modification, and 1,836,104 for repeal. Twenty million ballots were distributed. The poll will close next week.

Two more states give an outright majority for repeal of the eighteenth amendment. These states are Louisiana and Nevada, which join Connecticut, New Jersey, and Rhode Island, all of which also showed a substantial vote for modification.

WETS AND DRYS ROW IN HOUSE OVER DIGEST POLL

Georgian Calls It Fraud; La Guardia Defends It.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 16.—[Special.]—Charges by two southern drys that the Literary Digest prohibition poll is a fraud gave rise to a wet and dry battle in the house of representatives today which wound up with an angry exchange of personal remarks and threatened for a time to start a filibuster.

Resenting an objection by Representative W. A. Ayres [Dem., Kas.] to his request for five minutes time to answer the charges, Representative John C. Schafer [Rep., Wis.] raised the point of no quorum. Nearly a half hour was consumed with the extra roll call while the house leaders, anxious to proceed with the pending naval appropriations bill, looked on helplessly.

Pastors' Independent Poll.

Representative M. C. Tarver [Dem., Ga.], a dry, started the row with a speech attacking the Digest poll among ministers in the District of Columbia. Whereas the poll showed several voting wet, he declared an independent poll taken by the ministers themselves showed all voting dry. This "palpable fraud" showed the "real character" of the magazine straw vote, Tarver asserted.

"Does the gentleman think the vote was a fraud in Kansas," Schafer demanded. "And does he think prohibition referenda are a sound policy?"

Before Tarver could answer Representative F. H. La Guardia [Rep., N. Y.] secured the floor.

"I don't think any fair minded person would brush aside the Literary Digest poll upon the statement just made by the gentleman from Georgia," La Guardia declared. "The Digest is only doing what the members of congress lack the courage to do. Further I don't believe the gentleman from Georgia is on speaking terms with the respectable ministers of the District of Columbia."

Personal Privilege.

Tarver leaped to his feet and strode toward the speaker, shouting that he rose to a question of personal privilege to find out what La Guardia meant by that "unjust, unfair, and insulting remark." The New York representative asked Tarver how many local ministers he knew. Tarver retorted that "I am asking you a question." To which La Guardia replied, "I'm asking you one." Calls for regular order momentarily stopped the wrangle.

Representative B. B. Hare [Dem., S. C.] renewed it by waving before the house three Digest ballots which he said had been sent to one of his constituents. By thus repeating votes, he charged, the magazine is "perpetrating a fraud on the public."

Round Up House Members.

At this point Schafer sought the floor to reply and Ayres, stating that "this wet and dry debate has gone far enough" objected, and Schafer demanded the call of the house. Thereupon, house pages hurried to the restaurant, office building, and into the corridors rounding up enough members so the house could continue business.

Earlier in the session, Representative Frank O. Liver [Dem., N. Y.], a wet, urged his wet comrades in the house to adopt as their slogan, "No Appropriations for Prohibition." The only way to overthrow dry dictatorship, he declared, is to shut off the money for enforcement.

Waukegan Dentist Thrown and Trampled by Horse

Dr. L. W. Yates, Waukegan dentist, was seriously injured yesterday when he was thrown from his horse while riding at the Glen Flora Country club in Waukegan. Members of the club who found him unconscious on the ground said they believed he had been trampled by the horse after falling to the ground. At the Victory Memorial hospital in Waukegan it was said he was suffering from a compound fracture of the jaw and a possible fractured skull. Dr. Yates lives at 309 Stanley avenue, Waukegan.

STAB VICTIM WITH ICE PICK.

Resisting three thugs, who beset him in an alley in the rear of his home early yesterday, Edward Judge, 30, a truck driver of 4346 South Campbell avenue, was stabbed in the chest with an ice pick, but only slightly wounded. The robbers fled with $3.

Lobby Committee to Scan Books of Cannon's Broker

Washington, D. C., May 16.—[Special.]—Senate lobby committee investigators tracing the disposition of campaign funds intrusted to Bishop James Cannon Jr. in 1928 left for New York tonight to examine records of the bishop's Wall street speculations through the now defunct Kable & Co.

Henry L. Goldhurst, head of the alleged bucket shop with which the bishop dealt, is now serving a five year term in the Atlanta penitentiary for using the mails to defraud while Cannon is defending himself against charges before the general conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, now in session at Dallas, Tex.

Correspondence, telegrams and cablegrams exchanged between Cannon and Goldhurst and impounded by Federal District Attorney C. H. Tuttle ever since the bucket shop was raided have been opened to the lobby committee with the approval of the department of justice, it was learned today. A request for permission to examine them was addressed to Tuttle yesterday by Senator T. H. Caraway [Dem., Ark.], chairman of the committee.

Permission Is Granted.

"Answering your wire yesterday," Tuttle responded today, "Have conferred with the department of justice and department of justice and I assent to examination requested."

Other attempts to trace the use to which Cannon put $48,000 of a $65,300 fund advanced to him by E. C. Jameson, wealthy New York insurance man, ostensibly to finance the anti-Smith campaign in Virginia and other southern states, have proved futile. Only $17,300 of the $65,300 was reported by Cannon to the clerk of the house under the federal corrupt practices act and that not until three months after the campaign. In his report, Cannon showed the receipt of $17,300 on Feb. 11, and on the same day listed payments to himself aggregating $17,392 to reimburse him, the report declared, for "personal advances" during the campaign.

Jameson, testifying before the lobby committee, admitted that his own report of the advance to Cannon, part of a total of $172,000 contributed to the Hoover campaign, indicating that $17,300 went to the headquarters committee of the anti-Smith Democrats and $48,000 was given to the Virginia anti-Smith movement, was dictated by the bishop himself.

Cannon Telegram Quoted.

Cannon, in a telegram produced by Jameson instructing the latter on how to divide the $65,300 in a report to the special senate committee investigating presidential campaign, declared "this will correspond exactly with our official reports."

Advised at Dallas, Tex., by Virginia friends that the lobby committee was searching in Virginia for "official reports" which would show how the $48,000 was spent, Cannon telegraphed to Senator Caraway that he himself had spent "practically all of the money," but made no report because "none is required by law."

U. S. Attorney Called In.

New York, May 16.—[Special.]—United States Attorney Charles H. Tuttle today was called into the senate investigation of the stock market activities of Bishop James Cannon Jr., who may have to stand trial before the general conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, now in session, on charges of speculation.

Mr. Tuttle received a telegram from Senator Caraway of Arkansas, asking him to turn over to investigators for the senate all documents, correspondence and records bearing on the stock market transactions of Bishop Cannon.

The United States attorney said he would coöperate in every way with the subcommittee of the senate judiciary committee which is conducting the inquiry.

Harry Goldhurst was the man with whom Cannon did business in the market, buying from Kable & Co., Goldhurst's company, his stocks on margin. Bishop Cannon called this margin system a "partial payment plan."

Goldhurst is now in Atlanta, having pleaded guilty to fraud charges and been sentenced to five years.

POLITICS SIZZLE AT DALLAS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Dallas, Tex., May 16.—[Special.]—The general conference of the Methodist Episcopal church, South, looks today like a post mortem of the 1928 Houston Democratic national convention. Anti-Smith forces are rapidly being summoned to the defense of Bishop James Cannon Jr., while the old line southern Democrats have snapped out of their huddle around the "bucket shop gambling charges" against the bishop and are consolidating their forces for a showdown against Cannon.

The pro-Cannonites assert that Raskob-Tammany influences are at work in conference against the bishop.

The rumor was current early today that the episcopacy committee of 100 members, in session this afternoon, would reconsider the agreement to bring Bishop Cannon to trial because of the "leak" which gave wide publicity yesterday to the bucket shop gambling charges filed by twenty-one laymen. But later Josephus Daniels, the anti-Cannon leader, declared the trial inevitable.

Explains Gambling Charges.

"The charges against Bishop Cannon involve bucket shop gambling and not speculation," said Mr. Daniels. "They require that the bishop face a church court and explain how his 'investment' of $2,500 with Kable & Co. netted him a profit of $8,000 during the comparatively brief period of the transactions."

"Whom will you nominate to take Bishop Cannon's place as chairman of the board of temperance and social service?" Mr. Daniels was asked.

"I'm only the chairman of the committee," he said. "There are 45 preachers on the committee. You never can tell what 45 preachers will do. The committee's nomination will be given to the conference the middle of next week."

QUITS NEWPORT SOCIETY FOR VEIL ON OWN ESTATE

Newport, R. I., May 16.—(AP)—Mrs. Edward C. Post, wealthy widow and long prominent in Newport society, has determined to forsake the glitter of the outside world for monastic walls furnished by herself, it became known today.

Tomorrow Mrs. Post will become a novitiate in the Catholic Order of Carmelites at Stoneleigh, the old Post villa, which she is turning over to the order. The estate will become one of the three monasteries of the order in the United States.

Since the death of her husband, a widely known sportsman, a number of years ago, Mrs. Post has devoted much of her time to religious work. Three years ago she had erected a high stone wall around her estate, giving the grounds all the seclusion of a monastery. The estate is almost in the center of the summer colony.

U. S. SEIZES 70 CASES OF RUM ON RICH MAN'S YACHT

HONOLULU, May 16.—(AP)—Mrs Jeanette Hyde, collector of customs here, asked officials at Washington today for radioed instructions concerning the seizure of 70 cases of liquor on the yacht Orion, owned by Julius Forstmann, wool manufacturer of New York.

The Orion arrived from the far east Tuesday with the liquor listed on the manifest but under seal.

MONTREAL FINDS ITS MR. PARKER HAS JOLIET PAST

Chicago Air Bootlegger Held in Perjury Quiz.

The Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde existence of Chicago's millionaire aviator bootlegger came to an end yesterday when officials of the Canadian government ascertained that the Frank J. Parker who formerly headed the largest distillery in Montreal is the same Frank J. Parker who once occupied a cell in Joliet penitentiary.

In Chicago Parker rose from a petty hoodlum, once arrested for an offense against nature, to the romantic figure who formerly supplied an élite clientele with choice Canadian liquors, said to have been brought in with five airplanes. The Chicago police say he is worth $5,000,000.

In Montreal Parker was known as a leading citizen and a shrewd business man, who expressed a desire to have his name changed by parliament because of the adverse publicity given his Chicago "namesake."

Held in Montreal Inquiry.

Parker was held without bail when arraigned in Montreal yesterday on two charges of perjury growing out of an investigation into the affairs of Dominion Distilleries, Ltd., of which Parker was president before the company went into bankruptcy. Meanwhile P. A. Martineau, a Canadian customs officer, was in Chicago comparing photographs and finger prints of the supposed two Parkers. He found that they tallied and so wired Montreal officials.

Parker is charged with denying before a Canadian commissioner that he ever attempted to bribe an excise officer, and also with denying that he was ever an inmate of a penitentiary. After the inquiry into the affairs of the distillery, it was charged that Parker was secretly withdrawing whisky to escape the payment of taxes. Two excise officers testified yesterday that he tried to bribe them.

Called Auto Theft Leader.

Before becoming the so-called aviator bootlegger, about five years ago, Parker was known to the Chicago police as the leader of an automobile theft ring which was accused of stealing more than 1,000 cars. He was named by State's Attorney Crowe in 1926 as the central figure in the Illinois parole mill which, it was charged, procured the freedom of scores of hoodlums.

Parker was indicted by a federal grand jury in Chicago in 1926 as the owner of the Archer Products brewery, which was raided on July 19, 1926, beginning "the wort test case." Parker was not apprehended and the conspiracy charges against him were dismissed the next year.

On Jan. 26, 1926, dry agents raided a 3,000 gallon alcohol manufacturing plant at 2025 Lumber street, and Parker was named as the owner. The profits of this enterprise were estimated to have been $99,000 a week. The Chicago police declared at that time that Parker owned dozens of west side breweries, and that his fleet of planes was making regular trips from Windsor, Ont., to Chicago.

Parker's Police Record.

Parker's record, obtained from the police bureau of identification, is as follows:

September, 1911—No bill; confidence game charge.

April 4, 1913—Fined $15 and sentenced to ten days' imprisonment; charge unrecorded.

Jan. 11, 1926—Crime against nature; stricken off.

Oct. 3, 1914—Sentenced to 5 to 25 years at Joliet penitentiary for burglary.

Oct. 16, 1915—Paroled on technicality in mittimus.

March 13, 1917—Returned to prison for violation of parole (stealing automobiles.)

April 9, 1920—Reparoled.

Sought in Gang Massacre.

Parker's name was mentioned during the investigation into the St. Valentine day massacre of seven Moran gangsters. He was reported to have been sought by the same machine gun assassins for hijacking beer trucks.

It was at this time that the Montreal Parker lamented the existence of his "namesake" and a story of this polished young business man's troubles was told in a Chicago newspaper.

QUITS HIS CAR FOR RIDE IN AIRPLANE AND FALLS TO DEATH

Adrian, Mich., May 16.—(AP)—A prospective purchaser of an airplane who traded a salesman the use of his automobile for a seat in a cockpit was killed in a crash near here late today, and his pilot fatally injured.

The passenger was Virgil Thurman, 30, of Trenton, Mich., and the pilot was Ray Allen, 32, of Adrian. Motor trouble apparently caused the wreck, witnesses said.

J. C. Handley, an airplane sales agent here, said tonight that he and Allen had gone to Trenton today to sell Thurman a plane. Thurman asked to be taken to Adrian in the two seater plane, turning his car over to Handley to take Mrs. Thurman to Adrian to meet him there.

News of the crash reached the Thurman home before Mrs. Thurman and Handley started their journey.

Contractor in Court Plea Seeks to Block U. S. Inquiry

Counsel for William J. Newman, wealthy contractor, and the W. J. Newman company and the William J. Newman Wrecking company of 21 North Curtis street, whose books and records were seized by United States marshals on Wednesday in connection with an income tax investigation, went into court yesterday with a petition in equity seeking to restrain the inquiry.

The petition, which is regarded as unique by federal officials, asks:

That United States Marshal Laubenheimer be restrained from submitting the books to any one except the petitioners, and that he be compelled to return them at once; that United States Attorney Johnson be restrained from obtaining the books for use before the federal grand jury; that T. F. Gayer, the company auditor, be restrained from going before the federal grand jury as a witness; and that an oral hearing be granted, giving the petitioners an opportunity to prove that no probable cause for the seizure of the books exists.

Hearing Is Indicated.

Federal Judge Carpenter, at an informal hearing in chambers yesterday, declined to act on the petition and it was indicated a hearing would be granted before Federal Judge Wilkerson or Federal Judge Lindley on Monday.

The petition sets forth that the government's inquiry was undertaken without the knowledge of the petitioners, that T. F. Gayer was not the proper representative to give information relative to the company records, and that the taxes assessed and later approved by the commissioner of internal revenue for the years 1926, 1927 and 1928 were duly paid, including additional deficiencies.

Charges in Petition.

It is set forth that at no time did the internal revenue agents who investigated the company books request an explanation of the receipt and disposition of $442,999.50. It is charged in the petition that the agents testified before Judge Lindley that that sum had been paid to the William J. Newman Wrecking company by the city of Chicago.

The affidavit accompanying the search warrant charged that the company records were fictitious.

Mr. Gayer was a witness before the federal grand jury yesterday.

WIDOW BRENNER GETS WARRANT FOR HER 'COUNT'

Lieutenant Blushes at Her Story.

Mrs. Lottie Brenner Dechow dropped into the detective bureau last night to arrange for the arrest of her dashing young husband, Henry Dechow, German adventurer, whom she is suing for divorce.

In a monologue addressed to Lieut. Andrew Barry, the elderly widow of Ald. Nate Brenner discussed her present husband's private life and unconventional habits in detail. When she left the lieutenant was blushing.

"Back again, Lottie?" the lieutenant hailed her, perceiving the ample figure barging into the bureau from a lavender-tinted limousine. Barry and Mrs. Dechow have been on friendly terms since a troupe of bogus census takers took $50,000 of her jewelry from her Sheridan road mansion seven weeks ago.

Henry's Bothering Her Again.

"Yes, Andy, back again," she sighed, easing cautiously into the narrow seat of an office chair. She drew Barry into a chair beside her.

"It's Henry," she explained, "my husband, Henry Dechow, alias the count. He's up to his old tricks again. He spread reports that we were reconciled, and now he's out forging my name to checks."

"I've tried everything. When he brought his friends home from barber shops and poolrooms I fed them. When he was sick I nursed him. When they exposed his title of Count von Buelow as an impostor I forgave him for the fraud. Finally I said to myself, 'Lottie, you've been a fool.'

"Well, I've paid my taxes and I still have something left of the million Brenner left me. I won't have Henry get his clutches on it. Here's the warrant for his arrest."

She Produces the Warrant.

Mrs. Dechow produced a warrant issued by Justice of the Peace Harvey T. Minas of Crown Point, Ind. The warrant charges Dechow with swearing to a false name when he procured a marriage license a year ago upon elopement to Crown Point with Mrs. Brenner.

"You can get him at the Jonquil hotel, 1600 Jonquil terrace. I know he's there because the car I bought him is parked there every morning.

"You'll know him by his slender waist. He always wears a corset. Stop that snickering, because I know what I'm talking about. I used to lace it for him.

"Why, I remember once——" But Lieut. Barry hastily signified he was too busy to listen any longer. Mrs. Dechow gave him a friendly slap on the shoulder and said good-by.

Back in School

Stentorian phrases shrilled forth in a quavering treble by a score of members of the Ohio society at the Medinah Athletic club last night kept hilarity at a high pitch at the second annual McGuffey night of the organization.

Every skit presented in a reproduction of the little old red schoolhouse in the club ballroom was "lifted" from the text of one or the other McGuffey readers many of the actors perused more painfully in the days of their early youth.

Sporting enormous white Buster Brown collars and scarlet or green bow ties with their knicker suits, the school boys proved typically obstreperous under the genial rule of Prof. Charles D. Lowry, district superintendent of schools. Spitballs aimed with precision kept him dodging, the bean shooters apparently were not rusty from lack of practice, and once a liberated mouse on the schoolroom floor made things hum.

Carey Orr, TRIBUNE cartoonist and a native of Lima, O., "was stood in the corner" for his misdemeanors. There he promptly discovered a quantity of red chalk and proceeded to caricature the instructor. Then he demonstrated to the amusement of the audience how he learned to draw animals when he lived on an Ohio farm.

O. G. Williams Jr., son of the founder of the Ohio society, got a big hand when he recited with fervor, "I only wish I'd been here when my pa was a boy—grandpa must have loved his son when my pa was a boy; everything was in its place when my pa was a boy. Gee, what a record there was made when my pa was a boy."

Bus Bering of the Hotel Sherman, Leroy T. Steward, formerly chief of police, A. M. Marquis, Dr. Elmore S. Pettyjohn, and a number of others participated. Their rôles were learned from part of 350 McGuffey readers received by the society when its members advertised for a few of the old text books, expecting to net about fifteen. Copies came from all parts of the country.

Plans to Visit Family; Found Dead; Bottle Near

For two years Frank Vozen, 43 years old, 3005 West 46th street, had planned upon a visit to his wife and children in Ank, Poland, his friends recalled yesterday when his dead body was found on the north bank of the drainage canal at Clifton Park avenue. A half pint bottle, two-thirds full of what police believe to be moonshine, was lying beside the body.

CAPONE WARNED NOT TO MUSCLE IN ON SPAGHETTI

Dealers Ready to War on Gang Element.

"Invasion of the spaghetti manufacturing industry by Sig. Alphonse Capone will not be countenanced," C. J. Pettinger, a macaroni maker, proclaimed at a meeting of trustees of the macaroni manufacturers' association yesterday at the Palmer house.

"Sinister rumors concerning Sig. Capone's plans have reached us," he said. "I hereby serve notice that the vested macaroni makers are willing to cross swords or machine guns with the gangster element to keep him out of business.

Will Run Own Business.

"We intend to carry on our business in the accepted American way. Next year we will spend $1,500,000 to increase the per capita consumption of spaghetti from 6 pounds to 60 pounds, through advertising. Italians consume 60 pounds per capita and we export to Italy, so there is no reason why American housewives can't also become spaghetti conscious. Not by Capone methods, however."

Testimony that Miami Beach property values had decreased and that a "reign of terror" had existed in the region since the coming of Alphonse Capone was offered yesterday during a hearing in Miami on proceedings to padlock the Chicago gangster's estate at Palm island.

Realty Dealer Testifies.

State's Attorney Hawthorne, who started the proceedings, filed a motion for a continuance of the case until Tuesday. Only one witness, Carl G. Fisher, a real estate operator, was heard. He mentioned the name of Harvey Firestone as one of the persons who had objected to Capone's presence in the community. Capone and his wife, a co-respondent, attended the court session.

In Chicago the motion of Ralph Capone, Alphonse's brother, for a new trial following his conviction of defrauding the government out of income taxes, was continued yesterday until May 23 by Federal Judge Lindley. Assistant United States Attorney Jacob Grossman moved for the continuance in the absence from Chicago of Federal Judge Wilkerson, who tried the case.

HANGS SELF IN ATTIC.

Arthur Anderson, 47 years old, 1040 North Lockwood avenue, last night hanged himself in the attic of his home. His body was found by his father, John Anderson, with whom he lived.

CHARLEY SIGHS FOR GUNMEN OF GOOD OLD DAYS

Didn't Shoot Until They Had To, He Says.

BY VIRGINIA GARDNER.

"Times aren't what they used to be. In the old days a criminal took a chance, and he gave the other fellow a chance. He didn't kill until he had to. Nowadays, though, these gangsters are such cowards they won't take a chance. Killing's the first, instead of the last thing they do."

Big Charley speaking. Six feet tall, thinner than he used to be, his shock of gray hair, his jutting eyebrows, gray eyes and beaklike nose give him an air of having known better days, which his need of a shave and his soiled shirt, over which his vest and coat are so carefully buttoned, do not conceal.

Big Charley was picked up on Thursday when he asked a policeman for a dime. He was booked as Joe Burgess, but after his fingerprints had been taken at the detective bureau it was found that he was the once notorious Big Charley, alias John W. Harris, the holdup man; alias J. P. Montague, the burglar and safecracker; alias W. M. St. Clair, suspected of a dozen major bank robberies. He had been wanted for 18 years in connection with a $272,000 safeblowing in a Bank of Montreal branch at New Westminster, B. C.

Greeted by Policemen.

He goes on, occasionally interrupted in his reminiscences in the bureau lockup by a policeman who says, "You Big Charley? Well, how are you, oldtimer?" And often a dollar bill is thrust into his hand.

"There used to be some adventure in crime," Charley said. "But nowadays, when a man goes out with a machine gun, there isn't any. He doesn't give the other fellow a chance to put up his hands. He's worse than an animal—even a rattlesnake gives a warning. I've seen fellows go out on a job without a gun. I've known 'em, in the old days, to get shot, and still, if they're not cornered, if they can escape, leave without using their own gun.

"Take the James boys in Missouri. They didn't do all the things attributed to them. They only did one murder that I know—and it was in a train robbery, when one of 'em was shot. So the other shot the trainman who shot his brother. But they were men of some honor.

"Younger Not a Bad Sort."

"Take the Younger brothers. Cole Younger wasn't a bad sort. He always gave the other fellow a chance. Now, Cherokee Bill, he was different. He was lowdown, and he killed 24 men for no reason. I saw him a dozen times or more—I never liked him. Then Henry Starr—he was a square shooter. But his sister, Belle, she was a tough one. I wouldn't want to get too close to her."

Asked if he was acquainted with the former Judge Parker of Fort Smith, Ark., "the hanging judge" of the old southwest bad lands, who hanged Cherokee Bill, Big Charley said, "Only socially."

"O, I'm not a saint or I wouldn't be here behind the bars. No one here is. Of course, the worst crime's in being caught, but you always get caught. I know it doesn't pay. I knew it before I ever broke the law—that it wouldn't pay.

He's Had "a Lot of Fun."

"But would I do differently if I had it to do over again?" He laughed here. "I don't know. I've had a lot of fun, even if I have gone down. At one time I was worth a half a million. I—er—inherited it.

"I'll say this—I never murdered; I never even hurt any one unless I did it in self-defense, or in defense of a woman."

A policeman interrupted: "I'll bet you've had a girl in every city a fella could name, Charley."

Charley smiled and what may have been a blush suffused his weather-beaten face.

"Well," he said modestly, "every man's had his love affairs. Love is worth living for and worth dying for."

MOURNS OLD DAYS

JOE (BIG CHARLEY) BURGESS

THREE HOLDUPS IN A HALF HOUR; POLICE HUNT 2

Three holdups, believed to have been perpetrated by the same pair of bandits, were reported by Austin residents within a half hour last night.

Howard Young, 7720 Sunset drive, was the first victim of the armed pair. They stopped him as he was driving home at Crawford and Grand avenues, taking his automobile and $35.

Several minutes later Austin Tucker, 4671 Grand avenue, surrendered to the bandits $4 and his watch at Le Moyne and Lavergne avenue. Harry Gill, 5834 Washington boulevard, the third victim, was held at Menard avenue and Washington boulevard. He lost $55 and his watch. Sergt. James Stapleton of Austin station and a squad of detectives were dispatched on the trail of the robbers.

While crowds were passing through the Chicago and North Western railway terminal last evening, a well dressed young man held up the Eltel cafeteria, which was about to close, and compelled the cashier, Miss Emma Sullivan, 4069 Kenmore avenue, to hand him $225. He escaped unnoticed in the crowd. Miss Sullivan told Central police she recognized him as Edward Christian, once her fellow employé in a loop restaurant.

TWO ARRESTED ON WEST COAST FOR BOND THEFT HERE

A woman and a man were under arrest on the Pacific coast last night in connection with the theft of $75,000 in bonds from a safe in the Sheridan View apartments, 7007 Sheridan road, in March, 1929.

Hilda White was arrested in Los Angeles when she attempted to cash coupons from the stolen bonds. The police found her in possession of $25,000 of the bonds and recovered an additional $49,000 from a broker. Miss White said she had been given the bonds by Robert Ravell, who was arrested at once in Spokane, Wash. Ravell, according to dispatches, denied everything and said he would fight extradition.

Ravell, according to Sergt. Andrew Aitken of the detective bureau, answers the description of Louis Arnold, burglar pal of the notorious bond jumper, Max Berman, whom the police suspect of the burglary. Berman, it was reported, is in jail in New York City, and will be returned to Chicago.

NEW DRIVE WILL WIDEN SHERIDAN RD. AT CALVARY

Construction of a drive 20 feet wide, east of Sheridan road, between Calvary cemetery and the lake, in Evanston, will begin this summer, Mayor Charles H. Bartlett of Evanston announced yesterday.

The drive is planned to relieve the Sheridan road bottle neck. It will be used for north bound traffic only. The plans call for a concrete drive 1,600 feet long, a sea wall 1,400 feet long, and a 14 foot parkway between the two drives. The project will cost approximately $150,000 and will be financed by the state department of highways.

Calvary beach, popular with both Chicago and Evanston bathers, will be destroyed to make way for the new drive, Mayor Bartlett said. It is planned to construct a new municipal beach on the outer side of the sea wall as soon after the drive is completed as possible. The first contracts will be let June 1.

CALLS FOR VOTE ON REFRIGERANT BILLS NEXT WEEK

In an effort to end the dispute over adoption of an ordinance for regulation of the installation of mechanical refrigerators Ald. Terence F. Moran [16th], chairman of the council health committee, said yesterday that he will call a meeting of his group before next Thursday. A vote will be taken then on the three proposed ordinances which have been considered by the committee, according to Ald. Moran.

"The committee has all the facts that are necessary for the recommendation of an ordinance to the council," said Ald. Moran. "I have wished to settle the matter before, but members of the committee have requested additional information that has resulted in delays. I will call for a vote on the ordinances before Thursday."

The health department and the boiler inspection department have submitted ordinances which would keep supervision of the installation work in their departments.

SAYS NEW YORK GRAFT THROWS CHICAGO IN SHADE

Latest Scandal Blamed on Tammany Greed.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, May 16.—[Special.]—With three major graft investigations under way, all involving Tammany Hall, and with the reverberations of that same "purely benevolent" organization's numerous past misdeeds still echoing through city politics, Father Knickerbocker again is up to his knees in municipal scandal.

Counting Tammany's grabs one by one this afternoon, Meier Steinbrink, Brooklyn Republican leader, told THE TRIBUNE:

"Any political grafting that Chicago may have encountered is only child's play when compared to Tammany's present greed."

Taking them in the order of their importance, the scandal in the board of estimate and appeals comes first. A federal grand jury and state agencies are conducting semi-public investigations in an effort to learn whether fees amounting to thousands of dollars received by Dr. William F. Doyle, former veterinary, for services before the board have been split with public officials. Mayor James J. Walker has also announced he will conduct a private investigation.

Subpoenas for Seventy.

Mrs. Lottie Cutler, whose testimony before a New Jersey referee in bankruptcy led to federal and state investigations here of her charges she had paid $10,000 to Dr. Doyle and "other persons" for a permit for a gasoline station in Jamaica, L. I., was before the grand jury for more than an hour, but failed to name the "other persons." United States Attorney Charles H. Tuttle immediately issued subpoenas for seventy other "clients" of the former horse doctor.

These witnesses will be questioned before the grand jury Monday and there may develop a new charge against Doyle involving his last income tax report. Mr. Tuttle also revealed that he is to look over the income tax returns of others besides Doyle and William E. Walsh, head of the board of standards and appeals. Mr. Tuttle referred to "public officials" who might be found the recipients of "split-fees."

Walsh Fails to Appear.

In the state investigation District Attorney Thomas C. T. Crain has been prodding Walsh for information concerning Doyle's method of always satisfying his customers. Walsh was supposed to visit Mr. Crain this afternoon and say whether or not he would waive immunity and testify before a grand jury. He did not appear, it was announced at the prosecutor's office, and Mr. Crain said he considered this as "tending to incriminate Walsh and to broaden the scope of the inquiry." The prosecutor said he was interested in other persons than Doyle who may have appeared in "twenty-five or more cases before the board."

Mr. Crain did not name any one else, but it is known that the law firm of McCooey & Conroy, McCooey being John H. McCooey jr., the son of the Brooklyn Democratic leader, has had numerous cases before the board in the last year.

County Judge Is Named.

The second scandal in Tammany circles that is puzzling investigators concerns the nature of undisclosed services which netted County Judge W. Bernard Vause fees aggregating $250,000 for negotiating leases of two city owned piers to the United American steamship line.

Both Mr. Crain and Mr. Tuttle busied themselves this afternoon searching into the reason why Judge Vause should have obtained such a fee. Judge Vause already is under federal grand jury indictment with nine others for mail fraud in the Columbia Finance corporation case. The finance case was reopened yesterday in order that five witnesses whose testimony tended to exonerate Judge Vause in the original investigation might be heard again. They have expressed a desire to modify their testimony.

"My efforts in this case," said Mr. Crain, "will be to trace the moneys which came from the United American lines and to learn through whose hands they passed for purposes of determining whether or not they were paid out by that company for any legal purpose, or in part paid out by Judge Vause for any legal purpose."

Tax Returns Compared.

The federal investigation affects the income tax returns of Judge Vause which, it is said, do not show such a large "fee."

The third Tammany man in the toils of the courts is Edwin J. Cooley, who resigned as chief of the general sessions probation bureau. He is under indictment for falsification of the bureau's pay rolls. Supreme Court Justice Albert Cohn has been named to preside at his trial, which will be begun in about three weeks. The indictments against Cooley grew out of salary payments made to his sister, Mrs. Marguerite F. Lawler, last fall when she was provisional chief clerk of the bureau at the same time she was employed as a teacher in Buffalo.

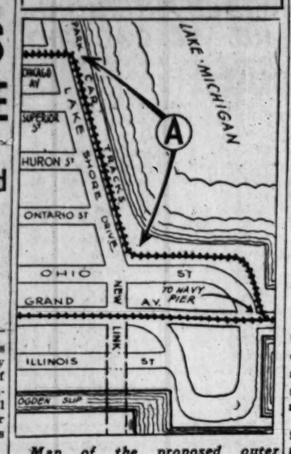
"This talk of a new and cleaner Tammany cannot get very far," said Mr. Steinbrink this afternoon, "when one considers the corruption it now is fostering. If Tammany is clean today I certainly would hate to see it in its former state. Why, I can recall three borough presidents of Queens that have been removed from office, and Maurice Connolly, the latest to go out under a very, very dark cloud, has just entered jail.

Opportunity for Republicans.

"The speakers in our campaign this year will have plenty to talk about. In addition to Connolly and the present scandals there is the recent resignation of Judge Mancuso under fire in the City Trust bank failure; while Magistrate Albert H. Vitale was removed from the bench for his association with criminals and the widespread inefficiency in the magistrate's courts."

"This is a time of opportunity," continued the Republican leader," for a real cleanup. The Republican party in New York can put a stop to Tammany's corruption. The governor of New York has listened to the voice of Tammany. The mayor works hand in hand with Tammany. The wrongdoings of Tammany are heavy in every borough. I do not believe the people will permit it to continue."

Tracks Cause Clash



Map of the proposed outer drive link bridge approach, showing how Chicago Surface Line tracks leading from Chicago avenue to the Municipal pier along the Lake Shore drive will cross the drive near the bridge. The Lincoln park board insists the tracks will create a bottle neck, the Surface Lines officials that they will not interfere with traffic. The Grand avenue surface line tracks shown will be depressed under the drive bridge approach and will be no obstacle.

SANITARY BOARD CONTRACTS READ TO SPECIAL JURY

The special grand jury conducting the renewed sanitary district investigation spent yesterday in listening to Assistant State's Attorney Jo Calvin Webb read contracts entered into by the district with contracting concerns. First Assistant State's Attorney Northup announced that the introduction of this documentary evidence is preliminary to expected testimony of witnesses to show that fraud existed in connection with some of the contracts.

U. S. NAVY BOARD CONDEMNS PACT AS PERIL IN WAR

Bristol Says Japan Could Beat Us.

upon tonnage for categories, with each nation concerned exercising its sovereign right to utilize this tonnage to build ships best suited to her fleet and her national security.

"It is necessary to specify the maximum size of the units in each category and the caliber of guns in order to reasonably restrict the type of ship design, but any further restriction is totally unfair and unjust."

Questioned About Japan.

After the statement had been read Senator Johnson asked Admiral Bristol whether the treaty gives us parity within the definition of the board.

"No," replied the admiral.

"What effect would the giving of an increased ratio to Japan have on the United States?"

"If any difficulties arose between the United States and Japan that led to war, the United States would have to invade Japanese waters, on the principle that the best defense is a decided offensive."

"She could not bring war to us, could she?"

"She could not."

"Then our nation would be safe, would it not?"

"Our nation would be safe," Rear Admiral Bristol replied, "but we would lose the war. You do not have to invade a country to be successful in war."

In response to questions as to what the United States would do in the case the Philippines were lost at the beginning of a war with Japan, Rear Admiral Bristol said the navy would be sent to win them back.

Elaborates His Views.

Referring to his statement that Japan would be better off under the treaty in any war around the Philippines, Rear Admiral Bristol said:

"In view of the fact that Japan would be operating in her own waters, we would have to have a very much larger proportion of cruisers to operate in those same waters, on account of the distance we would have to operate. The 5-3 ratio, if we operate in Japanese waters, becomes 5-5 plus. Japan now has an advantage in her home waters. It is increased under the treaty."

The cross-examination of Rear Admirals Bristol and Jones by Senators David A. Reed [Rep., Pa.] and Joseph T. Robinson [Dem., Ark.], two of the American delegates who negotiated the treaty, was the most vigorous of the investigation. The two senators attempted to show that the general board itself as long ago as last August had informed the President of their willingness to accept as few as twenty-one 8 inch gun cruisers and to add five of the 6 inch gun ships, criticized as of little use to the United States, to the American fleet.

Rear Admiral Jones admitted that the memorandum had been approved by the board, but caused a mild sensation with the statement that the board had acted reluctantly. The rear admiral asserted that at all times the board wanted twenty-three 8 inch gun cruisers, had reluctantly accepted twenty-one as a final concession, and had set twenty-one as the lowest possible minimum.

Tonight Chairman Frederick Hale [Rep., Me.] of the senate naval affairs committee, which also is conducting an investigation of the treaty, stated he was convinced pressure had been brought on the board and that he intended to go to the bottom of the matter and find out if the admirals on the board had been coerced. He asserted confidence that only administration pressure had forced the concession.

Jones Answers Reed.

Admiral Jones was closely questioned by Senator Reed.

"The London treaty falls short only by three cruisers of the big gun cruisers asked by the general board, does it not?"

"It means," replied Jones, "that we substitute, for three units suitable to us, several units not of the same value."

"In accepting two types," Jones continued, "we have violated the

NAVY REDUCTION PACT TO COST U. S. BILLION FOR NEW WARSHIPS

Washington, D. C., May 16.—[Special.]—Statistics introduced in the record at the naval hearings before the senate foreign relations committee today disclose that the cost to this country of completing all ships necessary to bring the pact up to date by Dec. 31, 1936, would be $1,031,324,250. If to this is added $42,251,625 that would be expended on that date on four cruisers and three submarines, not completed, but which the United States could lay down under the treaty, the total cost is raised to $1,073,575,875. Sixteen 8 inch gun cruisers would be completed under the treaty by 1936.

In case it is decided not to replace all old destroyers and submarines as they become obsolete under the treaty, the board set the cost at 989 million dollars by Dec. 31, 1936.

The table below outlines the costs for all ships actually to be completed Dec. 31, 1936, if the United States builds every ship it is entitled to build under the pact:

Class—	Tons.	Cost per ton.	Total cost.
8 in. cruisers.	180,000	$1,700	$ 272,000,000
6 in. cruisers.	73,000	1,855	135,415,000
Destroyers	150,000	2,790	418,500,000
Submarines ..	32,710	3,375	110,396,250
Aircft carriers	69,000	1,377	95,013,000
Total	467,000	.....	$1,031,324,250

stand persistently maintained since 1926. By this treaty we would put ourselves in a trap in 1935. While others would have freedom to build different cruiser types, we would have nothing to build, if a readjustment was made prior to 1944 or later. That would leave us in bad shape. Great Britain would have 86,000 tons which she can begin laying down in 1934.

"In fact," Jones continued, "Britain under article 19 of the three power treaty can begin replacing 6 inch gun units with 8 inch gun units, if she so desires, as early as 1934. There is nothing in the treaty to prevent this. If we build up to the treaty limits we will have a navy built up in units some of which we do not want. We need the 8 inch gun vessels. They are vital."

Bristol Turns Critic.

Asked if he had indorsed the board memorandums Admiral Bristol said:

"That recommendation is based upon the fact that the general board was trying to give what could be considered its maximum concession for the purpose of arriving at an agreement. It was a maximum concession to prevent failure at the last moment.

"I object to the principle of dividing cruisers into two categories and limiting us in building 8 inch. We said that under no circumstances should the United States go below twenty-one 8 inch gun cruisers and we said the tonnage should be 315,000 tons.

2 ARE KILLED IN AUTO SMASH, ONE VILLAGE TRUSTEE

Melrose Park Police Car Hit by Truck.

Lawrence Ellguth, 35 years old, a village trustee of Melrose Park, and editor of the Melrose Parker, a weekly newspaper, was killed in a collision between two automobiles and a truck at 19th avenue and Washington boulevard in Maywood yesterday. Carl Backus, 52 years old, 402 South 6th avenue, Maywood, also was killed in the accident. Two Melrose Park policemen, Rocco Passarella, 33 years old, and Edward Renkus, 50 years old, were cut and bruised. Ellguth lived at 1015 North 14th avenue, Melrose Park.

Passerella and Renkus were en route to the Criminal Courts building in a police car to testify in a gun case. Backus and Ellguth were passengers. According to witnesses, the police car was traveling at a high rate of speed when it was struck by an automobile driven by John Gungle, 33 years old, 214 Eastern avenue, Bellwood. The impact threw the police car into the path of a large truck.

Driver Free on Bonds.

Backus and Ellguth died in the Westlake hospital, Melrose Park, a few hours after the accident. Gungle was arrested and released on bond.

James Novak, 7 years old, 2208 West 13th street, was killed last night when he was struck by a truck while crossing 13th street at South Leavitt street. He died at the county hospital, where he was taken by a motorist. Hanson Smith, 1103 Frank street, driver of the truck, told police the boy ran in front of the truck.

Toll Raised to 324.

These three deaths yesterday raised the 1930 county motor toll to 324.

Eric Lindahl, 20 years old, 210 East State street, Geneva, Ill., was killed yesterday when a milk truck he was driving was struck by a Chicago, Aurora and Elgin interurban at the Dodson road crossing, east of Geneva. The truck was dragged 225 feet.

140 CONSERVATIVE M. P.'S PLEDGE TO CONDEMN TREATY

[Copyright: 1930: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, May 16.—One hundred and forty of the 260 Conservative members of the house of commons have signed a paper signifying their determination to support a motion to condemn the naval treaty.

This move, however, is regarded as a protest against former Premier Stanley Baldwin as much as it is against the treaty. The rebels resent his refusal, as their party leader, to move a vote of censure against the Labor government on account of the treaty and his refusal in yesterday's naval debate in the house of commons to assume party responsibility for Winston Churchill's condemnation of the results of the naval conference.

There now exists within the parliamentary group of Conservatives as sharp a factional division over navy matters as there is in the party generally throughout the country over the Beaverbrook plan for tariff barriers against the world and taxes on imported foods.

MEASLES EPIDEMIC IN WAUKEGAN.

A measles epidemic has broken out in Waukegan, the city health officer, Dr. Howard C. Hoag, admitted yesterday. Thirty-eight cases are under observation, 14 having been reported in the last two days among pupils of the West public school, Dr. Hoag said.

[Copyright: 1930: By the New York Times.]

BUENOS AIRES, May 16.—The Argentine League for Universal Peace has awarded three peace medals, one to Frank B. Kellogg, former American secretary of state, for his initiative which led to the Kellogg-Briand pact for outlawing war; one to Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald of Great Britain for his initiative in favor of diminishing naval armaments, and one to José Guggiari, president of Paraguay, whose arbitrable attitude prevented a South American war.

RITAIN BALKS AT RIAND PLAN FOR S. OF EUROPE

Fears Scheme Would Drag In Her Dominions.

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, May 16.—Advance copies of Aristide Briand's plan for a united ...ope of Europe, which have reached London, have been carefully studied by British statesmen. All who have seen it hold the opinion that the French foreign minister's plan will have to be radically changed before it is acceptable to Great Britain.

One feature which makes it unacceptable to Great Britain is a provision that the membership of the new united states be restricted to European powers who are members of the league of nations. This would automatically include the British dominions which are members of the league. This alone would make it impossible for Great Britain to join, as the British commonwealth of nations is much more important to her than any European federation could be.

Sees Loss of Sovereignty.

M. Briand also wants his new united states to govern the relations of the member states with those states outside of the union. This is contrary to all British ideas of national sovereignty, and is never likely to be accepted.

The clause providing for a permanent federation, with headquarters at Geneva, is also unacceptable, both because it means the constitution of a superstate and because it seems designed to overshadow the league of nations, with the new body of French creation and presumably under French influence.

In principle, Great Britain is not opposed to some form of European unity, but she will resist any attempt to bring her into a superstate where her sovereign rights as a nation are overshadowed.

M National eGt Questionnaire.

PARIS, May 16.—(AP)—A 6,000 word questionnaire and outline of the proposed constitution of M. Briand's "European Federal Union" will be delivered to the governments of the 26 members of the league of nations tomorrow. All other nations of the world, including Russia, will receive copies later.

The copy to the United States of America already has gone forward by mail and, it was announced, probably would arrive in Washington on Monday. The complete text of the proposition will be given out by the French foreign office tomorrow afternoon.

M. Briand's plan is for an economic federation in Europe which would permit commerce between various countries such as that enjoyed by the 48 American commonwealths.

Many European statesmen have long worked for an agreement which would knock down the tariff walls that now interfere with commerce between European states. Differences of language, in race, in monetary system, in tariffs, and even in the gauge of railways have, in their opinion, prevented the old and historic European nations from keeping up with the economic progress attained by their younger brother across the Atlantic.

Not Aimed at U. S.

It is emphasized that while an economic agreement is sought, the proposed federation will not be hostile to the United States.

The aim of the questionnaire is to obtain the official views of all the governments, and it probably will suggest a conference soon to work out a plan.

The idea is far from new. Henry IV of France suggested such a federation in 1603, and it was supported by Queen Elizabeth of England, but Henry's death ended the project. In 1918 Charles, duke of Lorraine, tackled the problem by suggesting a union of thirteen countries. Others who favored such a plan were the Abbe St. Pierre, a French priest; Jean Jacques Rousseau, French revolutionary writer, and Immanuel Kant, the great German philosopher.

Scores Shot as Rioters Battle Police in India; Liquor Stores Destroyed by Mob

CALCUTTA, India, May 16.—Serious clashes have occurred in two sections of Bengal which will probably result in drastic action on the part of the authorities to check the movement, which in some localities has been traced to communist influences.

Nearly 100 persons were wounded when police fired on a crowd at Mymensingh, 200 miles northeast of Calcutta, last Wednesday, according to dispatches just released by the censor. Another fracas occurred at Debra, southwest of this city.

At Mymensingh excise venders who were removing liquors and opium from the customs warehouse to retail shops were attacked. The mob broke open the liquor barrels and burned the carts. Of the wounded, 53 were taken to hospitals, 33 with gunshot wounds. The magistrate, the police chief and 33 other police were wounded by the rioters, who were armed.

Try to Halt Parade.

Police at Debra were led by the magistrate in an endeavor to prevent a parade, which had been forbidden. They were fired upon and returned the fire. There were more than 30 casualties.

The chiefs of the khans in the northwest province are appealing to the Moslems to withdraw from tribal activities, alleging that national congress leaders there are in the pay of communists. There is evidence that an increasing communist inspiration is behind most of the troubles along the northern border of India.

The prisoners taken as a result of the disobedience campaign are so numerous that there is some talk of interning them in the Andaman islands until the movement is checked. The prisons in many regions will hold no more captives.

The courts also are taking stern action against lawyers failing to attend upon hartal [cessation of work] days. Officials of county and municipal boards are resigning in great numbers throughout India, being unsympathetic with the government's stand.

The Delhi Mercantile association has cabled the chambers of commerce of England, Germany, France, Belgium, Switzerland, Italy, and Austria that all piece goods contracts are canceled and not to make further shipments.

Poetess Abandons Raid.

BOMBAY, India, May 26.—(AP)—Two women today held in their hands the destinies of millions of India's native population. They are Mrs. Sarojini Naidu and her sister-in-law, Mrs. Kamaladevi Chattopadhyaya, leaders of Mahatma Gandhi's civil resistance movement.

Mrs. Naidu spent a day sitting in the hot and dusty Dharsana roadway until, in a truce with the police, she and her salt raiding comrades withdrew from the scene.

SCENE OF RIOTS

There was no such happy ending to the exploit of Mrs. Chattopadhyaya. She was arrested this morning and sentenced to nine months and two weeks imprisonment for her salt raid in another quarter.

The "war council" of the Bombay Workers' Congress today declared the proposed raid on the Madala Salt works on Sunday would be carried out.

Early today the home of an officer in charge of the Howrah police was bombed while he and his family slept. The house was damaged but the occupants escaped injury.

Rush Salt Pans.

Civil resistance volunteers raided the Dharsana salt pans, in spite of Mrs. Naidu's arrest. Taking the police off guard this evening, 100 Hindus rushed the pans. Nine persons were injured.

Mrs. Naidu tonight declared the authorities had been courteous to her during her arrest this morning.

"The authorities tried to dissuade me from staying in the road under such unfavorable conditions," she said. "but I said I would not go back and so I and my followers were marched out of the cordon and asked to go away."

Commissioner Garrett of the northern division was said to have told Mrs. Naidu: "Your place is at the roundtable conference in London, not on the Dharsana road or at the salt pans."

Plans New Raid Today.

Mrs. Naidu rested at Untadi camp here with her followers tonight preparatory to another attempt at raiding the Dharsana salt deposits tomorrow. Mrs. Naidu this time will remain in the camp and direct the operations of the volunteers from a distance.

A probable further complication today arose when the chief commissioner of Peshawar wired Pandit Malaviya, congress leader, that he and his followers must not enter Peshawar. They had been ordered into Peshawar with relief supplies for members of the congress who were victims of the prolonged conflict in that district recently.

Sholapur Mills Reopen.

Sholapur advices said all the mills in that large textile community reopened this forenoon without incident. Shops throughout the city, which is still under martial law, were reopening. Ten more arrests were made today, including four persons who were charged with being ringleaders in the recent riots in which about a score of persons were killed.

It was understood in liberal quarters today that an early move may be expected from the government to open negotiations with Mahatma Gandhi for settlement of the serious situation.

The all-India national congress bulletin was published today in defiance of a government prohibition of its publication for two months. The news vendors were arrested for hawking it. The leading story in the issue was an account of the government order prohibiting its publication. It appeared under the heading, "Bombay Presidency of the Congress Committee Takes Up Government Challenge."

The bulletin announced determination to continue publication despite the order.

Cotton Men Urge Peace.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, May 16.—The Lancashire cotton manufacturers are bringing pressure to bear on their Liberal members in parliament to urge the Labor government to come to an early settlement with India. It is reported that they have informed the members of parliament that if a settlement is not reached by June 15, ten of the largest mills working for the India market must close and before July 1,000,000 cotton operatives will be added to the long list of the unemployed.

Asks Prayers for India.

LONDON, May 16.—(AP)—The archbishop of Canterbury today issued a request that prayers be made for India on Rogation Sunday, May 25.

Moscow Eyes Situation.

RIGA, Latvia, May 16.—Prospects of converting the "impending collapse of British imperialism in India" into a civil class war and subsequent communistic dictatorship was, reports received here said, a prominent subject in deliberations of the plenary conference of the all-soviet young Communist league, which opened in the Kremlin, Moscow, yesterday. Speakers declared that India and China were the most satisfactory fronts in the Communist International's war against capitalism.

The less you pay for anything, the less you usually get.

Perfectly reasonable!—yet how many people buy low-priced coffees and expect to get high class flavor.

It can't be done! Unusual flavor comes only with time and care, and time and care cost money.

ZONING RULE FOR N. MICHIGAN AVE. SPURRED GROWTH

Values Bound Upward with Small Shops Only.

A principal factor in the rapid growth of realty values on upper Michigan avenue during the last ten years was a restriction agreement by ninety per cent of the property owners affected, it was stated yesterday by Frederick M. Bowes, real estate operator, in recalling the tenth anniversary of the opening of the Michigan boulevard link bridge. Ten years ago Tuesday the bridge was first thrown open to traffic.

The restriction agreement operated to bar from the principal thoroughfare of the near north side from the Chicago river to Chicago avenue, every kind of retail business save small shops, said Mr. Bowes, who was a member of the committee which brought the agreement about. The other two members were Arthur L. Farwell, the chairman, and Murray Wolbach.

Volume Follows Small Shops.

"We concluded that business volume always follows small shops," he said, "and the results have amply justified our judgment. Consequently, we aimed to bar such cumbrous establishments as auto salesrooms, undertaking parlors, gas stations, and the like."

Mr. Bowes pointed to the huge structures now lining each side of the avenue within the restricted zone and visible from the windows of his office at 664 North Michigan avenue as the result, partly, of the wisdom of the pioneers in the district in putting up the bars against all but small shopkeepers.

Property on the avenue in 1918, when the new growth was just beginning, sold for between $11 and $20 a square foot, while the latest quotations are between $75 and $100 a square foot, Mr. Bowes pointed out.

Plan Restrictions Farther North.

"Steps are now being taken to bind by a similar restriction agreement property holders along the avenue from Chicago avenue to Oak street," he said. "So successful did the idea work out that other cities are taking note of it."

The plan has been studied recently by civic leaders of St. Louis, Mo., Mr. Bowes revealed.

President Tyler's Home Is Damaged by Fire

NEIMOTH, COURT STAY IN POCKET, DEFIES POLICE

Gangster Seized, but Balks Extradition.

CRIMINAL COURT.

Edward Kowalski, robbery, sentenced to 1 year to life in the penitentiary by Judge Walter P. Steffen.

Walter Zucker, confidence game, sentenced to 1 to 10 years in the penitentiary by Judge E. I. Frankhauser.

William Neimoth, lieutenant in the Saltis beer running gang, was found yesterday by the police. He had been sought by Deputy Commissioner John Stege in the hope that when he was found that the police would be able to place him immediately on a train for Baltimore.

The gangster for three years has been dodging the Baltimore authorities, who want him for a pay roll robbery committed in that city. Neimoth laughed when Sergt. John Roza and his squad picked him up at 48th street and Justine avenue, and the police soon discovered the reason. Neimoth pulled from his pocket a notice from Justice Frank K. Dunn of the Supreme court showing that the Illinois courts have not yet finally decided to turn him over to the Baltimore authorities.

Wins Stay for Rehearing.

A petition for a rehearing on the extradition case begun by Assistant State's Attorney Q. J. Chott and Deputy Stege and decided against Neimoth last month by the Supreme court, is the legal means used for the present stay.

As a result of the stay, which was issued on May 10, Neimoth will not have to fear the Baltimore authorities, at least until some time in June. The court does not meet again until then.

"Stay away from me; you can't pinch me," said the gangster to the members of the police squad as they surrounded him.

"We can't? We will," replied Sergt. Roza. "We are going to put you on the first train for Baltimore."

"Think you are?" Neimoth retorted. "Read this little document and then change your mind." He drew the Supreme court stay order from his pocket.

Taken to Detective Bureau.

"Well, it does look as though maybe you have us licked again for the time being, but this order does not say that we cannot toss you into our jail for the night," replied Sergt. Roza.

Neimoth was taken to the detective bureau, where Stege said a special showup would be arranged for the gangster. Neimoth was asked about the recent murder of John [Dingbat] Oberta.

"Say, that rap [complaint] is all wet," he replied. "Dingy and I were great friends."

Neimoth admitted his connections with Joe Saltis, and said that the gang leader was "his banker." It was Saltis who obtained for Neimoth the $10,000 bond under which he is now at liberty.

Chott to Ask Bond Increase.

Prosecutor Chott said there is nothing he can do about Neimoth now except to ask Justice De Young to increase the bond pending the rehearing. He will do this today, he said.

In the meantime the Baltimore authorities were notified that they would have another wait before they can take Neimoth to their city to stand trial for the $47,500 pay roll robbery of the Sonneborn Clothing company in 1926.

GRAF ZEPPELIN OFF TOMORROW ON OCEAN HOP

Will Carry 62 Persons to South America.

FRIEDRICHSHAFEN, Germany, May 16.—(AP)—The Graf Zeppelin's first attempt to cross the equator and reach South America will begin Sunday some time between 4 p. m. and 9 p. m., if weather permits.

The first lap of the journey will be to Seville, Spain, which the Graf expects to reach late Monday by way of Lyons, Marseilles and Gibraltar. A mooring mast has been erected at the Spanish city. After an all night stay, the great ship will nose out over the Atlantic Tuesday morning for the flight to Pernambuco, Brazil.

Will Carry 20 Passengers.

On the first lap the Zeppelin will carry 22 passengers. Of these, six will go only to Seville, where four others will be taken aboard in their places, bringing the total for the trans-Atlantic and trans-Equatorial flight to 20, besides the 42 officers and men of the crew. From Pernambuco to Havana and Lakehurst, N. J., there will be 19 passengers.

Zeppelin officials say that among the passengers will be six North Americans, three Latin Americans, five Germans and six Spaniards.

Some of Passengers.

It is learned that on the passenger list will be the following:

Corpus Barga, representing La Nacion of Buenos Aires; Gustav Kauder, representing the Ullstein papers of Germany; Karl von Wiegand; Lady Grace Drummond-Hay; Martin Wronsky, director of the German Luftbansa; Dr. Jeronimo Meglas, physician to the king of Spain; Federico Garcia Sanchiz, Spanish author.

It is understood that besides Lady Grace Drummond-Hay there will be two other women aboard with their husbands, one of whom is reported to be the wife of an American marine engineer. It is reported also that the Spanish aviation commander, Herrera, will be a passenger.

Dr. Hugo Eckener, commander of the Zeppelin, explained that he was allowing a latitude of five hours for the start on the ground that he must be governed by visibility. Should the day be cloudy he will start at 4 p. m. Sunday in order that he may fly over the dangerous weather zone around Besancon, France, in daylight. On the other hand, should clear weather be reported along the route to Seville, he will wait until 9 p. m., as the temperature will be lower then.

Will Carry Water Ballast.

"In Seville I expect to be able to add more blau gas [the fuel gas of the big dirigible], for Seville lies much lower than Friedrichshafen," Dr. Eckner said. "That will enable me to increase my useful load by five to ten tons. This is important, for as a precaution I will take five ton of water ballast which we may need in case heavy cloudbursts in the equatorial rain zone should weigh the airship down too heavily."

The Graf Zeppelin will carry enough fuel to assure it a cruising range of 120 hours. The big ship is insured for $768,000, and life insurance on the crew totals $360,000.

"Brains" of Red Outlaws of China Raided by Police

SHANGHAI, China, May 16.—(AP)—Tons of Russian communistic propaganda were seized in Amoy today in raids by foreign police in the foreign settlement. Fukien province authorities believed that three houses raided were the headquarters for Red activities in the province and possibly all of South China. They hoped that disclosure of the communistic plans would enable the nationalist government to take measures to suppress the depredations and wholesale slaughter which Red armies have inflicted for several months upon the populace of Fukien, Kiangsi and Kwangtung provinces.

Russian participation in the communistic organization of China was considered established by the raid, as among the documents confiscated was a mass of Russian communistic literature which was being translated into Chinese. A printing press was seized and papers containing the future plans of the Reds in southern China.

Fear Brigand Attacks.

Raids by bandit armies in central provinces and Red propaganda in southern provinces continued today to plague China. Fears were expressed by Chinese provincial officials that brigands who have been savagely raiding towns within 20 miles of Hankow would attack the city and the neighboring cities of Wuchang and Hanyang, most important cities of central China, whose population numbers more than 1,000,000.

Among reports of today's banditry was a dispatch stating that on April 23, bandits had massacred 15,000 inhabitants of the town of Yungyang in Honan.

The customs authorities here today posted a notice prohibiting importation of silver coins and exportation of gold bars. This caused a flutter in the exchanges and heavy buying of sterling.

Plan to Bomb Changchow.

PEIPING, China, May 16.—(AP)—A great battle which has been raging between the forces of the Nanking government and the northern alliance today was passing into its major phase. The Nanking government today announced its intention of bombing Chengchow by air. Chengchow's foreign interests have been warned to depart.

Ratify Japanese Treaty.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SHANGHAI, May 16.—After a legislative fight lasting a week and threatening to cause the resignation of C. T. Wang, foreign minister, the Nationalist government today ratified the Chinese-Japanese tariff treaty, thus obtaining for the first time in more than eight years a complete and legal customs autonomy.

DRAG NEGRO'S BODY THROUGH STREET; BURN IT

Honeygrove, Tex., May 16.—(AP)—Angered over the slaying of E. F. Fortenberry, 50 year old land owner, several hundred persons late today snatched the bullet scarred body of George Johnson, 30 year old Negro, from a cabin where he had been slain in an exchange of shots with a sheriff's posse and dragged it in front of a Negro church, where it was burned.

The mob had tied the body to a motor truck, dragging it two miles and circling the business district a few times before reaching the Negro section of the city. No attempt was made to molest other Negroes.

Honeygrove is about 50 miles east of Sherman, Tex., where a week ago a mob burned the Grayson county courthouse, causing the death of George Hughes, 41 year old Negro, charged with attacking a white woman.

WHALEN CALLS ON WALKER, BUT FAILS TO RESIGN

New York, May 16.—[Special.]—Grover Whalen, police commissioner and official glad hander of the city administration, went down to the city hall this afternoon and saw Mayor "Jimmy" Walker for an hour in his office—and he didn't resign.

Thus, for the second time, the pronouncement of a "high authority"—an administration mouthpiece who ranks with Washington's own White House spokesman—that the police commissioner would quit at once, fell as flat as a pricked toy balloon.

For earlier today, when Mr. Walker, tanned and smiling after a vacation in Bermuda, strolled into his office, it was confidently asserted Mr. Whalen was to go.

REVEAL EXODUS FROM INDUSTRIAL WARDS OF CITY

Census Shows Increases in Residential Areas.

Chicago's population is moving out toward the rim of the city. This was pointed out by 1930 census figures for the wards made public yesterday. They showed small increases and in some cases decreases in industrial sections, while the residential wards showed large increases.

The seventh ward, which includes the large south side residential section, showed an increase in population of more than 100 per cent over the figure given for the ward in the survey made in 1921, after the redistricting of wards. The seventh ward is bounded by 67th street, Stony Island avenue, 31st street and the lake.

Population of Wards.

The figures for the wards as compared with the 1921 survey follow:

1st	31,444	51,523
2nd	60,146	61,373
7th	114,908	57,346
20th-43d	54,819	52,019
29th-48th	58,122	59,762

The estimated decrease of 20,079 in the population of the First ward, which includes the loop, was attributed to the gradual movement of population outward from the center of the city. Frederick A. Kuhlman, census supervisor for the 29th district, said. The loop ward is bounded by the Chicago river on the north and west and by 39th street, 25th street, 31st street, Wentworth avenue, 26th street, and the lake.

The Fourth, Twenty-eighth, and Twenty-fourth wards are growing in industrial activity, according to Henry A. Porter and John R. Malmquist, the census supervisors who enumerated these districts.

Figures for Suburbs.

A corrected tabulation of the population of Park Ridge and the census figures for three other northern suburban communities, together with the figures of 10 years ago, follows:

	1930.	1921.
Park Ridge	10,396	3,283
Evanston township	2,276	1,418
Glencoe	2,116	1,210
Winnetka	2,136	1,258

END HEARING ON ILLINOIS PROJECT FOR WATERWAY

Washington, D. C., May 16.—[Special]—Hearings on the Illinois waterway project were ended today before a senate commerce committee with supporters hopeful that they can break down the filibuster threatened against the entire rivers and harbors bill and obtain enactment of the legislation before the close of the present session.

The committee will meet in executive session on Monday to consider the controversies over the Chicago water diversion proviso of the Illinois waterway authorization and the proposition for taking over the New York state barge canal. It is believed likely that the bill will be reported to the senate by the end of next week, without any material modification in the Chicago diversion proviso.

Whether the bill already approved by the house will be passed by the senate before congress adjourns a month or six weeks hence depends upon whether it can be disposed of without extended debate. Sponsors of the Illinois waterway now seem confident that if Senator A. H. Vandenberg [Rep., Mich.] attempts a filibuster, as he has threatened to do, it will not last long.

Stenographer in Loop Robbed of $675 Ring

Miss Anne Plotnick, 23 years old, stenographer in the offices of Attorney Acel B. Kretske at 166 West Jackson boulevard, lost her $675 engagement ring to a pair of robbers yesterday. Miss Plotnick was alone when the pair entered, inquired for the lawyer, and, informed he was out, drew guns. She handed over the ring, given her a month ago by her fiancé, Isaac Levy, 1450 North Washtenaw avenue. Miss Plotnick lives at 1510 North Maplewood avenue.

JOHNNY STANTON.

Johnny Pershing Stanton, 10 years old, is expected to return here this morning following his failure yesterday to catch a boat for France upon which his stepfather and his mother, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Berry, sailed. Mrs. Elizabeth O'Boyle of Fox Lake, in whose home Johnny has lived most of his life, said she had received a telegram from him in New York saying he was taking a train for Chicago.

Mrs. O'Boyle was the first to learn of the boy's plight in New York. After missing the boat because he stopped to buy some candy Johnny called her over long distance telephone on Thursday. She directed him to seek the aid of the nearest policeman. Johnny's mother, a Parisian girl, became the bride in 1918 of Joseph Stanton, an American doughboy. His parents separated shortly after Johnny was born. The boy went to live with Mrs. O'Boyle and his mother later married Berry.

CLOSE CONTEST FOR GOVERNOR IN OREGON PRIMARY

Portland, Ore., May 16.—(AP)—Returns from 136 precincts out of 1911 in today's primary election gave State Senator George Joseph, Republican, 3,974 votes for the gubernatorial nomination. Votes for other Republican candidates were: Gov. A. W. Norblad, 3,350; State Senator Harry Corbett, 3,118; State Senator Charles Hall, 713; J. E. Bennett, 318; John A. Jeffry, 169.

Edward F. Bailey led the Democratic field with 651 votes. George W. Wilbur had polled 593; Ed S. Piper, 222; and A. S. Hough, 142.

United States Senator Charles L. McNary will be the Republican nominee in the November election, as he had no opposition.

WEST FRANKFORT PASSES CAIRO IN CENSUS COUNT

Now Principal City in "Little Egypt."

Harrisburg, Ill., May 16.—(AP)—Complete census returns from the larger cities in the section of southern Illinois known as "Little Egypt" show that West Frankfort has gone ahead of Cairo as the largest city in the district.

West Frankfort has a population of 14,690, a gain of 6,312, or 43 per cent, over the 1920 census. Cairo suffered a loss of 1,620 and dropped into second place with 13,583. Centralia is third with 12,449, with a gain of 68 inhabitants, and Mount Vernon is fourth with 12,352, an increase of 1,537 over 1920.

ASSOCIATED PRESS FIGURES.

The Associated Press, in conjunction with the census bureau, announced the following census figures:

SECOND FATHER RAIDS HOME IN SLAYING FRENZY

A suddenly deranged man who seriously wounded his 13 year old daughter with an ax, and tried to kill his wife and four other children, was locked in a police cell last night, while police hunted another man, who but a few hours before shot to death his 14 year old son, wounded his wife and two other sons, and fled.

Ray Sherman, 40 years old, a bookkeeper, went suddenly insane at his home at 3304 North 72d court yesterday, struck down his 13 year old daughter, Elizabeth, with a fireman's axe, and advanced up his wife, Mabel, and the other four children of the couple. The mother and the children, except Elizabeth, who may have been fatally injured, fled screaming from their home. The father was with difficulty subdued by Irving Park police. Before trying to kill the members of his family, Sherman decapitated a pet rooster and a puppy.

William Schliemann, 33 years old, a war veteran and steel worker, is believed to have fled the city after shooting to death his son, William Schliemann Jr., and seriously wounding his wife, Amy, 28 years old, and his sons, Harold, 7, and Richard, 3. A little daughter, Dorothy, 8 years old, escaped injury. The wounded mother and sons are at Roseland hospital.

TEST PANAMA CANAL'S 16 INCH GUNS TODAY ON TARGETS 25 MI. AWAY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PANAMA, May 16.—The last word in modern defense equipment for the protection of the Panama Canal will be given its first test tomorrow when the great 16 inch guns that stand guard over the entrance to the canal will be fired for the first time.

It is probable that not since "land mines" were hurled back and forth during the world war will so much powder have been burned or so much lead and steel have been projected into the air from the mouths of monster cannon. The targets will be 25 miles distant at sea and much of the success of the test will depend upon the work of the army air corps, the "eyes" of the artillerymen, under the command of Col. James A. Mars.

The tugs which will tow the targets will use a tow rope 1,000 feet long in order to keep out of range of the monster guns.

INQUEST FINDS OPEN VERDICT IN WOMAN'S DEATH

A coroner's jury yesterday returned an open verdict in the death of Mrs. Bessie R. Polzin, estranged wife of Victor Polzin, who on May 1 died of poisoning at the home of her father, George E. Briand, 1968 Milwaukee avenue. The jury indicated it was at a loss to determine whether Mrs. Polzin knowingly swallowed the poison with suicidal intent or whether she mistook the cyanide for ordinary soda.

Victor Polzin, the husband, testified that his wife had telephoned him to come to her father's apartment, that she was ill. He went, accompanied by his mother, he said. "Presently," testified Polzin, "my wife, from whom I was separated, walked into the kitchen and then I heard a crash. 'I've just taken some soda,' she gasped to me and died."

Polzin's mother corroborated her son. Mrs. Polzin's father quoted his daughter as declaring Polzin would return to her if she would sign over her stocks and other property.

GIRL CONQUERS RAIN AND HILLS IN FLIGHT TO SIAM

BANGKOK, Siam, May 16.—(AP)—Miss Amy Johnson, intrepid young British aviatrix, arrived here at 5:40 this afternoon from Rangoon, Burma, resuming her England to Australia flight after an accident that had delayed her in the Burmese city.

Leaving Rangoon at 10:30 a. m. under heavily falling rain, the girl flyer had an adventurous flight to Siam. In the blinding rain she was unable to find the Burmese city of Moulmein and then vainly tried to find a pass through the eastern mountains, which were hidden by clouds. Rising to an altitude of 9,000 feet, she flew right and then left, trying to get through the rain into clearer weather, but always found herself on the Burmese side of the mountains. Eventually, however, she got through a pass, and came out on the Siamese side, setting her course for Bangkok.

STRAWN DEFENDS TAX BILL BEFORE STATE ASSEMBLY

Answers Attack by Board of Review.

Silas H. Strawn, chairman of the citizens' committee which is presenting bills for the relief of local taxing bodies to the special session of the legislature, declared yesterday that the lawyers working on the county and school board relief bills probably will have them ready for presentation to the assembly next Tuesday.

The city relief bills are already under consideration, and one of them, which had been attacked by members of the board of review as a flagrant violation of the principle of home rule, was defended by Mr. Strawn yesterday.

"It comes with ill grace from gentlemen like Mr. Litsinger and Mr Barrett of the board of review to attack the bill which gives to the state tax commission the right to step in and oversee the tax assessment work in any county in which the regular tax officials have failed or refused to do their duty," Mr. Strawn said.

Says Time Was Wasted.

"The reason we are in such financial difficulties now is that so much time has been wasted in political connivings by the local taxing officials. The reassessment should have been completed at least a year ago, and would have been if there had not been these inexcusable delays.

"I don't see any home rule issue in the matter. The tax commission will step in only when and if the county officials arbitrarily refuse to do their duty. There should be some agency with authority to compel the work to be done. It may be that the bill is too broad, and that definite conditions under which the tax commission may step in should be outlined."

Asked whether his committee contemplated sponsoring legislation by which employés of the county, who have been placed on a 10 month pay basis in the current budget, may receive a full year's salary, Mr. Strawn said that the proposal had not been considered.

Ask Funds for Budget.

"We are planning to ask the legislature to give the county sufficient funds to operate within its budget," Mr. Strawn said. "We do not set ourselves up as the county board, and the allocation of what funds are received will be up to the commissioners themselves."

Five amendments to the city relief bills have been prepared by Leon Hornstein, assistant corporation counsel, and were submitted yesterday for consideration of the city council finance committee. One of the amendments seeks to vest authority over the annual budget of the city in a budget advisory board, of which the controller, the treasurer and the chairman of the finance committee shall be the members. The original bill proposed that the city controller should estimate the anticipated revenues, and that the council might not appropriate beyond his estimate.

Can Appeal to Courts.

Another amendment to the same bill provides that if a person objects to any part of the annual budget and believes an overappropriation has been made he may address a complaint to the budget advisory board. If the board upholds the complaint and the council still refuses to correct the appropriation any taxpayer may appeal for an order from the Circuit court. If the court grants the order and the council still fails to correct the appropriation within 30 days the appropriations for the preceding year will be effective for the current year.

State Senator Arthur A. Huebsch, chairman of the Illinois revenue investigating commission which sponsored an amendment to the revenue article of the constitution, announced yesterday that Dr. Harley L. Lutz, head of the department of economics at Princeton university and formerly president of the National Tax association, will address the joint session of the legislature in a public hearing next Tuesday. The proposed amendment, which if approved by the voters in November would give the legislature authority to impose income or other taxes by a majority vote, will also be discussed by Harrison B. Riley, chairman of the board of the Chicago Title and Trust company, and a member of the revenue commission.

Ask Protection for Chicago.

The Chicago Real Estate board, through Newton C. Farr, president, announced yesterday its support of the tax amendment, provided two provisions are included. These are:

"That taxes levied and exemptions established shall be by general law and uniform upon all objects and subjects of the same class; all real estate to be in one class, except that mineral lands and lands devoted to reforestation may be in different classes, and

"That some provision be included to assure Cook county that it will receive its fair proportion of any new revenues to be obtained under laws made possible by the constitutional amendment."

FROM KHARTOUM, EGYPT

Mr. Costopoulos received this letter from his brother, who has been engaged in the exporting business in Khartoum for the last fifteen years.

Khartoum is the capital of the Anglo-Egyptian Sudan, and is situated on the left bank of the Blue Nile immediately above its junction with the White Nile. It was here that the late Lord Kitchener became famous as "Kitchener of Khartoum" when he recaptured the city from the Mahdist rebels in 1898. Incidentally, Lord Kitchener designed the plan on which the city is laid out.

Letter received by D. Costopoulos, 236 North Clark street, Chicago.

long. In the center of the esplanade is the governor general's palace occupying the site of the palace destroyed by the Mahdists. In the gardens of the palace stands a colossal stone lamb brought from the ruins of Soba, an ancient Christian city on the Blue Nile. Other buildings include the Sudan club, the Gordon Memorial college, chief educational center of the Sudan, Mudiria House, the residence of the governor of Khartoum, zoölogical gardens, and a museum for Sudan archaeology.

Outside of the city are a number of model villages, each of the principal tribes of the Sudan having its own settlement, in which the dwellings are built after the tribal fashion.

The site of the town was formerly a small fishing village. The Egyptians established a permanent camp there in 1822, out of which grew the city, which became the capital of the Sudanese possessions of Egypt. The city derives its name from the resemblance of the promontory at the meeting of the two Nile rivers to an elephant's trunk, which is translated as "khartum" in the local Arabic dialect.

U. S. RAILROADS EXCEED PLEDGES MADE TO HOOVER

Spend 212 Millions on Improvements.

American railroads in the first three months of 1930 bettered a pledge they made President Hoover last December to proceed with improvement programs at a rate higher than in 1929. This was announced at the regular spring meeting of the Association of Railway Executives yesterday in the Blackstone hotel.

According to R. H. Aishton, chairman of the executive committee, the member railroads in the quarter laid out for new equipment, additions, and betterments the sum of $223,772,000. In December Mr. Aishton had told the President the carriers would spend during the same period 212 millions. The addition of almost twelve millions to the program was pointed to as showing the endeavor of the carriers to do even more than was expected toward a return of prosperous business conditions.

Greatly Exceeds 1929 Total.

Comparisons showed that the outlay was greater by ninety-six million dollars than in the corresponding months of 1929, and almost as much above the mark of 1928's first quarter. That equipment firms were greatly aided by the heavy expenditures is evidenced by other figures. They obtained contracts for more than eighty-nine million dollars this year and only about thirty-seven and a half millions last year. Structures and roadway in three months of 1930 cost nearly 135 millions, compared to less than ninety millions a year previous.

Increases were noted in outlay for main track, yards and sidings, for heavier rails, for engine houses, including machinery and tools, for bridges and trestles, and for stations and office buildings.

Elect New Directors.

Aside from this report, other business was of a technical nature. V. V. Boatner, president of the Chicago Great Western, and E. S. French, president of the Boston and Maine, were elected to the association's board of directors. They succeeded Samuel M. Felton and George Hannauer, who died during the last year.

HEARING ON U. S. CHARGES AGAINST GREIN CONTINUED

The preliminary hearing of Joe Grein, his partner, J. Pahls, and two employés, charged with possessing and selling home brewing supplies, was continued until May 26 by United States Commissioner Walker yesterday.

At the same time it was announced by Grein, whose malt and hop store at 210 West Madison street was raided by dry agents last week, that the shop is being restocked with the same kind of goods as those seized. The government filed a libel action on Thursday against a stock valued at $50,000.

Grein will be represented in the criminal proceedings by Attorneys Clarence Darrow, William F. Waugh, and J. F. Donnelly, counsel for the International Food Products association. This association, together with an affiliated organization, the Chicago Malt Products association, of which Grein is president, retained Mr. Darrow.

SCHOOLS LAUNCH DRIVE TO CURB YOUNG VANDALS

Court Action Threatened for "Repeaters."

Charging that the board of education annually pays more than $150,000 for broken school windows, 64 per cent of which are broken by juvenile vandals, Ernest Withall, business manager of the board, yesterday asked the coöperation of the police department and Parent-Teacher associations in a campaign to stop vandalism.

"In the last four years we have paid an average of $150,000 for broken window panes," Mr. Withall said. "Each year sees an increase. Last year there were 27,757 panes broken, an increase of 5,633 over the record for 1926. In the last four years there have been a total of 103,647 panes broken."

The coöperation of parents is to be asked and the parents of children breaking school property will be forced by court action to pay for repairs, Mr. Withall said. The money paid in the last four years to repair the damage by vandals would have carried 6,800 children through elementary school, he asserted.

Most of the broken windows reported are the result of ball games played on the school grounds after school hours. In several cases boys are reported to have shot out the windows with air rifles. Last week a youth broke a window in a west side school with a ball and then deliberately broke another with his hat to retrieve the ball. Many janitors have reported sweeping up a ton of stones the size of eggs inside the school rooms during the year, Mr. Withall said.

The board of education has had more trouble in the schools serving districts without playgrounds than in all the other schools in the city. Often the school ground is the only open space for miles and the children are forced either to play on the school grounds or the streets.

Although the coöperation of the police department and the juvenile court has been asked, there will be no court action unless the offender has been warned repeatedly. If parents pay for repairs no action will be taken against the offending boy. Only in cases where repeated warnings have proved of no avail will a court sentence be asked.

Detours Listed for Several of Main Highways in County

The regular report of road conditions in the metropolitan area for the coming week-end was made public yesterday by the central traffic bureau. The summary follows:

TOUHY AVENUE—Open between Milwaukee avenue and Harlem avenue.

DEMPSTER STREET—Closed at the sanitary canal. Traffic directed south on Dodge avenue in Evanston to Main street, west on Main street to McCormick boulevard, then north on McCormick boulevard to Dempster street. Approaches to bridge being paved by sanitary district.

HARLEM AVENUE—Closed between North avenue and Wellington street. Traffic directed east on North avenue to Sayre street, north on Sayre street to Grand avenue, west on Grand avenue to 72d court, north on 72d court to Wellington street, then east on Wellington street to Harlem avenue. This section of road is being paved.

ILLINOIS ROUTE 60 (Raad road)—Closed between River road and Euclid avenue. Traffic directed south on River road to the Northwest highway, northwest on the Northwest highway to Euclid avenue, then east to Raad road. This section of road is being repaved and widened.

ILLINOIS ROUTE 46, Mannheim road—Closed between Lake street and St. Charles road from 8 a. m. to 5 p. m. on weekdays and from 8 a. m. to 12 p. m. on Saturdays. Viaduct over the C. and N. W. railroad tracks being repaved. Traffic is directed east on Lake street to 25th avenue, south on 25th avenue to St. Charles road, then west on St. Charles road to Mannheim road.

U. S. ROUTES 20 AND 12—Standard avenue and Dickey place, route to the Dunes highway, closed between Forsyth avenue in Whiting and Guthrie avenue in Gary. Traffic is directed not to turn east on 119th street in Whiting, but to continue south on Forsyth avenue in East Chicago, five miles to Michigan avenue in Hammond, east on Michigan avenue to 5th avenue in Gary, thence east on 5th avenue to the Dunes highway.

ILLINOIS ROUTE 31, Milwaukee avenue—Closed between Oakton street and Dempster street. Traffic is directed to turn north on Waukegan road at Touhy avenue to Dempster street, then west on Dempster street to Milwaukee avenue.

ILLINOIS ROUTE 6, U. S. 330, Roosevelt road—Closed at the Salt creek approximately three-quarters of a mile east of Mannheim road. Traffic directed one block south over paved subdivision streets.

ILLINOIS ROUTE 5, U. S. 20, Lake street—Closed between 9th avenue and Thatcher avenue. Traffic directed south on 9th avenue to Madison street, east on Madison street to Thatcher avenue, then north on Thatcher avenue to Lake street.

WASHINGTON BOULEVARD—Closed between Thatcher avenue and Lathrop avenue. Traffic directed south on Thatcher avenue to Washington avenue, east on Washington avenue to Lathrop avenue, then north on Lathrop avenue to Washington boulevard. This section of road is being reconstructed.

96TH AVENUE—Closed between 183d street and Lincoln highway. Traffic is directed west on 143d street to Wolf road, south on Wolf road to Lincoln highway, then east on Lincoln highway to 96th avenue. This section of road is closed during construction of grade separation at the C., R. I. and P. railroad.

123D STREET—Closed between Kean avenue and Harlem avenue—Traffic directed south on Kean avenue to 131th street, east on 131st street to Harlem avenue, and then north on Harlem avenue to 123d street. This section of road is closed due to construction of grade separation at 123d street and the Southwest highway.

The repairing of several of these thoroughfares is expected to be completed next week.

OPEN EVENINGS

OPEN SUNDAYS

Its 100% Perfect Score

Hudson's Great Eight, with 100% score, overwhelmed all competition in tests conducted in the purchase of cars for the department of Highway Control of the State of California.

Nearly all makes submitted bids. Eight cars, including Hudson, were chosen for these exhaustive tests—in Speed, Acceleration, Reliability, Stability, Flexibility, Operating Ease, Steering Action, Freedom from Vibration, Shimmying and Freedom from Overheating. The cars tested ranged in list price from $1050 to $1500. Hudson's Great 8, one of the lowest in price, was the only car to finish with a perfect score.

Penalties incurred by others included failure to finish; motor trouble; overheating, shimmying, excessive vibration, shock on steering wheel; jerky performance at low speed after finish; failure to sustain speed; loss of acceleration at high speed and only "fair" brake efficiency. Hudson's Great Eight finished these trying tests without a single criticism.

And against all these well-known and higher-priced cars it received the highest awards by the experts, and was purchased for the Highway Control department.

The experts called special attention to Hudson's "remarkable high sustained speed" and "clean performance", and to the fact that after the tests it showed the lowest speed of any competitor without jerking. Attention was also directed to Hudson's superior acceleration and the fact that at 60 miles an hour "it still had a wallop for acceleration far exceeding any other car tested."

Make These Proofs Yourself. We Will Send a Car to Your Door

Only by riding in or driving Hudson's Great 8 will you appreciate its delightful operation. You are invited to take a trial car and test it for smoothness, speed, acceleration, power, easy handling, comfort and economy. A telephone call will bring Hudson's Great 8 to your door.

French Writer Delighted by Emerson Ideas

So Calls That Philosopher 'Enraptured Yankee.'

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

"Emerson, the Enraptured Yankee," by Regis Michaud. [Harpers.]

From the very qualifying adjective of the author's title, "Emerson, the Enraptured Yankee," is a paradox of manner and message. Of all of the words an American would have chosen to describe Ralph Waldo Emerson, "enraptured" would have been the last.

Yankee he was, indeed, but only to a Gallic mind would that staid, stern seer be "enraptured." But to the Gallic mind he was exactly that, and the author pours out his own enraptured words in his description of that state.

Of the physical being called Ralph Waldo Emerson, M. Michaud gives the merest outlines, and those not always indicative of his subject so much as of his own point of view. The facts of the life of Emerson you will not find in this biography—that is, you will find them only under some stone of spiritual fact, hidden by some moss of Emerson's complex mental life.

To this biographer, what happened to the body of Ralph Waldo Emerson was commonplace—he was born, yes, as all men are born, he went to school, he married (though he never fell in love), he fathered children (and only one of them was a mystery and a miracle to him, and that child died), he traveled, he met great men, he was adored by women, great and lowly, he set his hand to paper, his feet to the lecture platform, but those events, those acts, those happenings were commonplaces which might have been suffered by any of mankind. What germinated in the mind of Ralph Waldo Emerson is the great adventure to Regis Michaud. And it is a biography of Emerson's mind that he has written.

M. Michaud is himself "enraptured." He has the Frenchman's passion for a mind that sparks. That Emerson was a leader of minds of his time is of much less importance to his present biographer than that Emerson's mind germinated material for leadership.

What M. Michaud finds thrilling in Emerson is the actual functioning of the mind, not its effects. In one sense this is a purely intellectual biography—in the sense that it is the biography of an intellect. In quite another sense it decidedly is not, for the biographer is not himself a coldly intellectual observer of his subject. He is passionately, Gallically stirred by this strong, clear working mind. His reactions are highly emotional to a purely intellectual functioning. Few American or English biographers would have had such reactions. They would have approached their hero's intellect intellectually, his emotions emotionally, his vital statistics with factual detachment.

There are pages wherein the biographer becomes lyrical—in his descriptions of the nature which gave to Emerson his most emotional moments, for instance. M. Michaud writes poetry—without its rhyme and with only its broken rhythm—about Concord and its soul-stirring quietude and soul-refreshing calm. He understands the gripping power of Walden pond, "a sapphire set in green," on a nature like his hero's and he understands as clearly the coldly unsuccessful blandishments of much of the more exotic Europe on Emerson's transcendental soul. His hero is a spirit, not like Ariel, but none the less disembodied.

Sometimes he writes a paragraph which illuminates not only his hero, but much else. As, for instance, "In matters of style as in matters of idea, Emerson was a fatalist. He took what the gods provided. Thoughts are sacred. They float down to us mysteriously in the coolness of the inner life. Style is our intellectual voice. It is only in part under our control. . . . Language is as the air which clothes the earth; as the atmosphere it lies upon contours, objects, and takes its forms. Style is the alchemy of thought, the result of the subterranean work of the spirit. One writes by the grace of God. . . . Writes as the dew falls on the leaves, as stalactites grow on the walls of caverns, as flesh drips blood, as the woody fiber of the trees is formed from the sap . . ."

Meetings and Lectures

The twenty-fifth annual celebration of the Walt Whitman Fellowship will be held at 8 o'clock Saturday evening, May 31 [Whitman's birthday], in the Cameo room of the Morrison hotel. Talks will be given by Frederick Babcock, Llewellyn Jones, Howard Vincent O'Brien, Victor A. Olander, Robert E. Park, Clarence S. Darrow and others. Dinner at 6:30 will precede the meeting. Both dinner and meeting are open to the public. Dr. Morris Lychenheim is chairman of the arrangements committee.

"Cimarron," by Edna Ferber, will be reviewed at the meeting of the Loop Bookfellows tonight at 6 o'clock at the Central Y. M. C. A. building, 19 South La Salle street.

On Tuesday evening at 6:45 at Fullerton hall, Art institute, Prof. Fred B. Millett will discuss "The New Psychology and the Novel" at his second lecture in the series on "The English Novel Since the War."

British Thriller Author to Stand for Parliament

Edgar Wallace, Self-Made, Premiers' Favorite.

BY FRANK SWINNERTON.

LONDON. — [Special Correspondence.]—Edgar Wallace is the latest British author who has resolved to stand for parliament. It is quite possible that he will succeed at the next election, for the majority of the present membership is a small one on a large poll. But Mr. Wallace becomes an M. P. we shall have the strange sight of a man who has long provided the holiday reading of prime ministers standing up in debate against his fervent admirers.

Will they dare to resist him? I doubt it. In any case, Mr. Wallace will be a better debater than most literary men, as he is a very good and very ready speaker in public. He also knows more about Life (with a capital L) than most politicians. His career has been extraordinary.

Literally a foundling, he is entirely self-educated, has written every kind of journalism, from racing tips to descriptive accounts of historic events; is the author of poems, plays, and novels of many sorts, has a wide and accurate knowledge of the underworld and the everworld (his acquaintance ranges from the king's son-in-law to the extremes of poverty), and is at home anywhere.

It often has been said that certain literary men were going to seek election, but of the leading British authors only H. G. Wells actually has stood for parliament, and Mr. Wells was a candidate for his old university, with no hope at all of conquering the prejudices of his electors, who represented a solid anti-Labor phalanx. It is just as well that he was not elected, for his energy has been well exercised elsewhere, in the writing of books which none but himself could give the world. Mr. Wallace is in different case. Even if he were prime minister he would be able (I feel sure) to emulate Disraeli, who wrote novels when in and out of office.

The English translation of Bloch's novel, "—— & Co.," will be published here during the next few days. This has long been known in French, but the edition translated by the late C. K. Scott-Moncrieff is revived and contains an introduction by Romain Rolland. The book is an impressive work, which will not, however, make a greater impression here than "Singermann" has done.

Humanist Debate Uses 4 Pitchers of Gotham Ice Water

BY ALTA MAY COLEMAN.

NEW YORK.—[Special Correspondence.]—Four pitchers of ice water on the platform of Carnegie hall Friday helped the speakers on humanism through the evening. But the audience found the three cornered debate, for the most part, rather dry. The Discussion guild sponsored the controversy.

The affirmative of the question, "Humanism—Will It Succeed?" was represented by Prof. Irving Babbitt of Harvard. He stated that millions of words had been expended in the last few months on this philosophy. He then proceeded to swell the total by reading page after page of a manuscript which, alas, contained no definition for the fifteen hundred unenlightened souls out front. Theodore Dreiser, Eugene O'Neill, Edmund Wilson, and others were all wrong, it seemed. But about what?

Harry Hansen, literary editor of the World, who got his pitcher of ice water by being chairman, claimed to have heard somewhere a definition of humanism in seven minutes. But he neglected to repeat it. Nor were matters cleared up particularly by Dr. Henry Seidel Canby, editor of the Saturday Review of Literature. He took a middle position in the argument, "leaning," as some lobby wag phrased it, "neither to partiality on the one hand nor to impartiality on the other."

The question certainly wasn't burning when Carl Van Doren, editor of the Literary Guild, took the floor, for the negative, but in vaudeville parlance he "wowed 'em," tipping his points with wit and exceeding the record of a laugh a minute.

Mr. Van Doren was most humane in his avoidance of ten dollar words, had an engagingly spontaneous and intimate delivery, and debonairly carried off the honors of the evening.

Mary Dahlberg, whose novel of feminine adventure, "Dagger," is just issued by Duffield & Co., handed the tea party regulars a thrill on Wednesday by serving oolong aboard her amphibian plane while circling above the towers of New York. Rosika Dolly was one of the party of twelve.

Though on this occasion Mrs. Dahlberg did not act as pilot, she is an expert aviatrix . . . has roamed the world in all kinds of craft from canoe up . . . wrote her novel at the suggestion of Sinclair Lewis.

In Which an Adventurer Tells His Life Story

"The Autobiography of Frank Tarbeaux," as told to Donald Henderson Clarke [Vanguard], is the life story of one of the most unprincipled adventurers that ever lived—who has done everything from murder up—but who, at the age of 77, falls asleep as soon as his head touches the pillow, because he has a clean conscience. And that peaceful conscience comes from the fact that he never has betrayed a friend or shown fear in the presence of an enemy. Wild Bill Hickok, Gen. Custer, the king of Hawaii, Marie Corelli, and Oscar Wilde are among his souvenirs.

AMONG THE NEW BOOKS

BY THE LITERARY EDITOR.

FICTION.

The Facts of Life, by H. W. Hanemann (Farrar & Rinehart), is a showcase of ten gaudy biographies parodied with guffaws. Illustrated by Herb Roth.

Aren't Men Rascals, by T. Swann Harding (Dial), is another chuckle inducer, with pictures by Loren Stout.

Happy Landings, by Fanny Heaslip Lea [Dodd-Mead], is about a girl who was a fool for punishment in that least sacrificial of all centers, Hollywood.

Elsie Dinsmore on the Loose, by Josie Turner [Cape-Smith], propounds in modern New York manner the high moral lessons of the classic Elsie books.

Mukara, by Muriel Bruce [Henkle], is a novel of Amazonian romance based on early notes of the ill-fated Col. P. H. Fawcett, who searched for a pre-Malayan civilization. It is fact starred by fancy.

"Children of the Earth," by Ethel Mannin (Doubleday Doran), is the tale of a fisherman of the Channel islands, in which love and lobster pots weave a miracle.

Poor Nigger, by Orlo Vergani (Bobbs-Merrill), is a dramatic picture of human tragedy, already a great success in Italy and France, now translated.

ABOUT PEOPLE.

Times Square Tintypes, by Sidney Skolsky (Washburn), is the "low down on the high lights."

The Later Years of Thomas Hardy, 1892-1928 (Macmillan), by Florence Emily Hardy (his wife), is the second and concluding part of the biography whose first volume was published in 1928.

Eugene V. Debs, by McAlister Coleman (Greenberg), is a colorful, dramatic biography.

Some Royalties and a Prime Minister, by Princess Marthe Bibesco (Appleton), amusing gossip and keen observations about the prince of Wales, Alfonso, king of Spain; Herbert Asquith, and assorted others, by a woman with a skilled pen.

The Invincible Jew, by Harford Powel Jr. [Bobbs-Merrill], is another (but modern) biography of Paul of Tarsus.

Alias Bluebeard, by Emile Gabory [Brewer & Warren], is the only authentic biography of Gilles de Raiz, companion in arms of Jeanne d'Arc, a gentleman who murdered over 200 children and died at the stake in 1440 for "lust murder."

Narrative of the Captivity and Restoration of Mrs. Mary Rowlandson [Houghton-Mifflin] is a reprint of the most famous early book from a woman's pen, first issued in 1682.

NONFICTION.

King Mob, by Frank K. Notch [Harcourt Brace], is a "cry of protest against the organized power of modern advertising and high pressure salesmanship." And that exciting!

Mental Radio, by Upton Sinclair (Boni), is a record of experiments in mental telepathy by one of America's most fearless writers. William McDougall, psychologist, writes an introduction to this startling volume.

The Golden Word, by Harry Kemp (published by himself at Provincetown, Mass.), is the essence of a new religion offered by one of America's ranking poets.

Heaven and Earth, by Oswald Thomas (Norton), is such a modern astronomy that the new planet X is in it. Translated from the German.

"Lighthearted Journey," by Anne Bosworth Greene [Century], is a delightful book about a motor trip through the heart of France.

"Mother Wit," by Estelle H. Ries [Century] is a record of man's ingenuity and how it produced our complicated and comfortable modern life.

"Legal Anatomy and Surgery," by Bernard S. Maloy, M. D. [Callaghan] was written for lawyers, but it is a primer of the mysterious subject for any one.

We Look at the World, by H. V. Kaltenborn [Henkle], is an analysis of the growing world consciousness of the American people.

Piloting Your Life, by Joseph Jastrow [Greenberg], tells how, from the psychologist's point of view, the same who wrote "Keeping Mentally Fit."

Individuality and Clothes, by Margaret Story [Funk & Wagnalls], tells men as well as women how. It's a swell book.

Astrology, by Evangeline Adams [Dodd Mead], tells you all about your place among the stars, if you can figure it out. Miss Adams is the starry adviser of the great in New York.

The St. Lawrence Waterway Project, by George Washington Stephens [Carrier], tells everything known to date about it.

From Marriage to Love, by Josef Lobel, M. D. [Washburn], comes direct from a successful run in Germany.

Beauty, by Helen Huss Parkhurst [Harcourt Brace], the latest word on esthetics.

Virginia Woodcuts, by J. J. Lankes [The Virginia Press], is a collection of woodcuts especially alluring to admirers of the novels of Ellen Glasgow.

DWIGHT MORROW IN NEW JERSEY.

Dwight W. Morrow made himself known to the people of New Jersey as a candidate for the Republican nomination for the United States senate by telling them where he stood as to prohibition. He is for the repeal of the eighteenth amendment and the restoration of the old constitutional form of government in the American Union. With a repeal the states would recover their police powers and the federal government would be relieved of duties inconsistent with its purpose.

It has been recognized by citizens willing to consider all the facts that repeal of the amendment is the only process which contains the whole remedy. Everything else is an expedient. Many expedients might be better than what the country now has. They could correct abuses and they could restore justice measurably and desirably, but they would remain expedients and compromises. For many years they may be all the country can get in its search for relief, but honesty of purpose requires that the truth be recognized. The root of the evil is the amendment itself. It was planted in the constitution in a moment when democracy threw away its common sense and yielded to impulses against which the constitution itself was intended to be the final and sufficient protection. That moment of hysteria in a people whipped by the emotions which had been fired to take them through a war carried the last stronghold down with it, and the evil is now a durable one.

It may be a long and painful road to be traveled before the people can restore their Union to its place and their states to their own, and before they can regain constitutional government and their rights under it. The moment of folly may have years of repentance, but the first gain is to have the source of evil recognized and pointed out.

Mr. Morrow is the first man of conspicuous place in the Republican party, seeking election for a major political office, who has declared for the repeal of the amendment. He has, as he said, left his party on this issue, and he said it was such an issue as justified the step when it became a matter of conscience.

New Jersey is generally counted among the states opposed to prohibition and Mr. Morrow is not sacrificing the probability of nomination by taking this position, but he is setting himself against the policy to which his national party management has committed itself. He is declaring against the administration at Washington in this: The President is seeking to retain the dry south and to make dry, illiterate Republicanism there turn in Republican electoral votes in another election. Morrow takes another road in the north. It is for the restoration of the Republican party as a party of constitutional rights.

The Republican party was organized when southern states were not content to have slavery within their own boundaries but demanded that it extend into other territory and be recognized throughout the Union if a slave escaped. The states now have been thrust into another bondage in which they may not have their own police laws but must yield to a general extension of coercion.

The Union has suffered the consequences of this extension of police powers and their administration in Washington. A town ordinance was written into the national organic law and has disorganized it. It is the cause of national disorders. It has destroyed the harmony of states. It has embittered the people of one section against the people of another. It has made the United States government a cheap constable and low meddler. It has put manslaughter by gunshot and poison in the processes of law enforcement. It has lowered the states to the status of village boards. It is the prime iniquity in the American form of government. Is the Republican party to continue as its manservant?

THE KISS IN THE CUP.

Senator Tydings of Maryland offered an amendment to the bill transferring the administration of prohibition from the treasury department to the department of justice. This is one of the Wickersham commission bills. Senator Tydings' amendment would have stricken from the law the requirement that deadly poison be used in denaturing alcohol. It was defeated by a vote of 54 to 19. Senator Glenn of Illinois voted to prevent the use of such poison. Senator Deneen of Illinois voted to retain it.

Senator Tydings proposed a modification of governmental barbarity. The alcohol, as it would have been treated if his amendment had been adopted, would have been nauseating as a beverage, but it would not have been dangerous to life or health. The misguided user of it would not have been subjected to a final or an enduring injury. He would have had unpleasant consequences, and unless he were a complete nitwit one experience would have been enough.

Senator Morris Sheppard of Texas spoke against the amendment and for the present code of American prohibition civilization. The Volstead motto is that when the government poisons them they stay poisoned. This sentiment prevailed, and Dr. Doran's chemists will continue in their competition with the bootleg recookers and will catch the halfwits and the nitwits.

This is the kiss the government leaves in the cup. Senator Deneen voted for it. Senator Deneen has been defeated for renomination. His vote on prohibition makes the Illinois vote on him appropriate. Senator Glenn offset him by voting against the government poisoner and gave the state a 50 per cent record for humanity versus man killing bigotry.

THE KOHLER VERDICT IN WISCONSIN.

Gov. Kohler of Wisconsin has been acquitted by a jury in a Sheboygan county court of charges that he was holding office illegally because of violation of the state corrupt practices act in the election. The jury verdict was unanimous, although ten out of twelve could have acquitted. The Wisconsin act regulating expenditures in elections is the last word in the hypocritical purifying of campaigns. A candidate for governor may not exceed a $4,000 expense account in seeking office.

This law is a perfected instrument for preventing effective opposition to a ruling circle. In Wisconsin the group happens to be the dynastic line of La Follette which can be perpetuated in state and national affairs by keeping the outsider from making a campaign against it.

The evidence presented by the state against its governor was pure drivel. Did he have felonious knowledge of parties given for him at which ice cream, cake and cigars were given to his guests? Did his sister make him a gross offender against the state laws by giving such parties? Were banners and bands and tire covers so used or distributed as to constitute a debauchery of the electorate and indicate a crime against Republican institutions? Were the otherwise moral voters corrupted by double pecan nut sundaes feloniously administered to destroy government by the people and their birthright of incorruptible democracy?

A dynastic organization seeking to keep itself going forever by the political use of public funds in patronage and by restriction of possible competition has not yet elsewhere presented such an exhibit of undiluted asininity against itself. The jury verdict was the verdict of the common sense of Wisconsin.

RELIEF FOR MICHIGAN AVENUE CONGESTION.

A committee of the Lincoln park board is considering a proposal intended to speed traffic on Michigan avenue. The proposal comes from the city's traffic engineer, Mr. Leslie Sorenson. He says that under present conditions automobiles average only 11 miles an hour between 22d street and North avenue. He thinks that the speed could be doubled if the south park board, the city, and the Lincoln park board, each of which is responsible for a section of the drive, would agree upon a single traffic control system for the entire downtown stretch.

The proposal is, at least, plausible, and it should be given a trial. At present one system of traffic control, that of the south park board, regulates movements as far north as Randolph street. Then the city takes charge as far as the bridge. At the north end of the bridge the Lincoln park police jurisdiction begins. Attempts have been made to synchronize the flow of traffic in these three jurisdictions, but without much success.

The division of authority occurs where it can do the most harm. It is the point where traffic is heaviest, where it is squeezed into the bottleneck of the bridge and where frequent bridge openings add to the congestion. If Mr. Sorenson thinks he can speed traffic in this stretch, he ought to be given the opportunity to try out his ideas.

THE NEED FOR LANDING PLACES.

With the school board probably a lost hope, so far as a new air field for Chicago is concerned, flyers must turn to the park boards for help in landing near the town. For flying boats the ramps in Grant park and the beaches at Oak street and along the shore of Lincoln park will eventually be available. Improvement and extension of these landing places will be of great service to air travel.

In a system of small harbors the needs of air and water travel well can be combined. Motorists have had a city almost rebuilt for them, and still more rebuilding is now needed. Water travelers and air travelers also should have attention. With adequate facilities the air service and the water service of Chicago would increase enormously. Water and air enough there is for all; the city should now provide landing places.

Editorial of the Day

MRS. McCORMICK'S OUTLAY.

[Baltimore Sun.]

The first question to be cleared up is the manner in which the fortune expended by Mrs. McCormick was used. Did it go for expenses that ordinarily would be called legitimate? Next, there is the question, to which no answer is yet possible, whether the spending of this fortune, plus the expenditures and services in Mrs. McCormick's behalf by the Thompson, Crowe, and other machines, produces a total that on its face is scandalous and indefensible. Finally there comes the hardest question of all to settle: How much money may a candidate decently spend?

The Sun has frequently said in the past that it is difficult to dispose of this matter, in fairness to the public, by a mere limitation on totals. A candidate fighting the machine usually must spend more money than the candidate backed by the machine, for the latter uses jobholders and hangers-on to supply many services that the independent candidate must pay for. And it is not to be forgot that many of the most useful fights against machines have been made by rich men who were willing to spend their money in reform movements.

In general it seems that the wise method in dealing with a situation of this kind is to define the manner in which money may be spent and the purpose for which it may be used. It is not by any means a sure cure, but it is the most promising. A thorough investigation of this latest Illinois primary may provide some material on which those interested in decently conducted primaries can build a policy. A thorough investigation ought to help to clear minds. Meantime it will not be necessary for Mrs. McCormick in any of her future political speeches to use again that proud line about being "Mark Hanna's daughter."

NATURAL JEALOUSY.

"Mr. Tomlyson has a great deal of Scotch in his veins," said Mrs. Tippler, looking up from her sewing.

"Lucky man," groaned Mr. Tippler.—Detroit News.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the gnips fall where they may.

IT'S THE BEST IDEA—

they've had down there yet. That is, Washington says that Charley Dawes is coming home to tell the senate about the naval peace pact that was signed in London. Some senator will say, "Charley, we s'posed to agree to put six inch guns on our cruisers because Stimson says that six inch guns are better in fighting than eight inch guns. If that is true, and I'm not knockin', mind you, why wouldn't it be better to arm our ships with four inch guns? Or two inch? Or one? Or ½ of one per cent?"

Then Charley will fire up his upside-down pipe and say, "Did I tell you the story about the two Irishmen named Pat and Mike. Well, it seems that ——"

Then the committee will have a good laugh and another senator will say, "How come Japan seems to have got most of the gravy? That country isn't any bigger than southern Indiana, and southern Indiana hasn't got a navy."

"We went into that," says Charley, "but speaking of southern Indiana, did you hear the one about the man down there who was scared to death of the Ku Kluxers? Well, one night he heard a knock on the door ——"

Then when Charley gets through with that story he'll give everybody an upside-down pipe and tobacco all around and tell 'em another story. And if the senate doesn't O. K. the treaty after that—well, there isn't anything short of a miracle that would have done the slightest good. As a life saver in a desperate emergency there's nobody can equal Charley Dawes.

WHEN SCOTT McBRIDE said that the Anti-Saloon league was "born of God," he should have thought of a certain lonely gentleman now chopping up trees in Doorn, Holland—a Mr. William Hohenzollern—who once in declaring his right to dictate to the world made use of a phrase something like "Me und Gott." Well, Scott, if—well—that is, if you may be in the same fix, perhaps you'd better just drop a line to Mr. Hohenzollern and ask him if he could use another first class woodchopper.

TEETH CLEWS TO HEALTH.

THE crown of a tooth is formed several years before eruption. Those of the first set are complete, so far as the crown is concerned, at the time of birth. The permanent teeth do not begin erupting until about the eighth year and they do not complete the process until the twenty-second year, but their crowns are completed in early childhood. An experienced dentist can examine the teeth and, on the basis of the imperfections found, he can make a good guess as to some of the diseases the person has had and when. On the other hand, a physician can say to the parents of a three year old child sick with scarlet fever: When this child has reached ten years of age have your dentist look for weakness in certain teeth.

Dr. Joseph Head says that severe illness in the first year of life leads to imperfections in the permanent central incisors and six year molars. Severe illness in the second year of life causes potential trouble in the lateral incisors and bicuspids; in the third year of life, in the canines, the second molars, and in the wisdom teeth.

Fine serrations and furrows are generally caused by scarlet fever. Any disease which spends a considerable part of its force on the skin, causing eruptions followed by scaling and much scabbing, is especially apt to leave its mark on the teeth. Scarlet fever is an outstanding example of this.

The Hutchinson tooth is generally a sign of inherited syphilis. The Hutchinson tooth has a large, coarse notch, as distinguished from the finer saw edges which follow scarlet fever. Irregularities in the arrangement of the teeth occur because of poor development of the jaws and not because of any condition in the teeth themselves. If the jaws are too small, the face is undeveloped, or if the arches of the palate are improper the teeth erupt in irregular fashion. These basic errors in the development of the jaws are apt to make themselves manifest in the later years of childhood. The twelfth year is about the time of maximum importance in this field.

MAY NOT ADD WEIGHT.

Mrs. C. R. writes: Would cod liver oil help me put on weight? I am 20 years of age.

REPLY.

I don't think so.

EXCESSIVE USE OF COFFEE.

D. A. writes:

1. I have been told that drinking considerable coffee will cause rheumatism or neuritis. Is this true?

2. What do you consider are the bad effects of excessive use of coffee?

REPLY.

1. No.

2. Insomnia, nervousness, irritable heart. Indigestion has been charged against coffee, but the evidence is not good. When we taste a food several hours after eating it we are likely to say it causes indigestion That is not sufficient proof. It is possible excessive coffee drinking may contribute to arteriosclerosis, Bright's disease, and kidney stones.

TREATING PRIMROSE RASH.

Mrs. C. E. H. writes: I am suffering terribly from the rash of primrose poisoning. A friend warned me, but I thought it silly to keep away from the plant. I have tried several suggested remedies, but it continues to spread. I am 70 years old.

REPLY.

If the eruption is young keep it covered with gauze, wet with warm boric acid solution. If it is older apply calamine lotion or carbolized zinc oil.

If you avoid fresh exposure the eruption dries up spontaneously in a short while.

AVOIDING OF TUBERCULOSIS.

L. H. writes: I am exposed to consumptives. How can I avoid catching the disease?

REPLY.

See that all sputum is collected in paper sacks and burned. Do not let flies get on sputum. Do not let the patient spit on the floor or bed. Keep him clean. Especially, keep his mouth clean. Keep the room well sunned and well ventilated. Air it frequently. Boil spoons, forks, cups, glasses, towels, and handkerchiefs.

The attendants should avoid being coughed on or sneezed on. They should avoid the patient's spit. They should stay in the open air as much as possible, get plenty of rest, and eat plenty of nutritious food.

PROBABLY IS NETTLE RASH.

Mrs. S. writes: What causes welts that rise and itch? They appear quite often all over my body.

REPLY.

You have nettle rash. Physicians call it urticaria.

It is caused by exposure to something to which you have been sensitized. Such exposure may take place at one's place of business or in the home. The exposure may be to chemicals, foods or the dandruff of animals or birds.

WANTS TO SUBLET.

Chicago, May 13.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I have a lease on a flat which won't expire until September. As I'd like to move, I asked the landlord for permission to sublease. He said to go ahead. But he puts a "for rent" sign in his own window, which is below ours, raising the rent. 1. How am I able to sublease when he raises the rent?

2. Can I withold my rent, or (3) can I move out and break the present lease? J. B.

1. If your lease contains no clause against assignment or subletting then you are entitled to sublet without the landlord's consent. If the lease contains the common clause then he is in a position to refuse to give his consent and you have in substance no remedy.
2. No.
3. You remain liable.

65 YEARS AGO TODAY

MAY 17, 1865.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—The commission trying the Lincoln assassination conspirators visited Ford's theater with a view to a more intelligent understanding of the testimony. Everything remained undisturbed inside the building, just as it was at the time of the assassination, except that the chair in which Mr. Lincoln sat when he was shot had been taken away and a blue flag, which was in front of the box and caught the assassin's spur, had been removed. In the courtroom Mrs. Surratt sits at one end of the platform two or three feet apart from the other accused. This miserable creature is looking stronger and apparently more reconciled. The witnesses yesterday fastened guilt upon Spangler, the carpenter at Ford's theater, and the complicity of O'Laughlin and Dr. Mudd begins to assume shape. John Selreman, connected with Ford's theater, testified that he saw Booth come up to the back door of the theater on a horse. Spangler was there and Booth said: "Help me all you can, won't you?" Spangler replied: "O, yes." This was about an hour and a half before the President was shot.

THE NEWS.—Barnum and Chicago are in competition for the gown which Jeff Davis wore when his boots betrayed him and there was danger of his hurting somebody. It should be sent to the Northwestern Sanitary Fair by all means, and, if possible, with Jeff Davis in it. The fair management will undoubtedly agree to pay off a large share of the national debt from the revenue derived from such an arrangement. An agent of Barnum offered $500 for the gown.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Mrs. Lincoln, having partially recovered from her indisposition, has announced her intention of leaving for Illinois on May 18.

NASHVILLE, Tenn.—The Chattanooga Gazette says that the last rebel forces in Georgia have surrendered to Maj. Gen. James B. Stedman, commanding the district of Etowah. He met Gen. W. T. Wofford, commanding the confederate force in northern Georgia, at Resaca, and the rebels laid down their arms on the same terms as were granted to Gen. Lee by Gen. Grant.

HAVANA.—Warrants were issued for the arrest of E. F. Thompson, postmaster of Havana; W. H. Reeves, deputy auditor of the island; and Edward Moya and Jorge Mascaro, Cuban clerks in the stamp department, and all were lodged in the Vivac, the Tombs of Havana. The arrests were under the advice of the postal inspectors who arrived today. Thompson's arrest caused great surprise in the city, although he confessed to certain irregularities.

NEW YORK.—Because of the Rev. D. Parker Morgan's refusal to officiate at the marriage of a divorced woman, the wedding of Mrs. Clio Hinton Huneker, the sculptress, to William Bracken, wealthy lawyer, did not take place in the Church of the Heavenly Rest, as arranged. Later the ceremony was performed by another minister at Delmonico's, where the wedding breakfast followed.

LONDON.—The suspense over the lack of definite news from Mafeking is more intense, if possible, than at any time since the beginning of the war. That the relief column reported passing Vryburg a week ago really exists is confirmed by messages to the effect that it fought a hard battle at Kraal Pan, 32 miles south of Mafeking, on May 15, but the name of the leader and the composition of the force are still a mystery. There is reason to believe that Lord Roberts is again moving in the hope of distracting the attention of the Boers from the beleaguered city. Gen. Buller is moving toward Newcastle.

NEW YORK.—The Boer peace commissioners, who arrived here yesterday from South Africa, will depart for Washington tomorrow to take up their diplomatic work.

CHICAGO.—Col. George H. Harlow, secretary of state of Illinois from 1873 to 1881, died at his residence, Sheridan road and Linden avenue, Highland Park. He was 69 years old.

CHICAGO.—It is up to the United States railway board, which begins its final sessions today in Chicago, to take action which alone can avert the complete breakdown of the transportation service of the nation. This is the formal statement made over the signatures of the conservative chiefs of the great railway brotherhoods. It was tacitly agreed to by railway executives in the city for the hearings. The 2,000,000 railroad workers seek wage increases approximating one billion dollars a year.

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y.—Levi Parsons Morton, Vice President of the United States under President Harrison, former governor of New York and one of the most noted financiers of his generation, died suddenly at his summer home at Rhinebeck-on-the-Hudson. Death came on his 96th birthday.

YACHT HARBORS.

Chicago, May 15.—We are grateful to THE TRIBUNE for calling attention to the need of small harbors on Lake Michigan in the vicinity of Chicago. We are indebted to the park boards for the yacht harbors in Jackson and Lincoln parks. The yacht anchorage in front of Grant park came into being by accident. This area was originally laid out by the government for piers, slips, and docks for passenger and freight carriers, but the municipal authorities elected to develop the area behind the harbor line for park purposes. The harbor at Wilmette is incidental to the operations of the sanitary district of Chicago.

An island some distance off shore would be ideal and has been the dream of Chicago yachtsmen for many years, but the cost is great and it will be a large undertaking for private capital.

Additional breakwaters to protect the areas at Grant park and north of Navy pier would provide safe anchorage for pleasure boats. These also would have to be built by private interests.

The statement in the editorial, "what boulevards have been for motoring small harbors and inner systems of waterways can be for water travel," is quite true. However, the government is out of the picture, as its work must be confined altogether in the interest of commercial navigation under Article 1, Section 8, Clause 3 of the constitution of the United States. Pleasure boats are not classed as commercial navigation, and government aid on projects of the kind referred to in the editorial can only come through a constitutional amendment.

However, the park boards and the county commissioners can enlarge on the projects already undertaken by them in the interest of yacht harbors and pleasure boat navigation. For instance, adequate channels have already been provided through the forest preserves on the upper reaches of the Calumet river, but there are no landing facilities for small boats in these forest preserves. Five years ago the county board favorably received a petition from the yachtsmen of Chicago urging the construction of these docks, but nothing was ever done about it.

ROMANCE.

Chicago, May 11.—Several years ago a very beautiful gypsy girl came to tell my fortune. She was of the usual height, with golden blonde wavy hair, with violet blue eyes, very white skin, with natural pink cheeks, perfect pearly white teeth, beautiful chiseled hands. She was dressed like all gypsies and talked a broken English. She was accompanied by another very lovely gypsy girl of the black hair, black eye type. Could some one tell me if there are blonde, blue eyed gypsies? I never heard of any, and my theory is that this girl, who was about 18 years of age, was either a kidnaped or abandoned baby of white parents who was raised amongst the gypsies. A. L.

THE BASEBALL SCHOOL.

Maywood, Ill., May 8.—Your baseball school is a wonderful thing, but there is one complaint I would like to register against it. Why are little boys 9 or 10 years old chosen every Saturday to display their baseball skill? The real fans who should be chosen are boys about 16 or 17, who really play baseball and know what it's all about. I happened to know one boy who was in the running for the prizes given last Saturday, and he is about as far from being a ballplayer as any one can be.

Otherwise your baseball school is a very worthy project and I hope will be continued next year. L. C. W.

PARITY.

Chicago, May 15.—Wherein is there any cause for rejoicing that England has condescended to grant the United States naval parity on a naval ship for ship basis? If any intelligent, patriotic American will but read carefully articles 16 and 17 in the covenant of the league of nations he will surely be convinced that it is a sacred obligation of the United States to maintain a navy equal in fighting strength to at least the combined navies of England, France, and Italy. That is the only parity that will give us adequate security and should be achieved at the earliest possible date.

During the world court discussion the statement frequently appeared in the press that it is very doubtful if the major European nations now want the United States to become a member of the league of nations. That is probably correct and is doubtless due to the fact that England, France, and Italy are looking forward to the time when the United States "shall be invited to accept the obligations of membership in the league" [article 17] for the purpose of settling some dispute regarding debts, immigration, or other matters in which Europe has a common interest as against the United States; and if the United States should refuse to accept the interference of the league on such questions, then England, France, Italy, and possibly Japan will recognize their "duty" according to article 16 of the league covenant to take what military action may be necessary to force the United States to accept the recommendations of the league in regard to such disputed questions.

Instead of letting the London conference know that he felt just "like a Pilgrim returning home," Secretary of State Stimson should have read articles 16 and 17 of the covenant of the league of nations to that conference and then should have informed the delegates of England, France, and Italy that, if they were not willing that the United States should build a navy equal in strength to their combined navies, then he [Stimson] would lead the American delegation back to Washington and recommend the immediate building of a navy sufficiently large to give the United States of America adequate security against the potential menace of the league covenant.

ERNEST BRADSHAW.

A BET.

Chicago, May 13.—The writer of this letter never drank anything stronger than water, nor have I ever seen the inside of a saloon. I have two sons in their 20s who come home quite often staggering from the effects of drink. Recently I made an extended trip through the dry south and I saw lots of promiscuous drinking. I was ten years at sea as a first mate, 5 years as a mine superintendent in South Africa, and 13 years as a ranch boss in Australia and during all that period I have never seen so many drunken creatures as I have seen under prohibition in the U. S. A. I have just made a wager with a friend. I bet him $5,000 that in a year the prohibition law will be repealed.

PETE HARDY.

WHOM.

Chicago, May 14.—"F. Scott McBride . . . testified . . . that the league had supported some but not many candidates whom they knew drank." This appeared in the first column, first page of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE May 14. I deeply regret that the world's greatest newspaper should set before the youth of our land such a flagrant violation of the rules of the king's English. This same error occurs frequently in THE TRIBUNE and at length I cannot refrain from entering this plea—that something be done to stop the use of an objective form for a nominative!

SYNOPSIS.

Catherine West of Boston, on her way to Paris, meets Geoffrey Macadam in the Havre train. Macadam is an Englishman who lives in Paris. Catherine tells him that she is going to visit her cousin's widow, Mme. Belmont Bender. She is a little apprehensive about the coming visit, because she had received, just before sailing, a letter from Catherine Cushing, who tells her that Mme. Bender is far from well. Macadam is a lawyer and he tells Catherine that his firm handles Mme. Bender's affairs, but he doesn't know the widow very well. He had heard that she was ill. Arrived in Paris Catherine is a little disappointed when her cousin's chauffeur is not at the station to meet her. Geoffrey puts her into a taxi, giving her his address and telephone number. He tells her that he will be anxious to know how things are at the Bender apartment and she promises to call him. Arrived at Mme. Bender's apartment, she is treated coldly by the servants, Jeanne, Mme. Bender's maid, suggests that she go to a hotel. Catherine insists on staying in the apartment, as she is suspicious of the servants. Jeanne tells her that Mme. Bender attempted to commit suicide the night before. The next morning Catherine learns that she had taken poison by mistake.

Geoffrey invites Catherine to dine with him and it is a relief for her to get out of the apartment and to tell him of her vague fears. He is disturbed, too. Geoffrey escorts her back to the apartment. The door is locked, but Geoffrey arouses Eduardo, who says he thought Miss West had come in long before.

The next morning Catherine calls on Miss Cushing, who takes her to her milliner, where she sees a man she has noticed hanging around the Bender apartment. Back in the apartment she finds the gallery open for the first time and she goes in only to discover a number of pictures and tapestries missing. She asks Jeanne about them and is told they were sold shortly before Mr. Bender's death. Catherine feels she is being spied on and believes she and Eduardo are thieves. She finds Jeanne is exerting a baneful influence on Mme. Bender. Jeanne denounces Catherine to the invalid. Catherine calls at Geoffrey Macadam office and tells of her fears and suspicions to the elder Macadam, who is a little skeptical. She is hurt by his attitude, but Geoffrey tells her not to pay any attention to him. As she leaves the office building she sees Jeanne entering it.

INSTALLMENT XLII.

A STRANGE STORY.

Catherine's first feeling was one of relief that Jeanne, in passing, had not noticed her. Then she asked herself with vague discomfort what possible purpose the woman could have in calling upon the solicitors—for there could be little doubt as to her destination. The look of concentration on the face made her somehow uneasy, and she would have given much to know what lay behind it.

Then her thoughts turned to other things. Since the scene with Germaine that morning she had been utterly wretched. Tears came into her eyes now when she thought of how she had been repulsed by one who until recently had regarded her with affection, and her ire rose against the creature who had wrought the change. Never in her life had she felt more helpless to combat an arrant injustice. Her hands were tied, she could do nothing but chafe inwardly.

Nor was this the sole reason for her present unhappiness. The talk with the elder Macadam, far from consoling her, had shown her clearly the weakness of her position. Thanks to the old Scotchman's uncompromising logic, she now saw to what extent her suspicion against the servants rested upon small isolated incidents, each capable of a dual construction. For a moment she wondered if she had magnified trifles till they had warped her sane judgment, if she had drawn conclusions totally false. Even the solicitor's promise to follow up the question of theft gave but little comfort, for the investigation promised to be long and tedious, and while it was going on Jeanne would remain firmly intrenched in her mistress' esteem, working her will upon the susceptible woman's mind.

"What can I do? She's made it almost impossible now for me to stay here. If I consulted my own feelings I should leave at once," she reflected bitterly. "For that matter, she may yet succeed in forcing me to go."

She wandered along the Avenue de l'Opera and sat for some time in the little garden of the Palais Royale. Unable to bear the thought of going back to the apartment, she decided to lunch out, but although there were several friends she knew would be glad to welcome her, she was averse to company. She must be alone to wrestle with her problem.

At last she made up her mind on one point, driven thither all but against her will. She would spend the afternoon looking at hotels and pensions, not with the idea of definitely engaging a room, but in order to have a place ready to go to if during the next day or two she decided to leave. In her little book were a number of recommended addresses. She would take them in turn.

This settled, she glanced at her watch and saw with surprise that it was past her usual hour of dejeuner. She was tired, too, possibly because of her inward struggle. Then she recalled a tiny restaurant close at hand in the Rue d'Argenteuil, a simple, homely place, where the cooking was excellent. In five minutes she had reached it, chosen a table against the wall, and was studying the big purple scrawled sheet of the menu.

It was late and only a few tables were occupied, mostly by quiet looking men she imagined to be journalists. The cook, an immense man with a heavy apron round his Gargantuan paunch, approached with a friendly welcome and with his hands upon his hips offered advice on the subject of dishes.

She chose chateaubriand, which, when it appeared, was so appetizing in a bed of fresh watercress and flanked by mounds of potatoes fried to a feathery lightness that she realized suddenly how hungry she was. When at length she lit a cigaret and leaned back with a cup of coffee before her, she felt inclined to take a more cheerful view of things, letting her taut mind relax and drift where it would.

On the seat nearby lay a paper covered book, left there by some departed luncher. She picked it up idly, then seeing that it was a collection of four or five short stories of De Maupassant, opened it at a tale entitled "Le Diable" and began to read. In a few seconds she was engrossed, fascinated.

It was the story of a peasant who hires an old woman of the village to watch beside his dying mother while he gets his hay in from the fields. The mercenary crone, paid for the entire job, becomes exasperated by the poor creature's slowness in dying and, loth to waste time over her, resolves to hasten the event by strategy. She describes with gruesome details what she declares to be a common experience with sufferers about to breathe their last, affirming that at the crucial moment the devil appears to them with horns and a pitchfork. Then, when she has worked the patient up to a suitable state of terror, she hides in a cupboard and steps forth suddenly, armed with a huge fork and wearing a three legged sancepan on her head. The ruse succeeds, the peasant's mother drops dead of shock.

"Good God!"

The booklet fell from her hand, she sat quite still staring ahead of her at the opposite wall. One by one the tables had been cleared, she was the last customer to remain. The big chef untied his apron, struggled into a short, tight fitting jacket, then sallied forth for a stroll, pausing near Catherine to bid her a courteous adieu. She scarcely saw him or the questioning glances cast at her by the waiters.

All she could think of was the curious parallel between the tale just read and what was going on in her cousin's home. She had seen only too well the power of suggestion at work on the credulous victim. What if Germaine, left alone with the woman whose word she implicitly believed, should succumb to a like fate? In her present condition, how easy to administer a drug sufficient to kill her! The idea paralyzed her with horror.

At last she came to, as from a dreadful dream. What was she telling herself? Jeanne could not, by the remotest stretch of the imagination, wish her mistress to die. Geoffrey had pointed that out to her plainly. No, the more mercenary her motives, the more reason she must have for keeping Mme. Bender alive. All this had been thrashed out before to her entire satisfaction.

With a shiver she shook herself free from the stupid obsession, motioned to the garcon, and paid her bill. She must not give way to these absurd fancies.

Yet, oddly enough, in those few minutes all her recent decisions had reversed themselves. She would go and look at hotels, since it was a way of killing time till evening, but she was resolutely determined not to abandon Germaine to Jeanne. However innocent the latter's intentions might be, her influence represented a force capable of being used with evil result. No, even if things were made still more difficult for her, she would stick it out, at least till something occurred to alter the position.

"If anything should happen," she whispered, "I should never forgive myself!"

Besides, she was forgetting the doctor's promise. Even now he might have seen Jeanne and persuaded her to go away. What an enormous relief if that were so!

Entering the apartment at six o'clock, she heard Dr. Girard's deep voice in the distance, and reflected with thanksgiving that the good man had not disappointed her. Presently the front door closed.

Good Morning!

The little lady who silently became famous in days when D. W. Griffith was king (of directors), comes to her first talker a different Lillian Gish. As Alexandra in "One Romantic Night," adaptation of the Molnar play, "The Swan," she has nary a hop, skip or wiggle to bless herself with. That pleases you. BUT neither does anybody beat her, scare her out of her wits, nor starve her—and that is not so good, for it is in the depiction of stark, stare, gibbering terror that Miss Gish is at her best. Let all the world forsake her and she becomes an actress to reckon with. Minus the hops, skips, and wiggles, and the big, mean men, she appears rather at sea. She manages her entrances and exits nicely because she's been brought up that way, but to me her performance was utterly futile. Her voice? Pleasant.

With the exceptions of O. P. Heggie as Father Benedict, Albert Conti as Count Lutzen, and Philippe De Lacy and Byron Sage, playing small brothers of the heroine, the picture has not been happily cast. Rod La Rocque is princely as to uniform, but his manner and delivery are reminiscent of a soda jerker. Marie Dressler as mother of "The Swan" has a hard time keeping her dignity and sometimes doesn't. You feel she is keenly missing Polly Moran and that the latter may pop out at any moment from behind a noble portiere and hit her with an umbrella. Conrad Nagel as the tutor is a fair and manly flower and that is all.

Thus cast and lacking inspired direction, the delicate point of the original satire is dulled, and beauty of scenery and settings, excellence of photography, and lines that know their way about cannot give to "One Romantic Night" what has been taken away from "The Swan."

The action occurs in the long, long ago when the parents of young princes and princesses mapped out their marriages for them. So here you see an elderly princess endeavoring to keep the family going by marrying her fair daughter, Alexandra, fondly called "The Swan" by her late father, to the heir of a throne.

The little princess is willing; the prince isn't till Alexandra, at her mamma's behest, is coy with her brothers' tutor, who worships her. Then—well, the Viennese Molnar knew so well how to deal with this situation!

Personally I couldn't get at all het up about "One Romantic Night." (And that title on a Gish number isn't going to fool the sidewalk crowds, for they know their Lillian. "One Romantic Night" with Greta Garbo—well, that would be different.)

See you tomorrow.

Foreign Affairs Talks at Earlham College Are Concluded Tonight

Exercises attendant on the inauguration on Wednesday of Dr. William Cullen Dennis as president of Earlham college at Richmond, Ind., will be concluded today with the final gatherings of a three day institute on foreign relations. The event, realizing a project of Dr. Dennis from the time he assumed his duties at Earlham last September, was marked by the presence of several speakers of note and authorities on international policies.

Francis White, assistant secretary of state, was designated the leader of one division of the institute—that on Latin-American affairs. Heading the round table on far eastern affairs is Dr. George Grafton Wilson, professor of international law at Harvard. Dr. James Brown Scott, secretary of the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace, who was solicitor of state under Elihu Root, was one of the main speakers, and Dr. C. C. Wu, Chinese minister to this country, was expected to arrive before the institute closed.

Maj. Gen. Edward A. Kreger, judge advocate general of the United States army, and Prof. Ellery C. Stowell of the American university will give the concluding addresses this evening.

College Days Lead to Elopement; Go to Crown Point, Ind.

A college romance culminated in an elopement yesterday when a marriage license was issued at Crown Point, Ind., to Miss Alice G. Jephson and Frederick J. Kirkman, both of Freeport, Ill.

Miss Jephson left her home yesterday ostensibly on a shopping trip to Chicago, according to her father, Robert S. Jephson, who is employed in the signal maintenance department of the Illinois Central railway.

Kirkman's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred C. Kirkman, likewise were unaware of the elopement. The romance was the result of student days at Illinois college at Jacksonville, Ill. When Miss Jephson completed her work there last spring, Kirkman transferred to the University of Illinois. There he is studying law.

HELEN BYRNE SINGS FINELY DURING HER CURTISS HALL PROGRAM

Helen Byrne, contralto, in her joint recital with Terese Bochek, pianist, at Curtiss hall last night, disclosed a voice of unusual beauty. It is of the warm, lyric type, though with a power and range that could make a mark in works of a dramatic character. In a well varied group of songs by Salter, Merikanto, Schneider, and Clokey, Miss Byrne demonstrated great talent for expression and rather well developed use of the English language.

Miss Bochek was heard in Grieg's "Ballade," that set of variations for the piano whose footage is slightly greater than its concert effectiveness. It is, however, an excellent work to estimate the abilities of a pianist, since it calls for many sorts and varieties of the player's art. Miss Bochek displayed them all rather expertly, from the brilliant to the suave, the languorous to the rapturous. Technically she was safe at all times. E. M.

The Inquiring Reporter

Every Day He Asks Five Persons, Picked at Random, a Question.

The Question.

Would you like to have to obey your husband, as French wives have to do?

The Answers.

Mrs. Jessie Baugh, Kalamazoo, Mich., widow—I should say not. There are better ways of getting along than by obeying. Instead of the American woman being a chattel she is a partner of her husband; her husband is of hers.

Miss Eva Florence, 748 Aldine avenue, college registrar—I am not married, but if I were I would not expect to have to obey my husband merely because I legally had to. Women do not think in terms of obeying. There are no bosses in American homes. A woman is accustomed to being her own boss.

Mrs. Edna Wyman, 4100 Addison street, housewife—I would not. Husbands and wives have minds of their own. Each allows the other to exercise his or her own will. At least that's the way the happily married couples do. Neither party is dominated by the other. If anything, the wife rules the husband, rather than the reverse.

Mrs. E. L. Reeves, 5401 North Sawyer avenue, housewife—I don't know what the French law requires, but it is a give and take affair at our house. In the home the chances are that husbands obey their wives.

Miss Bertha Levin, 928 South Ashland avenue, saleswoman—I would expect it to be a fifty-fifty basis. I would expect him to be the boss over the affairs that are strictly his, and I would expect him to allow me to manage such affairs as are strictly mine.

"Teaching by Wholesale Makes Students Cynical"

"Spare Time" Called One of Great Problems

Ohio Educator Warns the U. of Illinois Students.

Urbana, Ill., May 16.—[Special.]—The problems that confront well to do people are more acute than those of poverty, declared William Oxley Thompson, president emeritus of Ohio State university. He spoke today at the sixth annual honors day convocation of the University of Illinois. There were 887 students who received honors of some sort, 54 of them for outstanding scholarship.

"Your intellectual power may develop more problems than it will solve," Dr. Thompson told the students. "Leisure is only one form of unemployment in many cases. The misery of a life of leisure may be none the less real and wretched than the leisure of unemployment among the poor and economically dependent.

"Another phase of this same issue lies in the fact that wealth too often lends itself to the maintenance of a social life devoid of intellectuality or of moral excellence. The satisfaction of such leisure not infrequently is on the lower levels of life, the expression of the vulgar and baser elements of our traditional inheritance."

The severest criticism on the educated man or woman lies in the fact that too frequently he or she has avoided or evaded the moral leadership in society to which his or her talents and intellectual power are an invitation, Dr. Thompson concluded.

More than a third of the 54 seniors, whose names are inscribed on a bronze tablet to be placed permanently in one of the university buildings as a record of scholarship, are from Chicago and suburbs. Two other groups of students were honored, but less highly, for scholarship. One group, the upper three per cent of the sophomore, junior and senior classes, comprised the "superior scholarship" students. The upper ten per cent of all classes were included in the "high scholarship" group.

Bronze tablet seniors were those who were in the superior group in their junior and senior years or those who in their first seven semesters made an average as high as any one on the list.

Students who were superior scholars for two years, high scholars for three years, or who were named as bronze tablet students this year were awarded university scholarship keys, the awards being made for the first time this year. A total of 205 students this year were granted scholarship keys.

Nineteen men, juniors, among them ten from Chicago and suburbs, were chosen for membership in Ma-Wan-Da, senior honor society. They are:

Chicago and suburbs—Otto R. Hills, 559 Surf street; Robert C. Hodgman, 11049 Homewood avenue; Elbridge H. May, 3919 Rokeby street; Lawrence A. S. Peterson, 731 Addison street; Phil B. Redeker, 7441 North Paulina street; Victor A. Sholis, 903 West 32d street; Richard V. D. Strong, 1645 Estes avenue; James A. Cave and John W. Harper, La Grange; Carl B. McLaughlin, Berwyn.

PUBLIC BUILDINGS IN WASHINGTON TO COST 300 MILLIONS

Washington, D. C., May 16.—(AP)—Beautification of the nation's capital and expansion of government buildings in the city are expected by the treasury department to cost more than $300,000,000 during the next eight or ten years.

Reviewing the progress on the projects, F. K. Heath, assistant secretary of the treasury, reported to President Hoover today that much of the work is now under way and that other contracts are to be let before December of this year.

The largest operation under the program is the projected group of eleven buildings to be constructed along the south side of Pennsylvania avenue, near the base of Capitol hill.

Mr. Heath said that by December of this year it is hoped that actual construction operations may be under way for a new postoffice department building, and that ground will be broken for the department of justice building, followed by a general accounting building and one for the department of labor.

Improvements on Capitol hill entailing an expenditure of over $26,000,000 include an addition to the house office building and enlargement of the senate office building, the construction of a new building for the Supreme court, and general landscaping of the grounds from the capitol to the Union station.

Beautification projects, including parkways, boulevards, and drives, call for $43,750,000. This includes the Arlington memorial bridge across the Potomac river near the Lincoln memorial and completion of the George Washington memorial parkway to Mount Vernon.

A civic center for the municipal government in Washington, expected to cost approximately $25,000,000 or $30,000,000, also has been approved by congress, and the Cramton bill, now pending, provides improvements involving a total cost of $24,500,000.

Parents Hear Boys Hailed as Chicago's Hope

Loudly Applaud Awards for School Ability.

BY KATHERINE KELLEY.

The Chicago Civic Opera house was grand with its silken curtain and salmon plush seats and stately aisles yesterday. But it might well have been the traditional country schoolhouse at any crossroads corner on literary society day.

Into the marble foyer hastened the boys and girls of Chicago's schools. Onto the stage where "Carmen" or "Aida" reigned flocked the city's youth. Their program for the annual civic assembly in connection with Boys' week, while a bit more modern than the old country school's "Friday afternoon," was tempered with that same seriousness and concern for their country's future.

Many mothers and fathers—and the main floor and balconies were overflowing with them—proudly heard the city's leaders and educators laud their children. They watched youth's expression of civic pledge in pageantry, and they applauded loudly when scholarships and other honors were awarded. And when it was all over families went home meditating rather upon civic idealism than municipal corruption.

"Salvation lies in youth, and we of the schools," spoke William J. Bogan, superintendent, "are expressing the hope today that youth, when it matures, may show more intelligence in the solution of civic and social problems than their elders have done.

"Like Rome, we are suffering from luxury and extreme poverty. Men are walking the streets today, not knowing where the next meal will come from, and a so-called intelligent people take this condition as a matter of course. Like imperial Rome, we suffer from political corruption, but, unlike that powerful state, we have hope of salvation in our schools.

"This meeting was planned to give each pupil a memory of civic idealism to carry through the years, and to project a vision which the youth of today may realize as the voters of tomorrow."

George W. Dixon, president of Boys' Week federation, after telling of the transformation of Chicago during his lifetime, said it is not too extreme a statement to say that "the genius of a people which has produced such a classic skyline as Chicago has can develop for the future a citizenship which will be magnificent beyond compare."

President Robert Maynard Hutchins of the University of Chicago brought greetings to those young people receiving honors and told of their value to Chicago. Dr. Allen D. Albert described the preparations necessary for receiving the World's Fair guests in 1933.

Nearly half a hundred young people received on the stage special commendation for conspicuous leadership and cooperative ability. Awards were made by the board of education. Seven were awarded special scholarships: University of Chicago awards to Mary Ellison, Hyde Park, and Kathryn B. Wiedenhoeft, Schurz; Northwestern university, Wesley Westerberg, Austin, and Elizabeth M. Lewis, Senn. The Rotary club loan scholarships went to William L. Simpson, Lindblom, Harold W. Huffstetter, Lindblom, and Gerrit Daugremond, Morgan Park.

Shadowgraphs portraying the health activities of the public schools completed the program. Music was furnished by Lane Technical High school orchestra.

Today will be Boys' day out of doors with athletic events on playgrounds, neighborhood centers and the finals at Stagg field this afternoon.

Cardinal Is to Dedicate Church in Cicero Tomorrow

Special services tomorrow morning will mark the dedication at Cicero of the recently completed Mary Queen of Heaven Catholic church. Cardinal Mundelein will pontificate at the services, following a solemn high mass to be sung by the Very Rev. Msgr. James J. Horsburgh, assisted by Fathers Tony and Kearns. The sermon will be preached by the Rev. T. E. O'Shea of Visitation church. Mary Queen of Heaven church is the largest religious edifice in Cicero, having a seating capacity of more than 1,000. It was built on the site of the former church, and has cost $350,000. Msgr. William R. Griffin is pastor.

Chicago Sees Its Cradle Today; 257 Years Old

Had the kindly shade of Father Marquette and that of his intrepid companion explorer, Louis Joliet, hovered yesterday over a leafy glade on Portage creek, near Stickney, they could not have failed to recognize a spot their moccasined feet first trod 257 years ago.

For, as sturdy little Bertha Lerman hauled away a canvas covering, there was revealed a granite boulder, set by the Chicago Historical society directly in the old trail that led across to the Chicago river. This trail was known to history as the Chicago Portage.

Here Marquette and Joliet, followed a few years later by the empire builders, Robert Cavalier, Seur de la Salle, and Tonti, made the momentous discovery of the proximity of the Des Plaines river, of which Portage creek is a branch. A few months after that hot August day when they paddled up the stream and beached their canoe in what then was wilderness, Joliet told its significance in a report made at Montreal.

Only a few miles of land, he pointed out, separate the St. Lawrence and the great lakes. The Chicago river is little, separated from the Des Plaines rivers which, meeting the Kankakee, form the Illinois river, and thus merged flows into the Mississippi. That river flows into the Gulf of Mexico. Chicago is thus an intensely strategic link in the Atlantic to the gulf waterway chain, and white men and red, realizing its value, spilled each other's blood in those pioneer days to acquire or regain possession of the Chicago Portage.

All this and more was vividly related yesterday at the unveiling ceremony. Charles B. Pike, president of the Historical society, declared the accurate location of the site of the boulder, a matter of interest with that body since its inception in 1856, had been balked through lack of information until recently. Credit for the discovery of the landing place, he declared, goes to two Chicago men, Dr. Lucius Zeuch and Robert Knight, whose tireless research finally settled the point. Both were present at the unveiling.

The Rev. Joseph Reiner, S. J., dean of the college of arts and sciences at Loyola university, sketched in dramatic fashion the historic tale of the spot and the chapters of its development in the growth of Chicago, concluding with a tribute to the historians, Dr. Zeuch and Mr. Knight.

David Shanahan, speaker of the house of representatives at Springfield, referred to the present Illinois waterways legislation now before congress, in representing Gov. Emmerson at the ceremony. Commissioner of Public Works Richard W. Wolfe spoke for Mayor Thompson, Supt. Charles Sauers for the forest preserve, Walter E. Beebe for the sanitary district, and Robert Kingery for the Chicago Regional Planning association. Bertha Lerman is secretary of the Junior Citizens' club.

Mudhen Type of Wife Loses to One of Brilliant Plumage

BY DORIS BLAKE.

In a current Broadway production the eternal triangle is presented, with the wife a gross caricature of the so-called homebody who lives, breathes, sighs, smiles, works, thinks, plans only for the one who crowned her girlish dreams with "Mrs."

After a three year sentence, the man seeks escape in the usual divorce manner. He wants to get out and away from this smothering love. He is tired of being asked where he went, what he did, with whom he talked, and what they said. Tired of the kisses that deluged him when he came home; and also of those that sent him thoroughly fed up on his way mornings. Tired of the admonishments about his health, of the interest in his business. Tired, in fact, only as man can be tired of wife and home when there's a gay cocotte in the offing.

The bespectacled, woolen stockinged, remarkably plain Jane of a wife who sits in the middle of supposedly million dollar parlor scenery wasn't a convincing picture of why men leave home. The problem there was how she ever got into the setting. Neglected wives don't look that way, any more, not neglected millionaires' wives. But that's neither here nor there. The show keeps on running, so it must be a popular version of how a wife in danger of losing her husband should look.

Anyway, one of those friends and severest critics that hang around stage doors waiting for a cue to come to help straighten things out delivers himself of a few broadsides that were not so worthless, mebbe, where male recapture is a dominating motive. He told the anguished wife to her bespectacled face that she was a mudhen. A mudhen, we gathered from the speaker, is a mudhen, nothing more, nothing less. It looks like a mudhen. It acts like a mudhen. And, in a life that could just as well be surrounded by birds of brilliant plumage, its presence is as welcome as a mudhen's.

With love birds chirping from trees in lots removed from the home estate, the mudhen's constant mudhen cackle and its engulfing mudhen wings are just too much for the imprisoned male. At least, so one of them defends his sex against the mudhen type of wife.

DORIS BLAKE ANSWERS

Ungentlemanly Conduct.

"Dear Miss Blake: The fellow I like doesn't care whether he shows up or not, when we have a date. He says he goes out on business but I know he doesn't. Please advise.

"C. B."

He is too unreliable to make further dates with, don't you think?

Committed No Offense.

"Dear Miss Blake: The girl I care for acts cold toward me because I asked her for a date. Please advise.

"BROKENHEARTED."

There must be some other reason for her coldness. Asking for a date isn't an offense. On the contrary, it is flattering.

Itching Disorder

"A while ago my leg got red, swollen, and itched terribly. Then it broke out in several places and the pain was intense. I was told varicose veins caused the trouble and I used all kinds of treatments without success. I walked the floor at night in pain. A friend told me he used Resinol Ointment, so I tried it. In two hours I had relief and after using two and one-half large jars, the leg was completely healed." (Signed)—Ernest Schmidt, Babylon, N. Y.

"The CUCKOOS"

As Advertised, Critic Says of "The Cuckoos"

[ALTALKER]
★ ★ ★ ★

Good Morning!

Verily the ad speaketh truly which saith of "The Cuckoos" that the piece is "a riotous, rollicking fun fest," and with cause it begs you to come cast an eye on the "big grin and giggle men" Bert Wheeler and Robert Woolsey. As a matter of fact you can believe practically every word the ad I'm talking about says. "The Cuckoos" is one vair' good show.

To be sure we would only hand it three nice fat stars if Messrs. Wheeler and Woolsey weren't in it, for while the piece is smooth, amusing, colorful, tuneful — BUT—Wheeler and Woolsey ARE there, and to my mind, they're an incomparable team of funmakers. They know when to go and, what is more important, they know where to stop. Theirs is the sure, instinctive touch that differentiates talent from genius. And so we pin 4 stars on Mr. "Cuckoos" and it's wekkum.

The co-stars are here, there and everywhere with song, dance, merry quip and preposterous antics. They were funny in "Rio Rita" as the lawyer and bridegroom, but they're ten times more comical this trip as in the guise of fortune tellers they flit from the U. S. A. to Mexico and back again getting themselves all tangled up in everybody's affairs from those of an inordinately rich and inordinately large society woman to the activities of a band of ferocious gypsies whose leader they have the bad luck to offend.

Jobyna Howland gets—and deserves—a lot of laughs as the wealthy Mrs. Furst and Mitchell Lewis is lovely as the fire eating Julius. Dorothy Lee, who becomes Mr Wheeler's little gypsy sweetheart, is a cunning trick and June Clyde and Hugh Trevor take care of the romantic leads in pleasing fashion. I like Mr. Trevor. Nice, serious young fellow with an air of breeding about him.

As for the girls, songs, color, photography, ensembles, sets, scenery, costumes, etc.—they satisfy. Mr. Keane has made a nice job of the direction, and the smudgy finger of suggestiveness has not left many marks.

"The Cuckoos" was adapted from the stage production "The Ramblers" which had quite a run on Broadway—I am told. I don't know whether it did or not. But I DO know that the film version will go over big. Because it entertains—PLENTY!

With the Kentucky Derby at Louisville and two out-of-town weddings to engage the interests of society folk, Chicago is pretty well depopulated of its fashionable element over the week-end.

Among the numerous Chicagoans who are embroiled in the gay confusion of equine and social activities in Louisville are Howard Gillette and Arthur Meeker, who are guests of Col. Matt Winn; the Wolcott Blairs, the William H. Mitchells, the Charles Glores, the Stuyvesant Peabodys and their house party of guests, the Warren Wrights, the Harry H. Lobdells, Mrs. Howard Linn, and the Ernest Byfields.

Several of them will attend some of the parties being given for the earl of Derby, whose presence this year at the "turf classic" enhances its usual interest.

A group of friends and kin of the James Ward Thornes left by special car yesterday for Des Moines, Ia. There the marriage of Miss Virginia Hubbell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Grover Hubbell, to the Thornes' son, Niblack Thorne, is to take place this evening at the Hubbell residence. Mrs. J. B. Snyder of Evanston is to be matron of honor for her sister, and Mrs. E. T. Meredith Jr. and Miss Mary Belle Hubbell are to be bridesmaids. Ward Thorne will be best man for his brother, and Charles H. Bell and Walter McLallen are to usher.

The wedding of Miss Alice Kiser, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Otto Pearl Kiser of Knightstown, Ind., to Gordon MacChesney, son of Brig. Gen. and Mrs. Nathan William MacChesney, is to take place this afternoon at 4:30 o'clock at the Methodist Episcopal church in Knightstown, with Bishop Charles Hughes of Chicago and the Rev. John H. Palmer of Knightstown officiating. A reception for 400 guests is to follow the service. Brunson MacChesney is to be best man for his brother.

Still another wedding on today's calendar is that of Miss Katharine Thayer and Robert Neal McKenna, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward P. McKenna of Hinsdale, which is to be solemnized at 9 o'clock this evening at the Union church in Hinsdale, with a reception at the Hinsdale Golf club following. Attending Miss Thayer will be her sister, Mrs. Harold Myers, as matron of honor, and as bridesmaids Mrs. William B. Schrauff of New York City (Katherine Putnam), Mrs. Amos Treat, also of New York; Mrs. Perkins Bull, Mrs. Stanley Zaring, Miss Florence Armstrong of Buffalo, Miss Helen May, Volunteer Aids at the Bal Tabarin of the Hotel Sherman last night.

Among those attending the latter was Mrs. Howard Logan, who had a group of 30 guests, several of them from New York.

Members of the committee in charge who had parties were Mrs. Clifford Templeton, Mrs. Botsford Young, Mrs. Daniel Peterkin, and Miss Betty McNair. One of the features of the evening was the "playing" of the color organ, which was to project a lighthouse scene on the walls of the ballroom at 1 o'clock.

Maj. Gen. Milton J. Foreman and Miss Agnes Foreman gave a small luncheon yesterday at their residence at 1367 North State parkway for Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Speyer of New York City, who were in Chicago just for the day on their way from New Orleans. Mr. Speyer is an international banker and Mrs. Speyer is a poetess.

If the last two chapters of Dorothy Keeley Aldis' detective book are packed jamful of horrors its readers needn't be surprised. In the middle of the night on Wednesday the authoress rushed to Passavant hospital with some indefinable ailment that necessitated immediate medical observation.

Nothing daunted by aches, pains, nurses, internes, and doctors, she decided the time was as good as any for a little literary activity, and so proceeded to conclude her first mystery story between the hours of 3 and 7 o'clock the next morning. Her malady was discovered to be appendicitis, and she was operated on yesterday morning. Now she is doing as well as can be expected, and the book will be published shortly.

The marriage of Miss Mary Bransford Kennedy, daughter of Mrs. John Henry Kennedy of Montgomery, Ala., to Frederick Spruance Bailey, son of Mrs. Edward Payson Bailey of Highland Park, is to take place on June 2 at 4:30 o'clock in the afternoon at 17 Brittany road, Highland Park, with the Rev. Frank Fitt reading the ceremony. Only relatives and a few intimate friends of the bride and groom are to be present. Mr. Bailey and his bride are to be at home at 17 Brittany road after June 23. Miss Kennedy will return the end of this month from a visit in St. Louis.

Mrs. John W. Gary is to arrive in town this morning after her trip around the world and is to go immediately to her Glencoe residence, where she will spend the summer.

Mrs. R. T. Sherman, niece of Gen. Charles G. Dawes, ambassador to Great Britain, and Mr. Sherman have sailed on the S. S. Empress of France for England.

Yesterday's social events included the American Opera society's annual spring luncheon and meeting at the Congress hotel and the annual spring benefit supper-dance of the Lighthouse

Mrs. Anson Mark Jr., and Mrs. John McElwain.

GENEVIEVE A. THOMAS.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Lenehan of 7722 Langley avenue announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Genevieve Alice Thomas, to Jess F. Kemp of 1414 Pratt boulevard. The wedding will take place on June 16 at the Augsberg English Evangelical Lutheran church.

WASHINGTON SOCIETY

Washington, D. C., May 16.—[Special].—Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Rickard of New York, who were guests for a short time of President and Mrs. Hoover at the White House, returned today to their home. Mrs. Hoover drove out for a short time yesterday afternoon, but did not go out today.

Miss Gertrude Lamont, daughter of the secretary of commerce and Mrs. Robert P. Lamont, has as her guest Miss Billy Fratz of Easton, Pa., for whom she gave a supper dance last night at the Club Chanticler. They attended the horse show yesterday and today.

Ingenuity Is Great Help in Handling Small Children

By GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

Paper's nice to chew. At least, most little children think so, for a time. You see a piece of paper in the baby's hand. The next moment you see the young rascal chewing hard.

"What have you got in your mouth, Baby? Let me see. Open wide! Spit it out!"

Not getting the action you desire, you poke around with an exploratory finger and hook out a little wet wad.

Occasionally though, some small habit will persist, often without our knowing at just what point or why it has become fixed. Then it is up to us to do something about it. As for example, this extract from a letter:

"Another thing I struggled with for almost a year was my little 2 year old's habit of chewing paper of all kinds—newspaper, wrapping paper, tissue—anything that was paper. The doctor said she would outgrow it. But after waiting so long and trying various forms of punishment and putting favorite toys away, etc., to no avail, I explained to her one day that since she enjoyed it so much we would keep a large piece for dessert instead of the raspberry junket she prefers to all other desserts.

"I knew she would need help to break so strong a habit. So I spent the entire morning reading, watching her, and whenever she started to put any paper in her mouth I reminded her that a piece was to be kept for dessert, and by the next noon she had overcome it entirely. These may not interest you or may not help any one else, as all children do not respond to the same treatment. But they were real problems to me and their solution a great relief."

This extract is to me most interesting.

ROUGHAGE IS ESSENTIAL IN REDUCING DIETS

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN Is Ideal Roughage

If you are following a reducing diet, it is doubly important that you take a regular amount of roughage into the system daily. Most reducing diets do not contain a sufficient amount of roughage. The result is constipation—thief of both health and beauty.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is recommended by many doctors because it contains the bulk necessary to insure proper elimination.

Also, because it contains the iron needed to help prevent anemia—another danger in reducing diets.

ALL-BRAN is not fattening. Its bulk sweeps the system clean of poisonous wastes—helping to promote glorious health and beauty.

A popular way to eat Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is soaked in fruit juice. Try it! It is delicious with milk or cream. Sprinkle it over cereals, salads and soups. It adds flavor to cooked foods and is equally effective. Your grocer has Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. It is served in restaurants, hotels and dining-cars. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

Health Show Gets Help of Art, Science

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

Hundreds of children, all on their very best behavior, are on parade in the Children's Portraits exhibition which opens today at the Coliseum under the auspices of the Illinois Children's Home and Aid society in connection with the Chicago health department.

The exposition is part of the Health and Educational exposition, a cleverly designed fair to inculcate and develop good health among the youngsters, and a thrilling place in which to pass a morning seeing all sorts of wonders from the cow "who says MOO because she is healthy," to the electrically moved nurse and baby, the baby being automatically fed by a marvelous bottle that moves carefully into and out of reach of his mouth at correct intervals.

When you think you are almost lost in the myriad methods of keeping well that have transformed the Coliseum into a magic maze, you find yourself at the north end of the building in a vast empty room; around the walls of which stretch green and white barriers, except for one gigantic stage that takes up an entire side of the hall and will be used for pageants by the public school children. Back of the attractive barriers is hung the portrait exhibit. Great credit must go to Miss A. Betty Lloyd, director and manager of the art exhibit, who conceived and put into execution the brilliant idea of showing children in health, with no frightful pictures of the "before and after taking" type. These paintings and pieces of sculpture are all of normal, healthy, attractive children painted and modeled in a hundred charming guises.

A veritable bully is the swaggering "Micky," by Marshall D. Smith, who claims to have sketched him from life on our Oak street beach. Less turbulent of disposition are the attractive children by Vernon Thomas and Jessie Wilcox Smith. Richard A. Chase offers several colorful paintings of, chiefly, little girls, and Frank O. Salisbury, the English portrait painter, is responsible for "The Twins," a most delightful canvas. "Virginia," by Charles Sneed Williams, is fascinating in composition and color and the cool poise of the little girl.

Among the painters and sculptors who contribute to the success of the exhibit are Gerald Frank, Anna Lynch, Frederic M. Grant, Wayman Adams, Ingeborg Christiansen, Arthur Spears, Atamian, J. G. Brown, Robert Kilbert, Edna Vognild, Lucie Hartrath, Thomas Kempf, Maude Phelps Hutchins, Vasilena Thetis Goumas (with an adorable "Pan"), Tud Kempf, Olga Chaissaing, and Agnes V. Fromen.

Prizes are offered by the Chicago health department for the most popular painting and sculpture. There will be a vote by the public. The first prize in painting is $100, the second $50; in sculpture a prize of $75 is offered.

Princess Michel Cantacuzene is chairman of the hostess committee and she is assisted by Mrs. Charles L. Howard. Monday the hostesses will be Mrs. Walter Borden, Mrs. Rockefeller McCormick, and Mrs. Robert Maynard Hutchins; on Tuesday, Mrs. Chauncey McCormick and Mrs. James M. Hopkins; on Wednesday, Mrs. M. E. Stone and Mrs. Henry Field; on Thursday, Mrs. Louis Sudler and Miss Angela Johnson; on Friday, Mrs. James Waller Rogers and Mrs. John V. Farwell III., and on Saturday, May 24, the closing day, Mrs. Henry R. Hixson and Mrs. Charles S. Read.

Bedouin Prince Is Here to Present Arabs' Case

The descendant of ancient Bedouin kings, Prince Adel Arslan of Arabia, arrived in Chicago yesterday at the head of an Arab delegation from Palestine. The delegation is in this country to present the Arab side of the Zionist question to the American people, Prince Adel being the foremost nationalist leader of his race. In the party was Issa Bandek, editor of a nationalist newspaper at Bethlehem. A crowd of 200, comprising almost the entire Arab population of Chicago, welcomed the prince and his party at the La Salle street station.

Cold Baths and Daily Weighing Keep Figure Trim

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

"Simple enough," answered the woman when she was asked how she kept her figure so trim. "But not many women will do it. I take a cold bath every morning and I weigh myself every day. That's all there is to it."

For twelve years the woman's figure hasn't varied more than three or four pounds. Along with being interviewed on her excellent figure, she might have been asked how she managed to have, at 40, a complexion with honest-to-goodness color in it and skin of the firmness you rarely see except on young cheeks.

The woman, it should be explained, is not one of the fortunates who never had to battle with weight. Her sisters, her mother, and other female relatives "run to fat," as they alibi it.

Now, taking cold showers every morning may be disputed as a reducing measure, in itself. Numbers of fat persons do take cold showers and remain good, chunky armfuls. BUT—if you take a shower every morning and interview your bathroom scales immediately thereafter you're establishing a habit of checking weight and keeping it from running you up into the overweight class. Even the plump ones who take showers and remain plump are pleasingly plump folk, and not the soggy, puffy, obese kind.

Cold baths "firm" the flesh and muscles. And in numbers of cases they do help to take pounds from the weight. Perhaps the psychological influence of the morning shower, which makes people more conscious about efficiency and hygiene generally, contributes its quota. Anyway, the woman of my story believes that the baths keep her weight down as much as watching the scales.

The better circulation and the greater activity with which you move around after the shower, she is sure, contribute to better figures. And the habit of weighing, she is sure, would not be so exact if she did not preface it with the bath that invigorates. Most women think erroneously of the hot bath as the great water reducer—but hot baths, my informant contends, do not make bodies firm and fit enough to battle flesh.

PATTERNS BY CLOTILDE

[Registered U. S. Patent Office.]

CHILD'S DRESS.

This pretty playtime dress is distinguished by box plaits from the neck to the hem. It closes at the center front beneath a tab that is finished at the edge by the buttonhole stitch. The collar and cuff edges are buttonholed to match. Linen, dimity, percale and gingham are attractive materials for this sort of a dress.

The pattern, 3493, comes in sizes 2, 4, 6 and 8 years. Size 4 requires 2⅝ yards of 35 inch materials with ⅛ yard of 32 inch contrasting.

Write your name and address plainly on dotted lines, giving number and size of such patterns as you want. Inclose 10 cents in stamps or coin [coin preferred; wrap it carefully], for each number, and address your order to Clotilde Patterns, CHICAGO TRIBUNE, 220 East 42d street, New York City.

Note—Clotilde patterns are made in New York exclusively for THE CHICAGO DAILY TRIBUNE. They are perfect in fit, up to date in style, and the easiest of all patterns to use.

BEAUTY ANSWERS

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

DELORES L.: YOU MAY DEVELop the bust by means of exercises which require movements of the arms and shoulders. Try this one: Stretch the arms out to the sides, then bend the elbows so that tips of fingers touch shoulders. Move elbows forward until they touch in front of the chest. Return to original position. Other exercises may be had for a stamped, addressed envelope.

E. M.: A GIRL OF 18, 5 FEET 5 inches, should weigh 125 pounds. You can easily increase your weight to that figure, by drinking a quart of milk a day and using extra cream on your desserts and extra butter on your bread and vegetables.

A FRIEND IN NEED

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

Loom for Old People's Home.

"In an old people's home in which I am interested, we are trying to help the inmates to be self-supporting. We teach them to make articles which are sold, the proceeds going to the worker. To further this, we need equipment which we cannot buy and I wonder if you can help us secure it. Hand looms, especially, are needed for weaving. Do you think any of your readers would have these to give?

"MRS. M. H."

This worthy project is one to be encouraged and your assistance will be gratefully received. If you can provide these elderly men and women with a hand loom it will help so much to further the work being done.

TRIBUNE COOK BOOK

BY JANE EDDINGTON.

Beets and Carrots.

Our beet cookery has been rather poor and there are positive evidences nowadays that we are improving in the art of making the best of a charming vegetable. Carrot cookery has been a little poorer even perhaps than beet cookery and a large number of people, Yankees particularly, have despised the carrot, which the workers in the food laboratories now commend highly because of its calcium content.

The manner of cooking carrots which makes them unpalatable also deprives them of their soluble minerals, every bit of which ought to be preserved. There are various ways of cooking them by themselves so that they are savory and sweet and agreeable, but because of the prejudice against them we are recommending the combination of carrots with beets. When the two are cooked together in the following manner the combination looks like and tastes like beet alone:

Prepare the beets for cooking in the Jewish manner, that is, peel them and cut them up into little blocks, wash and scrape the carrots, cut them lengthwise into four or more long pieces and then cut these into small strips if the carrots are small, or into little blocks. Have equal quantities of both, just cover with cold water, put over the fire and cook gently and finally cook out all the water, adding salt and butter to taste. With a reasonable amount of butter these are a glazed and handsome vegetable. We may serve them with the butter alone, which is the most handsome way, or sprinkle over them a teaspoon or two of vinegar per cup, giving just the most trifling suggestion of acid. When cold this combination may be served on a lettuce leaf as an appetizer, or a French dressing may be added. The more delicate and suggestive the acid, the more attractive this will be as an appetizer.

Carrot and beet jam made of equal weights of carrot and beet root will taste like fruit when it is fresh and has no carrot flavor. Wash and cook the vegetables separately, press them through a coarse sieve and measure the purée. To each pint allow one-half pound of sugar and the juice of two lemons, boil gently—about thirty minutes—to the jam stage and turn into glasses.

FARM AND GARDEN

BY PAUL POTTER

Whether to let a pig "make a hog of himself" in his own way by permitting each animal to eat all the corn and tankage or corn, soybean and mineral prepared feed, or let him self-feed on a restricted grain diet which provides only about half as much feed as he needs and makes him get the rest from an adequate pasture is a problem that has been studied recently at Purdue university college of agriculture.

"Full fed" pigs required two bushels less corn to produce 100 pounds of gain on farms than the more common process of limited grain feeding practiced in Indiana. Farm experience, says John W. Schwab of the animal husbandry staff of the university, also has revealed that full fed spring pigs sold early in the fall have returned about $2.50 more per hog than limited fed pigs marketed in October, November or December.

The diet for the more profitable feeding is given the pigs in self-feeding compartments, along with good pasture. Either skim milk or creamery buttermilk will take the place of tankage or soybeans. Only as much milk is fed as the pigs will drink each morning and evening. When ear corn is fed, the protein supplement should be in a container not more than 25 feet away from the corn.

Paris Fits Greek Mode to the Flapper Figure

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special Correspondence.]—We don't remember any flappers figuring in ancient Greek history, but when modern French couturiers begin to play with Greek fashions they just naturally have to reckon with the flapper. That young lady occupies too important a place in modern life to be neglected and she will not wear the grave creations we are apt to associate with the heroines of Greek drama. The Greek influence running through all Paris formal fashions this season has created a new problem for the Paris couturiers: "How to make Greek styles young, and still keep the graceful length of line our 1930 ideal of chic demands."

Madame Marie Georgette, the talented creatrice of Lenief, S. A., has successfully answered this style question in the youthful evening ensemble sketched above. She uses heavy off white satin with a bluish tinge to make the dress with its simple Greek bodice draped front and back. The skirt is a clever interpretation of the accordion plaitings which have made such a strong sartorial comeback. It is all made of small accordion gores, stitched together in fine vertical tucks, that descend into longer fans at each side of the front and back. A narrow belt of the satin, finished in front with a tailored bow marks the natural waist.

The fingertip length jacket is of a new transparent silvery lamé with small shining beads woven right into the fabric in a sprinkled pattern. The front hem and cuffs are edged with a band of the material.

This ensemble will bring joy to the elegant flapper's heart. It is not fussy, but dressy enough for the most formal occasion; easy to wear and the gores will keep her accordion-pleated skirt from ever coming "out of plait."

Pursuing the Girondoles.

Three girls, the personnel of the art section in a loop department store, were busy dusting in the morning. Along came our first customer, a pleasant little lady who addressed me, "Have you any girondoles?"

I had not the faintest idea what they were. Not being anxious to appear ignorant, I looked round at the other two girls who were nearby and each had the same dumb look as I had. As I was beginning to rack my brains the customer added, "I'm afraid you don't know what they are."

I admitted ignorance and nearly dropped the expensive Satsuma vase in my hand from embarrassment. Then the little lady went over to the floorman, asking him the same question. He told her they were a certain form of lamp decoration. I dashed to the lamp section and demanded to see such mysteries. Having done so, I was obliged to ask how to spell the word, and so produced further mirth among my colleagues. Since then I've studied them and now know more about girondoles than any one else on the floor. M. L. S.

MOTHERS OF BOYS WHO DIED IN WAR ARRIVE IN FRANCE

Paris Greets U. S. Women on Gold Star Tour.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, May 16.—In that rainy spring of 1917 when the vanguard of the American forces shouldered its packs and marched up the cobbled ways of Havre and Brest through a dripping dawn, it was a lean and tragic land they saw—fields run to seed for the want of men to till them and dreary half-deserted villages.

Today, when the vanguard of 7,000 American Gold Star mothers, on a pilgrimage to the graves of their sons in the battlefields of the Meuse and the Argonne, arrived at Cherbourg aboard the liner America, it was as if some geological revolution had transformed the country. Where their sons had seen only mud and weeds they saw fatness and sunshine.

Port in Gala Array.

Cherbourg had been waiting impatiently since daylight for the Americans to come in. The principal streets were fluttering with American and French flags as at a little after 3 o'clock the boat dropped anchor alongside the breakwater where the green harbor light winked at the deep blue of the English channel.

Tenders with a welcoming committee put out, while a fleet of French seaplanes circled like gulls over the harbor.

After a brief reception the 233 American mothers boarded the tenders and in a few minutes these soberly dressed, white haired women were on French soil, sniffing the pungent breeze from the fish market at one end of the harbor and looking curiously at the quaint crooked houses and the rows of cheering fisher folk.

In an old shed alongside the quay the Gold Star mothers were officially greeted by the representatives of the French army and government administrative chiefs of the community. A little group of French veterans were also there carrying the tattered and sunstained flags they had carried as fellow in the trenches. The veterans presented flowers to the group which had elected Mrs. Lydia Lindsay of Bethel, O., its dean in point of age in respect of her 76 years.

Normandy Like Wisconsin.

Then the mothers boarded a train and a few minutes later were speeding over the rolling green hills and flat meadows of Normandy, one of the loveliest provinces of France. Many of the mothers expressed their delight at the sunwashed countryside which resembles somewhat the dairy district of southern Wisconsin. From the windows of the train they viewed meadows carpeted with lush green grass and scattered with apple blossoms from countless orchards, the orchards out of which the Normans make the famous calvados—the fiery French version of applejack.

At 10 this evening the train drew up in Paris at the Gare des Invalides, the railroad station traditionally reserved for visiting royalty or solemn pilgrimages. Here the mothers of America's fallen were greeted by representatives of the American embassy, a group of American officers in full uniform headed by Col. C. G. Bartlett.

The Gold Star mothers, dead tired with travel and choking with emotion at their mission, were then whisked by taxis to various hotels in the French capital.

Tomorrow the mothers will pay a solemn visit to the grave of the Unknown Soldier beneath the Arc de Triomphe and then will be guests at a tea at the Restaurant Laurent. Sunday and Monday they will rest, and on Tuesday will begin a five day pilgrimage to the battlefields.

'Mr. Kelly' Ends His Radio Series on Composers

Popular Operetta Pieces Given on W-G-N.

BY ELMER DOUGLASS.

There is an end to all things, but it was sad news last night when we heard that Pat Barnes' "Mr. Kelly" creation is to be discontinued, at least temporarily. In the 8 to 8:30 o'clock program over W-G-N Mr. Barnes recreated for us the life and works of the great composers. Edward MacDowell was the subject of last evening's discourse. "Though the task of the double impersonation required in this presentation may have been arduous for Mr. Barnes, it was a worthy undertaking, carried out with zeal and faithfulness. We will miss "Mr. Kelly."

Now to a cheerful subject—the sparkling new Friday evening orchestral and choral program broadcast over W-G-N from 9 to 10 p. m. Gems from the best known of popular operettas vied with purely orchestral works last night. As vocal soloist, Gloria Haynes, soprano, is easy to listen to. Henry Selinger is at the throttle of the musical engine.

The weekly choral program over KYW from 8:30 to 9 o'clock was, as always, one of the substantial attractions of the evening.

FORCED TO STAY IN TUB, SHE SAYS, BY GIRL ROBBER

Mrs. Sarah Karpass, 45 years old, 1645 Pratt boulevard, informed the Rogers Park police yesterday that she had been robbed of a diamond ring, a brooch, two watches, and some imported lingerie, by a young woman who, to balk pursuit, had compelled her to draw a bath, disrobe and get into the tub.

Mrs. Karpass said the young woman rang the doorbell at 2:30 p. m., called up the speaking tube that she had a special delivery letter, and came upstairs with her right hand in a large purse, as if clutching a pistol. The intruder, who wore a tan coat and hat, fled by a back door.

Mrs. Karpass was in a kimono when a police squad arrived. The tub was full but the police failed to find wet footprints on the bathroom floor, they said. Capt. Patrick Harding, of the Rogers Park district, said that Mrs. Karpass was vague in her description of the missing articles, and announced he would investigate further. Mrs. Karpass' husband, Jacob, is a dealer in novelty leather goods at 119 North Wells street.

HEART SEIZURE FATAL TO GRAIN COMPANY HEAD

Burton F. Hales, president of the Interstate Malt company and for forty years a member of the board of trade, died suddenly yesterday from a heart attack while sitting in his office at 327 South La Salle street, talking with a nephew, G. W. Hales. He was 76 years old.

Born in Henrietta, O., Mr. Hales came to Chicago in 1875 and for more than 40 years was actively engaged in the grain and grain products business. He was a member of the firm of Hales & Hunter, feed merchants.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Frances Hales, two sons, De Witt V. and James Howard Hales and one daughter, Miss Laura Hales. Funeral services will be held Monday morning at the residence, 509 Oak Park avenue, Oak Park, and burial will be in Milwaukee.

Resident of Evanston for Half Century, Dies

Miss Lucinda Willsie, 74 years old, for 50 years a resident of Evanston, and well known in Christian Science circles, died yesterday at the home of her sister, Mrs. Mary A. Hadlock, 1411 Chicago avenue, Evanston. Besides the sister, Miss Willsie is survived by three nieces, Mrs. Alexander J. Barron, Mrs. Dorothy Gates, and Mrs. Louise Balmer, and a nephew, Harry Congdon. Funeral services will be held at 2 p. m. today at an Evanston funeral chapel, 1610 Maple avenue.

MRS. MARGARET CADY DANIELS, 88 years old, widow of a pioneer wholesale leather merchant, Alfred Daniels, died yesterday at her residence, 3824 Ellis avenue. She had lived in Chicago 65 years. The funeral will be held Monday at 2 p. m. from the residence to Oakwoods cemetery.

ROBBER IS SHOT TO DEATH BY A SMALL TOWN BANK CASHIER

Hamel, Minn., May 16.—(AP)—A bandit who attempted to rob the Farmers' State bank here late today, was shot and killed by Harry C. Dorweiler, the cashier.

The bandit, who had waited in the bank several minutes until two customers had gone out, commanded Dorweiler and Miss Mabel Larson, assistant cashier, to get into the vault. He then took $1,400, all the money in sight in the cashier's cage and turned to lock the vault door.

Dorweiler meanwhile had obtained a revolver he had hidden in the vault, and as the bandit approached the door, shot him through the neck. The name "G. Jacobson," found on his coat label, provided a clew to his identity.

John J. Cleary, Broker, Dies from Pneumonia

John J. Cleary Jr., member of the brokerage firm of Cleary & Co., and partner in Eldredge, Carolan, Graham & Cleary, Inc., insurance agents, died of pneumonia yesterday at his residence, 357 Hazel avenue, Highland Park. He was 37 years old. Surviving are his father, his widow, two children, a sister, and a brother. Funeral will be held at 10 a. m. Monday from the residence to Sacred Heart church, Winnetka, with burial in All Saints cemetery.

Mrs. Spalding, Mother of Violinist, Dies in Florence

FLORENCE, Italy, May 16.—(AP)—Mrs. Marie Boardman Spalding of New York, mother of the violinist, Albert Spalding, died today at her home, Lungarno Vespuci.

FUNERAL MONDAY OF T. L. GLEASON, REALTY OFFICIAL

Funeral services for Thomas L. Gleason, treasurer and auditor of the realty concern of Arthur T. McIntosh & Co., will be held at 9 o'clock Monday at St. Leo's church, 78th street and Emerald avenue. Two hundred executives and employés of the company will attend the service in a body.

Mr. Gleason, who was 39 years old, died Thursday night at the Illinois Central hospital, following an operation. In addition to his position with the McIntosh organization, he was president of Thomas L. Gleason & Co., an investment concern; president of the Suburban Securities company, and secretary of the Northern Illinois Real Estate Improvement corporation.

Surviving are his widow, Esther; a son and two daughters, two brothers, and two sisters.

BRITISH SCHOOL UNION 'JAZZES UP' BOOK OF ISAIAH

LONDON, May 16.—(AP)—A version of the book of Isaiah in present day colloquial English was published today by the National Adult School union. Prof. J. B. Allen of Rawdon college, Leeds, is the author. The translator thinks the new rendition will appeal to modern readers. An example of the text is:

Authorized version: "Thy princes are rebellious and the companions of thieves. Everyone loveth gifts and followeth after rewards."

MOTHER WHO KILLED SEVEN CHILDREN DIES

Columbus, O., May 16.—(AP)—Mrs. Ethel Geller, slayer of seven of her eleven children, died suddenly in Franklin county jail today of an internal hemorrhage which physicians said they believed had resulted from a self-inflicted bullet wound.

Mrs. Geller was taken to the jail several days ago from a hospital where she was treated for the bullet wound, which was caused when she turned a small rifle on herself after having slain the children.

AMERICANS SING SONG IN HONOR OF GERMAN PRINCE

BERLIN, May 16.—Former Crown Prince Wilhelm today received an impromptu ovation on the highway from Potsdam to Berlin when he was delayed by the breakdown of his automobile. Passing with a sight seeing car a guide called his clients' attention to the automobilist, who within a few seconds was surrounded by two score American tourists. The former crown prince shook hands all around and willingly submitted to being "shot" by dozens of cameras in recognition of which the Americans thanked him with a spontaneous song before proceeding toward Berlin.

Follow These Simple Rules

1—Every week-day for 48 consecutive days, (not including Sundays) the Chicago Daily Tribune will print a "Game of Counties" picture. Each picture will represent a County in one of these five States: Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Michigan and Wisconsin. You are invited to name the Counties.

2—The Chicago Tribune will pay $5,000 in Cash Prizes to the persons who send in the nearest correctly named and neatest complete sets of pictures in accordance with these rules. See prize list at right.

NOTE—You do not necessarily have to name each of the 48 pictures correctly to win. The prizes will be paid to the persons whose entries rank the highest.

3—This offer is open to everyone—men, women, boys and girls, except employes of the Chicago Tribune and their families. You pay nothing. Just prove your skill.

4—Pictures are to be submitted only in complete sets. Do not send in each picture separately. Hold all pictures until you have the complete set of 48. Then send them to "Counties," Chicago Tribune, Post Office Box 1539, Chicago, Ill. All entries must be in by midnight 15 days after Picture No. 48 has been printed.

5—Each entry must be sent by First Class Mail, postage prepaid. Entries with insufficient postage will be returned by the Post Office Dept. Contestants may submit as many sets of pictures as they wish, but no contestant will be entitled to more than one prize. Accuracy will count. Neatness will count.

6—You need not buy the Chicago Tribune. You may copy or trace the pictures and send them in. The Chicago Tribune may be examined at any of its offices or at Public Libraries free of charge.

7—Judges will be appointed by the Chicago Tribune. Their decision will be final. In case of ties a duplicate award will be paid to each tying contestant.

YESTERDAY'S PUZZLE SOLVED

MEN OF AFFAIRS ATTEND BIER OF GUNMEN'S VICTIM

Tell How He Left Business to Fight Crime.

Many Chicago business men took an hour from their affairs yesterday to attend the funeral of Joseph E. Altmeier. The state's attorney's office and the Chicago Association of Commerce had collaborated to give a downtown funeral to a business man who became an investigator and detective for the state's attorney and who was killed early Sunday morning as he led a squad of policemen into a gun battle with four bandits.

Altmeier's body lay in state in the Chicago temple. A military guard of honor stood at either side of the coffin containing the body of Altmeier. On the platform in the first floor chapel sat leading clergymen, business men, and public officials, and a surpliced choir and organist. The pews were filled.

Enlisted in Fight on Crime.

"In a very real sense this man gave himself for us," said Clifford W. Barnes, acting president of the Association of Commerce, "first sacrificing his business, then his time and effort, and finally his life that crime might be driven from our midst."

The Rev. John Thompson, pastor of Chicago Temple, read scriptures and prayers and told briefly how racketeers had destroyed Altmeier's business and caused him to volunteer his services to the prosecutor in a warfare against crime.

Rabbi Louis L. Mann recalled the pronouncement "Millions for defense but not one cent for tribute," and he lauded Altmeier for having fought the fight and going down to death but not surrender.

Swanson Praises Courage.

State's Attorney Swanson said of his employé:

"He chose a dangerous work and he was loyal to the trust with full knowledge there could be no second tries in a war against organized vicious criminals."

Then Chief Investigator Pat Roche, Assistant State's Attorney Wayland Brooks, and the four policemen who were with Altmeier in the gun battle of Monday morning—Louis Caparelli, Leo M. Anderson, William Nihill, and Louis Furst, carried the body of their dead comrade to the car, which took it to Elmwood cemetery.

EX-U. S. MARINE IS NEW PRESIDENT OF SAN DOMINGO

37 Year Old Soldier Is Elected.

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic, May 16.—(AP)—Gen. Rafael Leonidas Trujillo and Gen. Rafael Estrella Urena, government candidates, today were elected president and vice president, respectively, of the Dominican Republic. The names of the opposition candidates, Federico Velazquez and Angel Morales, were withdrawn Wednesday by the Alliance of National Progressive Parties, and thus the government candidates had a clear field.

The alliancistas hope, however, to have the election declared illegal by the courts, and thus bring about new balloting. They charge that members of the junta central electoral, the body which supervises elections, were illegally appointed some time ago.

A Former U. S. Marine.

Gen. Trujillo began in the United States marine corps the military career which in twelve years has brought him, at the age of 37, to the presidency of a sovereign nation.

In 1918 the marines, occupying the Dominican Republic, took into their ranks several native young men to train them as prospective officers for the Dominican army. The marine corps was making many second lieutenants of its own that year, the last of the world war, and therefore the issuance of a commission by the president of an occupied country was considered of little significance by many of the Americans, who had readily accepted as a "real buddy" and a "good soldier" the quiet fellow named Trujillo.

"A Man of Few Words."

But Trujillo made the commission significant. When the marines withdrew in 1924 he was already a major. Today he is a brigadier general in command of the Dominican army.

Trujillo has been a soldier continuously since the marines discovered him, and there have been few days since 1918 that he has not worn a uniform. In the political campaign, however, he put aside his military habiliments to allay the fears of those who regarded his candidacy for president as a threat of military dictatorship.

Trujillo does not excel as an orator. He prides himself on being "a man of action rather than of words." He usually reads his speeches.

In contrast, Estrella Urena is one of the most eloquent public speakers in Latin America. He has distinguished himself in his own country as a lawyer and abrpad as Dominican minister to France, Belgium, and Italy. He is three years older than Trujillo.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

St. Louis, Mo., May 16.—[Special.] Manager overtook the Cubs in the ninth inning again today. Going into the final session the champions appeared to be comfortable with a three run lead but Pat Malone suddenly found loose some of the hurling for which McCarthy's staff has become famous, and the Cards stampeded across runs over the plate for a 9 to 8 victory. It made nine in a row for Sunday Street's employés.

Malone's flop as a rescuer of Hal Carlson not only put the Cubs in readiness for the coroner but robbed the ticketholders of a chance to collect when Bad Bill Hallahan for the two innings he administered earlier in the campaign. Bad Bill was back this afternoon with hopes of making it three in a row but the Cubs turned in an assessment for his previous effort and he went away with seven runs against him. Five of these were registered just before he quit in the ninth. It was this cluster of five that might have saved the day if Malone had pitched well.

Carlson Goes Out.

Carlson had to take the short cut to oblivion in the sixth because the umpires took too many liberties with his offerings. They hopped him for a run in the fourth after a pass, single by Heathcote's homer had let the Cards move out in front with two in scoring third. Then in the sixth, after the Cubs with the aid of a homer by Malone, had scored their five, the locals captured the atmosphere with three runs which registered a pair. It was the rare honor in this chapter that Malone lent to his services. He did well enough in one spot but in the next two innings, was saved only because of two plays, so his foldup in the ninth was not a real surprise.

The first jolt the Cards handed out in the last inning was a single by Hafey. Hafey scored him with a drive that sent Hack Wilson crashing into the fence in a vain attempt to capture. After Orsatti had been thrown out Jim Wilson smashed a hit to center, scoring Hafey. Gelbert waded into the breach with his fifth hit, putting J. Wilson on third. Then Douthit over-ran first on his blow and was caught in a pocket but Beck was fooled by holding the ball long enough to let the runner scoot back to the bag.

Umpire Chases Malone.

By this time Malone was plainly in distress, but apparently McCarthy wanted to let him suffer. High dashed

SANDWICH, England, May 16.—America won its sixth Walker cup golf match from Great Britain today by a score of 10 to 2. It was the most one sided victory ever scored in the British Isles.

The British took one match in yesterday's four two-ball foursomes and won only one of today's eight singles. The sole American losing today was Francis Ouimet, who has been a tournament player for more than twenty years. He was beaten, 7 to 6, by T. A. Torrance.

Jones Wins, 9 and 8.

Bobby Jones, captain of the United States team, won his match from R. H. Wethered, British captain, 9 and 8. Harrison Johnston, American amateur title holder, defeated Cyril Tolley, British champion, 5 and 4. George Voigt walked over Sir E. W. E. Holderness by the widest score of the day, 10 up and 8 to play. George Von Elm beat Rex Hartley, 3 and 2, and Dr. Willing won from Newsome Smith, 2 and 1.

It was the first time the Walker Cup has been in competition since 1928, when American won, 11 to 1, at Chicago Golf club, Wheaton, Ill.

Stout was 4 up on Moe at the end of the morning round. Moe lost the first three holes of the afternoon, which put him 7 down. Then he sank a long putt on the fourth green for a birdie 3.

They halved the fifth in par 4s. Moe won the sixth in par 3, the seventh with a birdie 4, the eighth with a par 3 and the ninth with a birdie 3. He was then out in 33 and 2 down on the match.

Moe Squares Match.

Moe won the tenth in par 4 and they halved the eleventh also in 4s. Moe squared the match by winning the twelfth with a birdie 3.

A par 4 at the thirteenth put him 1 up, but he took a 5 on the fifteenth and Stout drew even with a par 4. They halved the sixteenth and seventeenth in par 3s and par 4s. Moe was lying in position for a birdie 3 at the last hole when Stout, who had chipped short and then played two more shots, conceded him the match.

The Jones-Wethered match drew the biggest gallery the course has seen in years. They played even for the first nine hole, each taking one hole to reach the turn all square. Jones won seven of the next nine, while the best Wethered could do was halve the 16th and 18th. Although they let the match go 28 holes, he was

Tribune Baseball Class Ends Today; Free Tickets for 100

This question is directed to the boys of Chicago:

"Do you want a free ticket to a game at Comiskey park next Saturday between the White Sox and Detroit Tigers?"

If you do, be in your seats promptly at 9 o'clock this morning for the final lesson of THE TRIBUNE'S baseball school at Sox park.

The opportunity to reward students for attendance was made possible through the courtesy of Charles Comiskey, owner of the south side club, who volunteered to give away 100 tickets at today's session.

Every One Has Chance.

Every boy has a chance to win. Be sure to write your name and address on the coupon which you must present at the gate for admission to the final class. You will find the coupon in today's TRIBUNE. After all pupils have passed through the turnstiles the coupons will be placed in a basket and 100 extracted by a TRIBUNE representative. The winners will be mailed tickets early next week to next Saturday's game. Names of the "lucky 100" will appear in tomorrow's TRIBUNE.

The professor in charge of the last class of the season will be Bill Cissell, second baseman of the White Sox. He will give a personal demonstration of the points about infield play which he has discussed in TRIBUNE articles this week. His assistants will include Willie Kamm, one of the outstanding third basemen in major league baseball.

Following their instructions will come a contest for student infielders. The boy who shows greatest skill in scooping up grounders and pegging them to first will be awarded a glove. Cissell will be the judge.

25,000 Attend Course.

Today's lesson concludes the most complete baseball course ever offered. Boys who have attended every class have seen many of the greatest men in the game demonstrate every department of play. More than 25,000 will have attended after class is dismissed today.

Among the stars under whom Chicago lads have studied are Tommy Thomas, Gabby Hartnett, Rogers Hornsby, Charlie Grimm, Art Shires, Woody English, Melvin Ott, Fred Lindstrom, Clyde Beck, Kiki Cuyler, Hack Wilson, and Lon Warneke. In addition, they have had the direction of Joe McCarthy, Ray Schalk, and Jimmy Burke of the Cubs and Mike Kelly of the Sox.

Sande to Play Waiting Game on Gallant Fox

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Louisville, Ky., May 16.—"Lovely Seven." One might have come to the conclusion that Earl Sande, the jockey idol of the American turf, was shooting craps if he heard the red haired Mr. Sande say "Lovely Seven" in such an enthusiastic voice here this afternoon.

But Sande did not have a pair of galloping dominoes in his hand. He just had been advised of the draw for post positions in tomorrow's Derby.

"No. 7—Gallant Fox," drawled Will Shelley, the racing secretary, as the ball rolled out of the fat leather bottle.

"It is the first good post position we have drawn this year," said Sande, "and may I not suggest that some of the boys on the other Derby horses go out and make the pace?"

Will Play Waiting Game.

Sande will play a waiting game. He told his friends so this afternoon. But it will not be the kind of a waiting game he played in the Wood Memorial handicap in New York and in the Preakness stakes at Pimlico.

Gallant Fox drew No. 1 post position in both those races and there was so much early speed outside of him that he found himself cut off and in a hopeless pocket before the struggles were fairly under way. Only the super riding of Sande and the Fox's good legs and his big heart made victory possible.

"I'll find a path before we hit the first turn and we won't lose much ground there," Sande said, and then he added, "And tell the folks who bet on the Fox that if we're back of the leaders in the first turn not to lose heart. And if we're five lengths back of the leaders at the end of six furlongs, don't begin to rip up the mutuel tickets on the Fox, for we will do some running in the stretch."

Sande did not make the statement in a cocky or bragging manner. He's not that kind of a boy. In a mild, happy tone he let his listeners know that he has confidence in Gallant Fox's chances to win the Derby.

"What will you do if the other boys stay back there with you and

BROADWAY LIMITED—Started 6 times, but has never been in money, his best effort having been to run fourth to Uncle Luther in the Derby trial at Churchill Downs Tuesday.

Walker Beats Swiderski in 10 Rounds of Slugging

Louisville, Ky., May 16.—(AP)—Mickey Walker, middleweight champion, was awarded a newspaper decision over Paul Swiderski, Syracuse heavyweight, after a ten round slugging match here tonight. The scribes gave Walker six rounds, Swiderski two, and scored the other two as even.

LOUISVILLE GOES INTO THROES OF ITS ANNUAL FEVER

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Louisville, Ky., May 16.—The Kentucky Derby, which is an emotion as well as a horse race, again has created a state of gibbering agitation among the locals and the visitors in Louisville.

There is much excitement, but perhaps I overestimate it, because the zone of the commotion really is limited to a few blocks along one thoroughfare called 4th street, this being one of those high minor league towns in which the commoners gravitate to one or two well lighted drug store corners and a few hotels at carnival time, which is Derby time here. But what there is of it is very gay, although a bit harsh.

The present state of mind on 4th street is the result of a strange combination of influences. In the stud farm style of expression, which comes readily to the tongue after a few days in the Blue Grass region, you might say that this hullaballoo and helling around which is now going on in Louisville is the get of a mesalliance, a fine old tradition—almost an ideal—bred to commercial ballyhoo.

And Yet It's Different.

Then you might say that the spirit of Louisville at Derby time was not different from the spirit of Philadelphia at Tunney-Dempsey time, or the spirit of St. Louis at world series time.

But it mustn't be judged strictly by that. The Derby is more than half a century old, and there is something about the show and the town that seems to awaken the spirits of gone Kentuckians who went to the civil war on thoroughbred mounts, just as the Harvard-Yale game, a traditional treasure piece of the east, always sug-

BY HARVEY WOODRUFF.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Louisville, Ky., May 16.—Gallant Fox and Earl Sande against the field. That's the situation on the eve of the fifty-sixth Kentucky Derby to run tomorrow at Churchill Downs.

Before a crowd more thoroughly schooled in thoroughbred knowledge and breeding lore than at any other race course in America, sixteen 3 year olds—fourteen colts, one gelding, and one filly—are carded to parade to the post at about 6 o'clock Chicago daylight saving time.

On what he did as a 2 year old, on what he has accomplished so far this season, Gallant Fox is a "standout," as the turf expression goes. That is what will attract to the colors of William Woodward, New York banker, those turf followers who guide their speculation by past performances and breeding. That following is expected to make Gallant Fox the shortest priced favorite of recent years.

It's a Holiday in Kentucky.

By grace of the state holiday proclaimed by Gov. Flem Sampson, residents of the blue grass section will preponderate in clubhouse, grandstand, infield, and on the lawn. Yet many of these traditional partisans are found enrolled under the banner of this eastern invader, foaled not in Kentucky but in Maryland.

Granting the apparent but not conceded superiority of this son of Sir Galahad III., which of late years has become one of the most sought sires in the country, there is a hopeful contingent eagerly looking for reasons why Gallant Fox may be beaten. They tell you a Preakness winner never has shipped west and then won the Derby. They point to other favorites of even greater reputation which have finished in the dust behind solid, hardy western colts, conditioned for the day and the distance.

All these questions and answers will be settled within the brief period of two minutes and a few seconds tomorrow afternoon. Over the route of one and one-quarter miles will come culmination to months of preparation by owners and trainers.

Uncertainty Is Still There.

Horsemen will tell you class is lacking in this race except for Gallant Fox. They said that last year about Blue Larkspur, and Blue Larkspur finished outside the money in a race won by Clyde Van Dusen under track conditions to his liking. Yet Blue Larkspur later reversed the result and became 3 year old champion. No matter what the outlook, what the expert appraisal of candidates, there always is that uncertainty which gives to horse racing and particularly the Derby its most interesting element.

There is only one contingency which Gallant Fox supporters will concede might bring about his downfall. A good breaker from the barrier, Gallant Fox was outfooted in the early stages of both the Wood and the Preakness. In the latter he was forced into a pocket and suffered so much interference that his chances looked nil at the first turn. He was so much the best, however, that he overcame that handicap.

Against that contention is the theory that some horse in the field may go out in front and stay there.

Work of Several a Mystery.

Strangely enough, there are several in this race whose recent workouts have been shrouded in more or less mystery. Gallant Knight, Gone Away, the Bradley pair, High Foot, and Longus, have done comparatively little recent work of a nature which, in previous years, inspired publicity and often inspired the railbirds.

Tannery is regarded as the chief western contender against Gallant Fox. His chances are not based on what he accomplished last season, as compared with the favorite, Tannery is what Kentuckians call a "solid, honest horse." He has a good turn of speed, and if he proves to like the route he is more than dangerous.

Another consideration, usually an important factor, is given little attention in prognostications. This is track condition, which so often has helped decide the result.

After all, when past performances, jockey ability, racing luck, partisanship and all have been analyzed until there is nothing more to analyse, it simmers down to the question of which horse can travel one and one-fourth miles the fastest on this particular date.

LOUISVILLE GOES INTO THROES OF ITS ANNUAL FEVER

gests the hovering presence of great athletes long since gone. Call it background or by any other rubber stamp name and it still remains something that no ordinary commercial sporting production, such as a million dollar prise fight, can create.

Earl Helps the Ballyhoo.

It was good ballyhoo to bring Lord Derby of England to Kentucky at Derby time, and the Kentucky Derby needed ballyhoo this year because, to be practical about a practical matter, Churchill Downs, with all its tradition, like the clergy with their holy purpose, must have money on which to live. The attendance is expected to amount to about 60,000 customers, which is a large number of customers even for the world series or a world championship fight, and Lord Derby's presence in the Blue Grass region at this time has been a stimulus to the publicity which is the lure that brings the customers.

I suppose there were some who thought that his lordship, to show his sportsmanship and democracy on a sporting occasion in a democratic land, would pose for some photographs—with sound effect—down on his knees on a horse blanket shooting craps with the swipes at the stables. However, his lordship has remained strictly in character at all times in this country, moving exclusively in the nearest equivalent to his own set that the United States affords.

Sequestered in Lexington.

At Lexington he had been immured in Joseph E. Widener's country mansion with a cold and some fever, and this evening he was unable to attend a dinner which had been arranged in his honor at which some of the Kentucky people of social and political rank had hoped to meet him. I noticed that Mr. Algernon Daingerfield, of the Virginia Daingerfields, a secretary or something of the kind for the exclusive Jockey club of New York, has a piece in the Kentucky papers today saying that "our distinguished guest is being afforded an opportunity to study us at close range."

That being Mr. Daingerfield's story, he is privileged to stick to it, but if his lordship should feel sufficiently well to attend the running of the Kentucky Derby he will pursue his close range study of the typical Kentuckian and the typical American horseman through a heavy mesh screen of formalities and fluttering officials.

Ordered to Stay in House.

Admiral Cary T. Grayson, himself a horseman with a racing stable, and for years physician to President Wilson, attended Lord Derby at Elmendorf, the Widener place, and, although the fever had left him today, refused to sanction his leaving the house.

"But, look here," said his lordship, "I'm a fit man; I'm big and thick, but you mustn't think I'm not fit."

"Nevertheless," the admiral insisted, "there is a chance in a million that you'd get bronchitis and lose your voice if you were to go out today."

So Lord Derby missed the dinner in Louisville and had to drop out of a party which called at Col. E. R. Bradley's farm to inspect the horses and the buildings.

"He will leave here at 9 tomorrow morning in my special train and arrive at Louisville about noon," Mr. Widener said. "There he will be entertained at lunch and meet the newspaper men in the office of the race track. He wants to see Man o' War before leaving Lexington, but I told him he would have to get up at about 6 to do it, so he isn't going to see Man o' War."

Police Kindly Tolerant.

The civil authorities of Louisville seem to reserve for Derby time that same tolerant forbearance for the out-of-town spender which the sheriffs and constables of the Florida east coast evince when the spendthrifts are down from the north in winter. On occasions when he goes for an overnight train ride, the American sport addict generally takes an opportunity to relax and raise the devil with his pals in a hotel room, usually at the cost of some damage to his personal interior as well as to the interior fittings of the room. He desires to sing songs, then play leap frog, and to parade the hotel corridors shouting that he comes from Elmira, N. Y., or New Ulm, Minn.

These whims are looked upon with a kindly eye by the local police, who realise that every visitor is a customer, and by the hotel men, who add the cost of the damage to the bills in the first place.

In the WAKE of the NEWS

FEED BOX DOPE.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 16.—As befitting an outstanding Kentucky Derby favorite, the quarters of Gallant Fox in the Belair stud barn were patrolled by armed guards and it was necessary for The Wake to send his card by an attendant before securing an audience with this august personage. Presently his personal groom returned and said his master would receive us for a minute before taking a nap.

Gallant Fox was sitting at breakfast in the morning room adjoining his bed chamber. Before him was spread a generous breakfast which included strawberries and cream, shirred eggs with a rasher of bacon, bran muffins, and coffee. Clean shaven after his morning tub, he still wore silk pajamas, light blue in color, over which was his velvet lounging robe of a darker blue.

"Never breakfast very early," drawled the Fox. "Take my setting up exercises, occasionally a little breather on the track, then breakfast and a little snooze," and he looked longingly at the chaise longue in a corner. "This Derby fuss rather bores me. I don't suppose it will be much of a race, but then I need a little exercise, and perhaps there's enough in the race to give me that.

"You haven't much in the west this year, have you? What's this other chap—Tanheuser, is it?—whose name I have heard? Why, I hear he's never even been east. It takes metropolitan experience to broaden a fellow. True, he established some sort of reputation in Miami as a two year old, but I understand he took an apartment instead of staying at a first class hotel.

"Of course, I don't mind meeting your western boys on the track, because one meets many strange persons on the turf, but I'd hardly care to meet them in a social way.

"You see, I have very good connections. Mr. Woodward, my owner, is president of a New York bank.

"There's one chap in your crowd, however, who might prove a surprise. I met him at Belmont Park last summer in a sort of distant way—that is, a distance of about seven lengths," and Gallant Fox gave a hearty horse laugh which contrasted with his previous superciliousness.

"Of those who came from the east with me, Crack Brigade is the nearest my equal. I've beaten him twice already, and he was fortunate it was not more than three-quarters of a length in the Preakness, as I had trouble getting through and looked a 100 to 1 shot at the first turn, when I had been bumped around pretty severely.

"Now, there's one thing I can tell you: Some of these hicks are figuring to down me if the track is heavy. That's a mistake. While I never have raced in the mud, I have worked in unfavorable footing and know I can negotiate it.

"Sande will pilot me. That's an advantage, because Earl always has associated with only our best equine families. With Earl as pilot and me as horse, how can you beat that combination? Now, if you don't mind, I'll take that little nap," and Gallant Fox ended the interview with the air of one perfectly satisfied with himself.

INSIDE INFO.

We were called aside at Churchill Downs this afternoon by that astute horseman, P. H. Joyce of Chicago, whom we have long known and in whose judgment we have implicit confidence. Leaning over until his voice became a whisper, Mr. Joyce said: "I can give you some inside Derby information, but I want it kept confidential, so as not to spoil the price."

"What is that," we inquired hopefully.

The reply: "Have a good bet down on Dick O'Hara to run last."

Do You Remember 'Way Back When:

Sir Barton won the Kentucky Derby of 1919 and then went east to win the Preakness, the only double winner in the history of both events?

Could Step Out at Start.

"Well, the Fox has a high turn of speed either early or late," he replied. "If they force us to do it we'll go right out on top and I believe Gallant Fox will have something left when the others begin to wish they were back in their stalls nibbling at the oats and the hay."

The easterners, here ready to bet more than a quarter of a million dollars on Gallant Fox, believe Crack Brigade will outrun all the western ers for the first mile. He outran Gallant Fox in the early part of the Woods and showed the Fox his heels in the Preakness until a sixteenth of a mile from home. They say Crack Brigade will whip the western Derby colts in the first mile of the Derby and then Gallant Fox will come along and whip Crack Brigade in the stretch just as he did in the Woods and the Preakness.

Chicagoans High on High Foot.

But not nearly all the folk in the Derby crowd think the same way. The Chicago crowd is shouting High Foot The Californians are backing Longus and the Virginians are telling about what Gallant Knight will do to his Derby rivals. But in Kentucky the jug bands, the orchestras, the barber shop quartets, and the old time fiddlers are getting ready to cut loose with "My Old Kentucky Home" when Tannery gallops home.

But Pat Joyce of Chicago, owner of Dick O'Hara, the only horse whose odds are longer than 100 to 1, took on renewed hope this afternoon. Mr. Joyce is chairman of the board of the Chicago Great Western railroad.

"Great Western stock jumped up 5 points today," Mr. Joyce said. "So why can't Dick O'Hara win the Derby"?

Mr. Joyce this afternoon engaged Jockey Newt Barrett, an old timer, to ride Dick O'Hara in the Derby.

"Barrett gets $15,000 if Dick wins," said Mr Joyce. "He gets $500 if he doesn't finish last."

DERBY FANS CANCEL AIR RESERVATIONS

It is apparent that those who follow the horses have not yet become air minded. It was reported that many would take off his morning from the Municipal Airport and fly to Louisville for the Kentuck Derby, but a poll of the booking agencies last night showed that practically all reservations have been canceled.

Two reasons for calling off the trips were advanced by the air transportation companies. One was poor condition of the landing fields and the other was lack of public interest in the venture.

Barney Hogle of the Sherman hotel ticket office had planned to send eight planes carrying one hundred passengers, but so many patrons phoned to tell him they had changed their mind that he called off the entire undertaking.

The Air Passenger Consolidated ticket office reported that there was little evidence of public interest in an air trip to Louisville and that what reservations had been made, were canceled.

Cubs Collapse in 9th; Cards Win, 9 to 8 up to swing for Frankhouse, the third Card hurler. The count worked down to 3 and 2 and the next was a ball, according to Umpire Moran. The Cubs charged up to the plate to protest. McCarthy raced from the dugout. It wasn't necessary for him to chase Malone from the scene. Ump Moran dit it, because of some violent language. Then Al Shealy tried to salvage the decision, but he couldn't. Douthit drove a hit to right. J. Wilson and Gelbert ran home and the show closed.

Tomorrow it will be Sheriff Blake against Sylvester Johnson.

It was the awarding of a pass that got Hallahan into the jam from which he was able to extricate himself only after two Cubs had counted in the third. The free passage went to Beck to open the inning. Carlson contributed toward his own welfare by poking a single to right, Beck going to third. English grounded to short for a double play, but Beck scored. Then Heathcote, after spurning Hallahan's first pitch, propelled the next to the right field roof. It was Cliff's sixth homer of the season. Cuyler popped out the chapter.

Three Cardinal hits tied the score, 2 to 2, in the fourth.

McCarthy's men didn't start getting rough in the profitable sixth until after English had popped out. The entering wedge to the five runs was a ticket to Heathcote. Cuyler stepped up and fouled off so many that it looked as if he intended to hold the stage for the remainder of the afternoon. However, he finally got around to the point of hitting one fair, and it dropped into the right field seats, Heathcote preceding him over the counter.

Hack then revived the outburst. He singled to right. Grimm nudged him along with a single to left. Bell also singled to left, Hack scoring. Hartnett's fly to center was deep enough to let Grimm and Bell advance after the catch. This was where the Cards decided to make a hand picked victim of Carlson.

Beck was purposely passed, filling the bases. Then Carlson showed the home boys they were all wrong about his hitting ability. He slapped a double to the wall in right, scoring Grimm and Bell. Then English, who started the inning, finished it.

Tribune Experts to Describe Derby for WGN Listeners

The story of the Kentucky Derby and all of the pageantry which accompanies it at Churchill Downs will be broadcast this afternoon by W-G-N, THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE'S broadcasting station, direct from the race track. Quin Ryan will describe in detail the running of the classic from the time the horses leave the paddock until they dash across the finish line. The broadcast will start at 4:30 o'clock Chicago daylight saving time.

Ten Oak Park Boys Qualify in State Meet

Champaign, Ill., May 16.—[Special.]—Oak Park High school track team led the field of 168 schools in the preliminaries of the Illinois interscholastic meet here today. Ten Oak Park men qualified to compete in the finals tomorrow. Wheaton qualified five for second place, Chicago Tilden was third with four and Eldorado and Atwood each placed three.

Two Illinois interscholastic records were broken and one was equaled in the preliminaries. Kamm, Atwood, threw the shot 50 feet 5½ inches to better the old mark of 50 feet 2¾ inches set by Thompson of Enfield in 1928. Purvis of Mattoon bettered the javelin record by five inches with a throw of 185 feet 2 inches. Klopfleisch, Chicago Senn hurdler, equaled the interscholastis record of :15.8 in the 120 yard high hurdles.

Ralph Metcalfe of Tilden, who holds the interscholastic records in the 100 and 200 yard dashes, experienced no difficulty in winning his preliminary heats in both races. He ran the century in 10 seconds and the 220 in :22.2.

TRAVEL WORN SOX MEET INDIANS IN TWIN BILL TODAY

BY EDWARD BURNS.

Our White Sox are back home, a bit travel worn, 'tis true, but still hopeful that the world will be a bit rosier when viewed from the home acres.

This afternoon they will engage in their first 1930 double header, the opponents of the day being the Cleveland Indians, who have notions about going somewhere this season.

The Indians are the only fellows who haven't a decision over the Sox this season. The season opener in Chicago was won by Dutch Henry in ten innings, 8 to 7, and the Cleveland opener was acquired under the direction of Tommy Thomas, 4 to 3. Rain, snow, sleet, and cold prevented the playing of four other games scheduled for the two clubs.

Some added interest will be attached to this afternoon's enterprise, for today is Saturday, and the Sox, as we have hinted before this, haven't won a Saturday ball game since their first exhibition contest on March 8. Today they have two chances to chase the jinx, providing there aren't left handed pitchers. The best the Sox have been able to get in seven starts against southpaws was the 6 to 6 no count affair with Lefty Grove in Philadelphia on Thursday.

In addition to whatever cheer the Comiskeys are able to derive from being back home for an eight day stay, they also are encouraged by the hope that the casualty list will have been suspended. Tommy Thomas, after a round with a bonesetter, expects to be taking his turn at pitching, and it is said Moe Berg, since spring training, soon will be behind the plate. Bud Clancy, another convalescent, soon will be available and the Great Shires hopes to be in sound body in a few more days.

MANFIELD of London has an International reputation for making a Lightweight shoe that will W-E-A-R and stand up and take punishment like a Heavyweight.

We wanted to find out his secret of taking the Weight out of the sole, without taking out the Wear,—and just how Manfield kept a light calfskin upper leather from "running over the sole" of a close trimmed edge.

Our Representative actually spent days beside the old EnglishBootmaker carefully watching every detail of Featherweight construction — and this is what he learned.

A piece of English Kip leather is sewed in along either side of the shoe between the OUTSIDE Upper Leather and the INSIDE cloth Toe Lining. These invisible side stays act like the outside wing tip of a heavy brogue and preserve the original shape of the Featherweight.

We were given the secret chemical formula that Manfield uses to treat his outersoles, rendering them as flexible as a house slipper, at the same time filling in the pores of the leather and thereby actually increasing wear.

The solid leather heels are hollowed out and wooden pegged to remove weight where there is no wear. We made note of the special flexed solid leather innersoles that will not buckle or chafe the soles of your feet.

And we purchased 44 pairs of Manfield's original Featherweights for 4 Guineas ($20.16) per pair, so that we could show you today, side by side, one of Manfield's $20.16 originals with the $6.60 Regal Reproduction in every Regal store.

In the Regal Reproduction, we have carefully copied every detail of the original English Featherweight. Inside and outside, top and bottom, the two shoes are exactly the same, except that Manfield's $20.16 original is made by Hand in England, while the $6.60 Regal Reproduction is made in our own Factory in America.

GLENNA COLLETT LOSES, 4 AND 3, IN BRITISH FINAL

Erratic Putting Costs U. S. Champion Title.

FORMBY, England, May 16.—(AP)—Miss Diana Fishwick, a mere slip of a girl in her 'teens, today defeated Miss Glenna Collett American champion, 4 and 3, to win the British women's golf championship the first time it was tried.

Miss Collett lost to Miss Fishwick on the thirty-third hole after she had fought her way through six rounds and defeated three of the greatest players on this side of the Atlantic. As a matter of fact, in all but the final count of holes, Miss Fishwick was the victor after the morning round, when the players went to lunch-eon with the British girl 5 up.

Putting Glenna's Trouble.

Putting lost the day for the visiting Philadelphian, although many of her other shots were not all that they should have been. Miss Collett played as tough she was tired, which she should have been after opposing the English champion, Miss Molly Gourlay, for twenty-one holes, and nosing out Edith Wilson and Hilda Cameron on the eighteenth green.

It was a day of summer weather and bright sunshine. A gallery of 5,000 in the morning and 5,000 in the afternoon showed the interest in the match, although the British really had little hope for the youthful Diana's success.

Glenna was off to a good start, winning the first hole, but she missed a four foot putt at the second to see the match squared. Miss Collett took the lead at the fourth, and from then on she had trouble with her opponent.

English Girl Becomes 5 Up.

The match seesawed, with the American drawing level at the sixth with a brilliant shot from a trap. Glenna became afflicted with a slice and Diana was one up at the turn. The British player began to get the range of her putter about this time, while the ball refused to go in for the American, and Miss Fishwick won four holes of the second nine to be five up after the first 18 holes.

Immediately after luncheon Glenna found her putter and went out to practice. Her preparation seemed about to show results, for she won the 20th hole, where she made a clever second shot to the green, but she hooked her next to a trap at the 23d and lost the hole and the next.

The British girl was hitting the ball straight and sending her approach shots dead. For a time Miss Collett lost her faltering game, winning the 27th and running down a putt of four feet on the 28th. She was only two down then, but suffered another lapse and could not break through on the next three holes, which were halved.

Three Down, Four to Play.

Glenna chipped from a bad lie close to the pin to win the 32d and became three down with four left to play. There was a faint hope in the heart of the Americans that their champion might start a golfing miracle, but it was not to be.

On the 33d, where she was in trouble yesterday, Miss Collett sliced to the rough and was short of the green in three. Miss Fishwick, too, was in the rough from the tee, but she was able to use a spoon and sent a great shot to the green, ending the match. The American girls left tonight for Prestwick to play two courses there tomorrow and Sunday. They will go to St. Andrews for Monday and Tuesday, after which they will move on to Troon for a team match with the Scots. They will sail for home on the Saxtania May 31.

Novice Learns How to Get Out of Bunker

BY HARLAND ROHM.

Marge Knox yesterday taught Randy Granquist that shot so very useful to a golfer—the trick of getting out of bunkers—in the boy's fifth lesson at Calumet in THE TRIBUNE'S novice golf contest. That was the new thing he learned, but before that the professional coached him on other shots, so he didn't forget what he had learned.

First he hit a few shots with a mashie and Knox corrected a tendency to put his right hand too far under the shaft in his grip. Then came the bunker and Randall had a tendency to take too much with his right hand, to raise the ball into the air. That changed to pulling down with the left hand, to hitting through the ball and letting the club face pick the ball up. The boy was put on chip shots but he was hitting those mighty well.

Get a Solid Stance.

Coming down into a sand trap, Knox told the boy the shot that knocks the ball out of trouble. "Get a solid stance," Knox told him. "Work your feet around into the sand until you are settled solidly. Make holes as big as you need to with your feet, only be sure to smooth them over again when you leave the sand so the fellow coming behind you won't find his ball half buried in the sand.

"Come back slowly and start the club with your left hand, hitting a little behind the ball. You really pick the ball up with the blade of the niblic and it throws the ball into the air. It must come up quickly with the club. Keep your head down. If you chop down, the blade goes into the sand and the ball pops along on a cloud of feet, so bring the club quickly after you've hit the sand.

Keep Club Face Open.

"For the shot with the club face open, that is, turn the toe a little to the left, and go through with the club. If you toe in with the club, the ball is likely to run across the green into another pit on the other side. Your head must remain steady, more than any other shot than any other,"

SMITTY—THE EYES HAVE IT

Walker Cup Is Retained by U. S. Golfers

so far ahead it was certain that Wethered would never catch him.

Both were down in fours at the first hole this morning. Jones took the lead on the second. He was in the rough to his left behind a high hill, but his iron shot put the ball only three feet from the pin. He was down in one putt to lead, 1 up.

They halved the third, which is a short par 3, in fours, and went down on the fourth even with fives, which is par. Then Wethered took the eighth with a 3, which is 183 yards. Bobby was short on the green and missed the putt for a 4. They had fours on the ninth, each being out in 36.

Pitches Into Cup.

Jones took the tenth with a 4 against a 5. Wethered's drive landed in the gallery. In an attempt to recover he dropped into a trap. He was on the green in 3, while Jones, with his brassie, put the ball 20 feet from the pin. Bobby missed his first putt, but was down in 4 and took the lead, 1 up.

Jones won the next three holes. Jones made the greatest shot of the day for his 3 on the 13th, which is par 5. His brassie shot put the ball several yards off the green. It lay for a 2, and, while the gallery gasped, he sent a 45 yard pitch into the cup for an eagle 3.

He took it easy on the fourteenth in 5 because Wethered lodged his drive in the rough and took two to get out. Jones was two feet to the left of the green with his brassie shot on the hole known as the "Suez canal." A deep brook runs across the fairway, and it was on this hole that Jones found the water on his practice round Wednesday.

They halved the short 16th in even threes. Jones took the 17th with one putt, then halved the 18th with fives. It was there that Jones made his first false shot on the second line, landing in a trap and taking one shot and two putts to finish the hole.

Jones Loses One.

They halved the first two in 5 and 4 in this afternoon's round. Jones lost the short third when he missed the green with his iron and took two putts for a 4 to go 6 up at the 22d hole. He won the 23d in 3, his brassie finding the green, and he was down in one putt. He lost the next short hole when his iron was off the green, and he took 3 to get down, but went 7 up at the next when Wethered's second shot landed in a trap.

Jones finally clinched the match on the 28th hole. He was on the green in 2 and Wethered was bunkered beyond the green. He pitched back and tried a putt for a four, but missed. Jones was down in four to take the match, 9 and 8.

Johnston won his match at the thirty-second green. He was 3 up at the end of this morning's round, but went down on the nineteenth, twentieth, and twenty-second to find Tolley squaring the match. He won the twenty-third, then lost the twenty-eighth, and took the twenty-ninth and thirtieth to reach the thirty-first, which was halved in 5s for 4 up. Finally he won the thirty-second by a birdie 4 for the match at 5 and 4.

Voigt Beats Holderness.

Voigt had no trouble in polishing off Holderness. He was 6 up at the end of the morning's round, having been down only once. He lost the twentieth, took the twenty-first, twenty-second, and third, twenty-fifth, twenty-seventh, and twenty-eighth to win, 10 up and 8 to play.

Dr. Willing built up his game by steady work, making a great 4 on the twelfth hole. When his second shot was trapped he laid the ball with his niblick dead on the pin.

BRODIE TO MEET BYRUM IN FINALS OF TENNIS PLAY

Frank Brodie of Drake university will meet Warren Byrum of Western State Teachers this afternoon in the finals of the Central Intercollegiate Tennis championship. The meet, sponsored by Notre Dame, is being played at the Chicago Town and Tennis club.

Brodie defeated Paul Kane, Michigan State Teachers, taking two matches out of three, while Byrum beat Vernon Tietjen, Washington university of St. Louis, 6-2, 6-3, 6-3.

The semi-final round of the doubles tournament will be played this morning. The pairings are:

Byrum-Housholder [Western State] vs. Reil-Bergherm [Northwestern].
Brodie-Everett [Drake] vs. Wiese-Tietjen [Washington].

Chicago Tennis Clubs Play Today in Season Opener

The Chicago tennis season opens officially today with thirty teams from leading clubs in action. Practically every club in the Chicago district of the Western Tennis association is represented by a team. There are 45 teams divided in A, B, C, D, and women's divisions in the league and the records of each player in this competition will be used as a basis in making up the 1930 Chicago rankings.

SENATORS TAKE 1ST PLACE; WHIP A'S TWICE, 5-3, 4-0

Philadelphia, Pa., May 16.—(AP)—Bump Hadley and Ad Liska pitched a pair of good games for Washington's Senators today to send them into first place in the American league with victories over the Athletics in both games of a double-header. The scores were 5 to 3 and 4 to 0.

N. U. NINE BEATS MICHIGAN IN 2D OF SERIES, 6 TO 5

Timely hitting, together with effective work in the field, enabled Northwestern to upset Michigan, 6 to 5, at Roycemore field in Evanston yesterday afternoon. The victory gave the Wildcats a clean sweep of the two game series.

NOTRE DAME BEATS ILLINOIS.

Champaign, Ill., May 16.—[Special.]—Sullivan's home run in the seventh scored Fochery and gave Notre Dame the two run margin that eventually defeated Illinois, 7 to 5, today. In the seventh Notre Dame's hitting and an Illini error resulted in six runs.

WESTERN TEACHERS WIN.

Galesburg, Ill., May 16.—(AP)—Western Teachers today defeated Knox, 6 to 4, behind Page's excellent pitching.

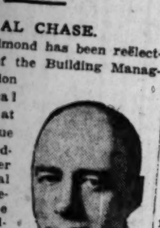
REDMOND AGAIN PRESIDENT OF BUILDING BODY

Earle Shultz Is First Vice President.

BY AL CHASE.

John T. Redmond has been reelected president of the Building Managers' association at the annual meeting held at the Union League club. Mr. Redmond is manager of the National Bank of the Republic and the State Bank building. Earle Shultz was elected first vice president and Aldis J. Browne second vice president. James B. Kaine is treasurer. Directors named were Holmes Onderdonk, Judson F. Stones, George R. Quin, George Richardson, and Leo J. Sheridan.



JOHN T. REDMOND.

In a review of business conditions and attivities in which his group is interested, Mr. Redmond stated that since the beginning of 1923 seventy-two new office buildings have been built in Chicago, with a total rentable area in excess of 12,000,000 square feet of space.

Sees Reduction in Vacant.

He pointed out, however, that this remarkable construction program had necessarily come to a halt since there is now an adequate amount of available space on the market and that no extensive new construction is contemplated for the next year or so.

This is taken to mean that if normal business conditions prevail there should be a reduction in the amount of vacant space from this time on. Mr. Redmond predicted that by 1933 it will be found that the amount of office space in Chicago has doubled in ten years.

In an amendment of the ninety-nine year lease entered into between Charles F. Frey II. and Newton Fox Grey, trustees, and the United Cigar Stores company the latter are given until May 1, 1936, to erect a new building at the southeast corner of 63d street and Cottage Grove avenue instead of May 1, 1931. The amendment also requires that the lessee pay an additional rental of $416.67 monthly from May 1, 1930, until erection of the new building begins.

Oak Park Lease.

A thirty year lease was negotiated yesterday in Oak Park by Cerf & Ehrenhalt which will result in a new chain store for that suburb and a good sized addition to a business building at 122-24 Marion street. The White Cash Market company leased the 42x160 property at the foregoing address at a net term rental of $240,000, and will entirely remodel and enlarge the present one story building into a modern two story structure to cover the entire lot. At present it occupies only 42x75 feet. No architect has yet been selected.

The lessee has an option to buy the property for $135,000. The rental, figured on a 6 per cent basis, establishes a value of approximately $3,375 per front foot. Albert P. Kruse is president of the White Cash Market company. Decker & Golden and Earle F. Tille were attorneys. William A. Heilemann and Ernest Heilemann were the lessors in yesterday's deal. The lease starts Aug. 1.

Buys South Michigan Leasehold.

With an eye to World's Fair development, Benjamin L. Coolidge, real estate operator, has purchased from Louis T. Orr the ninety-nine year leasehold estate on the property at 2239 South Michigan avenue. The ground, 24¾x170 feet, is improved with a three story building. Mr. Coolidge now has a frontage of seventy-five feet at this location which it is stated he proposes to improve for use during the fair. What the nature of the development will be has not yet been disclosed. The original lease, between James Bolton and John S. Cottle, is dated July 1, 1910. Howard & Orr were brokers in yesterday's transaction.

J. S. Hache & Co. have leased the entire northeast corner of the third floor of the Board of Trade building, containing 9,000 square feet of floor space, for ten years. Joseph P. Griffin, resident partner of the firm, was president of the Board of Trade in 1916, 1917 and 1921. Farroll Brothers, brokers, have taken 6,000 square feet at the northwest corner. Albert H. Wetter & Co., agents of the building, negotiated the leases.

HOLABIRD & ROOT GET GOLD MEDAL FOR NEWS DESIGN

Holabird & Root have been awarded the gold medal of the Chicago chapter, American Institute of Architects, for their design for the Daily News building, Howard L. Cheney, president of the chapter, announced yesterday. The jury making the award consisted of the following: William J. Smith, chairman; Francis M. Baldwin, Mr. Cheney, Earl H. Reed Jr., Philip B. Maher, Rudolph J. Nedved, and Frank L. Wenning. In announcing the award the jury called attention to the difficulties surmounted in improving air rights over railroad tracks and commended the architects for the manner in which they took advantage of the river position of the building to enhance the beauty of its design. It also spoke of the Palmolive and Board of Trade buildings in the report.

Pictures of the prize winning building and the other structures mentioned form a part of exhibit of the Chicago Architectural Exhibition league now in progress at the Arts club, in the Wrigley building annex. There are some 244 items in the exhibit, which covers a wide range of architectural subjects, including glimpses of the Chicago of the future and edifices considered for the city's World's Fair of 1933.

The last time the Chicago chapter awarded a gold medal was to Raymond M. Hood and John Mead Howells for their design for the Tribune Tower.

SPEED WAR OF WESTERN RAILS FLARES AGAIN

California Is Two Hours Nearer.

BY O. A. MATHER.

The speed war among the western railroads flared up against yesterday. California was brought two hours closer to Chicago, about an hour and a half was lopped off the run to Minneapolis and St. Paul, and Denver will be a half hour nearer. These new schedules follow rather quickly the recent time cuts made by the western roads.

The Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fé announced that, beginning June 1, its crack extra fare train will make the eastward run to Los Angeles in a flat 44 hours, compared with the present time of 53 hours. The eastward run will require 57 hours and 10 minutes. These schedules are thirty minutes faster than contemplated when plans for reductions in time were made last month.

Denver in 25 Hours.

The Chicago, Burlington and Quincy announced that its crack train will make the westward run to Denver in 25 hours and the eastward journey in 24 hours and 45 minutes, beginning June 8. This is the fastest time ever made between Chicago and Denver and lops thirty minutes from last summer's schedules.

The Chicago and North Western on Sunday will begin operating its fast train between Chicago and Minneapolis on a 11½ hour schedule, a reduction of one hour and 35 minutes. And next Monday the New York Central will inaugurate mail carrying on its fast train to New York.

Quiet trade conditions are not confined to the United States, but are world-wide. This is shown in data on our international trade for April made public yesterday by the commerce department. Exports totaled $334,000,000, which was the lowest figure for any month in the last five years and also the lowest for any April, with two exceptions, since 1915. The exceptions were 1922 and 1923. Exports in April, 1929, were $425,264,000. The current decline was attributed to curtailed foreign buying of American cotton.

At the same time, imports totaling $308,000,000 last month were also the smallest for any month in the last five years, except last February; also they were the smallest for any April since 1919, except in 1922 and 1923. Imports in April, 1929, were $410,666,000. However, there may be some consolation in the fact that last month produced a favorable trade balance of $38,000,000, compared with $14,598,000 a year ago. Also, gold imports last month were $65,539,000, the largest for any month in the last three years, and exports were only $107,000.

The United States has received in net imports of gold during the first four months of this year a total of $184,861,195. Bankers figure this gold has provided a basis for an expansion of credit of 10 to 13 times the amount of gold. Certainly it has contributed greatly to the present ease in money rates. Total gold holdings in this country now are about $4,467,861,000, or only $142,000,000 below the gold peak for all time attained in May, 1927.

Treasury Bills.

Uncle Sam set a record yesterday for economical financing in recent times. Acting Secretary of the Treasury Mills announced that bids for $184,600,000 treasury bills maturing in three months totaled $275,674,000. The highest bid was 99.4, equivalent to an annual interest rate of about 2⅜ per cent, and the lowest bid accepted was 99.331, equivalent to about 2⅝ per cent. The average price of the treasury bills to be issued is 99.356, equivalent to an annual interest rate of about 2.54 per cent on a bank discount basis.

Farmers Corp. Purchases Big Grain Concern

C. E. HUFF. [Assoc. Press Photo.]

The present intention of the grain corporation is to continue operation under the name of "The Hall-Baker Grain company, owned and operated by the Farmers' National Grain corporation."

Officials of the grain coöperative regarded the purchase of the Hall-Baker company as "a master stroke." They pointed out that it not only gives The National Coöperative agency complete control of one of the most successful grain concerns in the country, but also establishes the corporation's export outlet for the southwestern territory.

Huff's Statement.

C. E. Huff of Salina, Kas., president of the Farmers' National corporation, in announcing the purchase, said: "This transaction indicates the great change which has already taken place in the grain trade and in the coöperative movement. Many of the best grain firms recognize the absolute right of the farmer to market his own product and are convinced that the present movement is quite certain to succeed. They are willing to withdraw from the field and, in some instances, even to aid the coöperatives."

The price paid was not announced, but it was said to approximate three million dollars. The deal includes leases on nearly six million bushels of elevator space in the Kansas City terminal, involving the Kansas-Missouri Elevator company, owned by the Missouri Pacific railroad, and the Murray elevator, owned by the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy railroad.

Takes Over Stock.

The grain corporation takes over by the deal all the capital stock of the Hall-Baker company. The company, handling between 30,000,000 and 40,000,000 bushels of grain annually, is the largest exporter of grain through gulf ports and is the largest merchandiser of milling wheat in the United States, officials of the grain corporation said.

George B. Milnor of Alton, Ill., general manager of the corporation, said: "The purchase of the Hall-Baker company, the largest and one of the oldest export and domestic grain firms in the southwest, is the first step in securing important facilities in large terminal markets. Negotiations are under way which, it is believed, will give the Farmers' National Grain corporation facilities for handling efficiently grain from coöperative producers to buyers in all domestic and foreign markets."

EMPLOYMENT IN APRIL DESCRIBED BY U. S. SERVICE

Washington, D. C., May 16.—(AP)—The federal employment service states in its monthly review that employment conditions during April could "not be described as satisfactory" although demand for agricultural labor, and for workers on out-of-doors construction had improved the outlook slightly at the end of the month.

Part time operation among industrial plants, a failure of the iron and steel industry to keep up improvement indicated during March, and a surplus of workers in cotton textiles were among the factors which occasioned the finding.

In its national review of conditions, the employment service found some increase in working forces of automobile and automobile accessory plants. Skilled tool and die makers, pattern makers, and other factory artisans, of the higher paid groups were kept fairly busy for the month. Radio plants likewise accelerated output, and boot and shoe and rayon factories were on virtually full time schedules.

SECURITIES CORP. GENERAL VOTES 10 FOR 1 SPLITUP

New York, May 16.—(AP)—Securities Corporation General stockholders have approved a 10 for 1 splitup in common stock division of 50,000 issuable first preferred into two series of $6 and $7 and an exchange of the new $7 stock for the old first preferred on a share for share basis. The authorized common was increased from 1,000,000 to 5,000,000 shares.

Engineers Public Service company declared a dividend of 60 cents a share on the common stock, placing the issue on an annual cash basis of $2.40 a share, against $1 cash annually, heretofore. The directors voted to discontinue the 4 per cent annual stock dividend on the common.

United corporation intends to pay a dividend of 50 cents on its common stock in October, and beginning next year at the rate of 75 cents annually.

AUBURN SHARES RECOVER SEVEN LOST POINTS

Advance in Quiet Chicago Trading.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

The stew pan of professional trading produced little of interest on the Chicago stock exchange yesterday. Traders dipped in and out and at the end of the day there were few significant changes to be chalked up. Transactions dwindled off to 172,000 shares.

Auburn achieved a recovery of seven of the 24 points lost on the previous day. This was accomplished on sales of 400 shares. The most active of the motor shares, however, was Bendix which managed to close at its high for the day with a net gain of 1¾ points. Attracted by the offer from General Motors, buying appeared in Winton Engine and the stock finished the day better than a point higher after about 2,500 shares changed hands. Activity in Modine picked up some and the price improved an even point.

Conspicuous Issue.

The most conspicuous gainer among the industrial stocks was Electric Household Utilities which advanced 2 points to £1½ on a turnover of about 2,000 shares. Majestic Household received little attention, but was up around a point at the close.

Cities Service was by a wide margin the most actively dealt in issue on the board. Sales in the stock approximated 22,000, as compared with about 8,000 shares of Middle West Utilities which is ordinarily the leader in point of sales volume. Cities Service held within a narrow range and closed the day with a fractional gain. Middle West was about unchanged.

Among the other utility stocks gains of about a point were made by North American Light and Power and Western Continental Utilities. Commonwealth Edison on light sales spurted 4. Central and Southwest finished up a point on transactions of 1,300 shares.

Is Active Exception.

Investment trust shares were sluggish. Wisconsin Bank Shares was an active exception though the price showed only a minor change. Trades in the issue totaled 7,500 shares, which were comparatively large for the stock. Chicago corporation and Continental Chicago showed little change.

Trading in Zenith Radio continued rather active and the price improved a fraction. Sales in Grigsby Grunow, usually one of the most active stocks, amounted to less than 2,000 shares.

List Wittbold Real Estate Issue on Chicago Curb

Listing of 40,000 shares of the no par common stock of the Wittbold Securities company was approved yesterday by the governors of the Chicago Curb Exchange association. Public offering of the issue is expected soon. The company is a real estate concern headed by John G. and Louis Wittbold. Curb governors are expected to name today the members of the committee which will go into the matter of dual listings with the Board of Trade.

Report Oil Gusher Near Famous Mary Sudik Well

Bartlesville, Okla., May 16.—[Special.]—Tearing away two master gates with its tremendous pressure and still beyond control, a Phillips Petroleum-Prairie-Slick gusher in the Oklahoma City field, a half mile from the famous Mary Sudik, blew in today. The well is still shooting wild at an estimated flow of 1,000 barrels per hour and making from one to two hundred million cubic feet of gas. The well is flowing from the Wilcox sand at 6,610 feet, on a 2,840 acre lot.

Galena Oil Stockholders Get Stock Exchange Offer

New York, May 16.—(AP)—The Rockefeller Foundation holdings in the Galena Oil corporation have been acquired by the American Republics corporation, which has extended to all Galena stockholders the privilege of exchanging their holdings for capital stock of the Interstate Natural Gas company, which it holds, on the basis of one share of Interstate for each four shares of Galena. The offer will expire June 25.

New Heavy Construction Profits Total $49,179,000

New York, May 16.—(AP)—Heavy construction and engineering projects proposed throughout the country during the week totaled $49,179,000, compared with $42,283,000 in the preceding week and $66,250,000 in the corresponding week last year, the Construction Daily reports.

Business Is Still Uneven, Review Says

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, May 16.—"With the month of May more than half over, the course of business remains highly uneven and without really decisive trend, as a whole," reports Dun's Review of the week.

"Gains and recessions in activity are interspersed in more than usual measure, the fall of commodity prices has not been definitely arrested, adjustments in production continue, and there are also evidences of the operations of other forces which are natural to a period of economic change.

"The present experience has demonstrated anew the importance of the time element in a process of commercial transition, and there is a more general recognition now of the fact that a rapid recovery was scarcely to be expected, following a severe and far reaching setback.

Tension Is Relieved.

"Disappointment over the results in various quarters this spring is tempered by the knowledge that the marked tension caused by last autumn's speculative collapse has been relieved and that the movement toward rehabilitation is under way. After an era of great expansion, with maximum records attained in many fields of enterprise, the subsequent reversal was the more pronounced, and it would not be logical to anticipate a quick rebound from widespread unsettlement."

"A maintenance of wholesale and jobbing trade at last week's moderate volume, a slight slowing up in retail buying, most marked in country districts, where frequent rains or active spring planting are outstanding features, and a further slight easing off in industrial—that is, factory—operations, are about the most notable features in the ordinary trade and industrial reports," says Bradstreet's.

Copper Buying.

"In two important lines, copper, where the heaviest buying in years, induced by the recent successive cuts in prices from 18 cents to 14, and then to 12 or 12½ cents per pound had brought about a small but sharp rally to 13 cents, and in wool, where higher prices at English wool sales and advances by domestic growers have stiffened holders' views, followed by a consequent hardening of prices of manufactured material, there seems to be evidences of renewed life."

Another important item coming to light is the recognition of the fact that large commercial consumers' stocks of soft coal on April 1 were the smallest since July 1 a year ago and with that exception are the lightest since Nov. 1, 1922.

CHICAGO BANKER CITES PROBLEMS OF MANAGEMENT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Atlantic City, May 16.—Problems of bank management were discussed here today by Craig B. Hazelwood, vice president of the First National bank of Chicago, in an address before members of the New Jersey Bankers' association.

C. B. HAZELWOOD [Wallinger Photo.]

The most important problems of bank management, Mr. Hazelwood said, are directing the bank's operations, managing investment of bank funds, and new business activities.

He enunciated several rules of management, one of which he declared is that no excess loans should be made to customers, officers or directors of the bank. Among the other rules he laid down was an insistence on adequate compensating balances and the adoption of a general policy requiring annual liquidation.

Charles Bunte Sells 56 Flats at 6615-25 Kenwood

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bunte have sold the fifty-six flat building at 6615-25 Kenwood avenue to Margaret Bloch for a reported $275,000, subject to $105,000. They took in part payment the eighteen flats at the northeast corner of Talman and Glenlake avenues at $125,000, subject to $88,000. Mr. Bunte is connected with the candy company bearing his name. G. K. Georges of the Georges Realty company was broker. Nathan Shefner was attorney for Mrs. Bloch and Harry D. Irwin acted for Mr. Bunte.

Business Failures for Week Aggregate 517

New York, May 16.—(AP)—Business failures for the week, as reported to R. G. Dun & Co. totaled 517, compared with 525 for the previous week. The figures, however, show an increase of 42 over the 475 defaults a year ago. Defaults of firms with liabilities of more than $5,000 rose to 327, from 311 reported last week.

Has Large Single Order for Dial Telephones

KREUGER SEES NEW TREND IN FOREIGN LOANS

Match King Looks to Finance Future.

BY SCRUTATOR.

How the United States in future may handle the lending of funds abroad was discussed briefly yesterday in an interview by Ivar Kreuger, head of the Swedish match trust and one of the most important financial figures in Europe. Mr. Kreuger, whose firms have made hundreds of millions of dollars of loans to governments, is a visitor in Chicago.

First of all, he explained, Europe now has capital enough and more to supply its own needs if it were all kept on that continent. It will not do this, in fact, but the amount of investment by Europeans in other continents will more than equal the amount Europe will absorb from other lands.

Cites Present Difficulty.

The development of new forms of securities will be demanded by Americans before there will be a large increase in the funds they will lend to the older continent, Mr. Kreuger said. As an instance, he cited the present difficulty in selling the obligations of small countries here. Their credit might be good, the finances in excellent shape, but their issues would be so small that they could not get the attention of bankers and buyers.

His suggestion was that in future we might have joint loans made to a number of these smaller countries, with the credit of all participants back of the entire issue. He indicated, however, that the immediate increase of capital to Europe might be through the medium of American firms investing in subsidiaries abroad, as General Motors and Ford have already done. American firms may not go so far as to take over monopolies as his concerns do, but will expect and obtain marked trade advantages. Such investment in operating capacity abroad Mr. Kreuger regards as the equivalent of direct loans to the countries involved.

Stresses Advantages.

Through his talk and in his speech the evening before at a dinner of the Industrial club Mr. Kreuger stressed the advantages of a free market for foreign securities in all the wealthy countries of the world. Transfer of actual gold has such ill effects on commodity prices, he said, that it was much more practical for creditors to take their pay, when they do not want goods, in paper, promising to pay in future.

In his set speech he attributed some of the world-wide lowering of commodity prices, especially that of wheat, to Argentina's loss of gold in 1929. Removal of 178 millions of the yellow metal from that country caused a virtual abandonment of the gold basis for currency. Depending for its capital needs on foreigners, who failed to lend because interest rates were high elsewhere, that country underwent a severe deflation. This was felt most severely, as it always is, in staple articles.

Factor in Wheat Depression.

Mr. Kreuger did not trace his subject quite so succinctly, but conveyed the idea that Argentine wheat, its price depressed by the removal of gold from the country, was shipped abroad at the same depressed prices and in the world market was an important factor in depressing the price of wheat from all other countries. Canada and Australia, finding themselves likewise short of gold, had to follow a similar unpleasant path.

It might be reasoned thus that the low price of American wheat is partly due to the lack of gold in the three countries mentioned; that the middle western farmer may attribute some of this troubles to the fact that Argentina could not shift some of its pressing obligations into long term bonds at fair rates of interest. Such obligations could be liquidated at more favorable times and under less pressure.

Chicago Steel Inquiries Gain; Awards Decline

Cleveland, O., May 16.—Daily Metal Trade today says: "Structural steel inquiry is gaining moderately at Chicago although actual awards are 25 to 30 per cent under a year ago. Moderate improvement in steel wire demand also is noted in the district. Most car building plants are operating at high rates, although several in the Chicago territory are virtually down. New car buying is not so active. Some betterment in strip steel orders is reported at Pittsburgh, chiefly from automotive consumers."

Reparations Offering Due Soon: Lamont

New York, May 16.—Thomas W. Lamont of J. P. Morgan & Co., who returned today to his desk after an absence of seven weeks in Paris, London and Italy, with a brief stay in Brussels, to confer on the plans for the offering of the $300,000,000 German annuities loan in the principal money centers of the world, refrained from commenting at this time on the price at which the issue will be offered. He indicated, however, that public offering of the American portion by a nationwide syndicate headed by Morgan & Co. might be expected between May 28 and June 6.

Mr. Lamont said that, as many details in connection with the offering are to be ironed out, a statement concerning definite plans could not be made until a later date.

The latest advices received from abroad indicated that the American part of the $300,000,000 loan, amounting to $80,000,000, would carry a 5½ per cent coupon and will be priced at about 90 to 92. The German government 7s of 1949, issued under the Dawes plan, closed on the stock exchange yesterday at 108, indicating a yield of about 6.20 per cent. For the new loan to yield 6.20 per cent it would have to be priced at 90.

BRITISH SEEK CUT.

BASEL, Switzerland, May 16.—(AP)—Directors of the Bank for International settlements were unable to finish the allotment of the $300,000,000 reparations bond issue today because of resistance by Great Britain to taking an allotment of more than $25,000,000.

Under the original plan Britain was to take $60,000,000, but that was later cut to $40,000,000. The British representative said today his country could not agree to place more than $25,000,000.

The directors today fixed the interest rate on the loan at 5½ per cent and will determine the issue price at a later session.

DISMISSES RAIL CONSOLIDATION PLAN OF D. & H.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 16.—The interstate commerce commission has dismissed the rail consolidation plan of Delaware and Hudson railroad proposing amalgamation of an Atlantic terminal belt railway system.

The dismissal is in line with the commission action on similar proposals by the Baltimore and Ohio and Chesapeake and Ohio and Wabash railroads. The carrier has agreed to dismissal of its proposal without prejudice to its later resubmission.

The commission acquiesced to the request of the Wabash railroad for a modification of its order of May 2, 1928, so as to permit the road to pledge or repledge until Dec. 1, 1931, all or any part of its holdings of 177,900 shares of Lehigh Valley stock.

The condition attached to the previous order followed the conclusion reached at that time in approving a bond issue that financing would not have been necessary if Wabash had not financed the purchase of the Lehigh holdings.

Sinclair Common Stock to Be Paid for Pierce

New York, May 16.—(AP)—The Sinclair Consolidated Oil corporation today, in explaining further details of its contract to acquire the assets and business of the Pierce Petroleum corporation of St. Louis, announced that it would pay for the acquisition in common stock of the Sinclair corporation. Pierce stockholders will meet June 12 to vote on ratification of the contract. The Sinclair corporation said there would be no exchange of stock and that Sinclair would take over only the assets and business of Pierce and not the corporation.

ADLER PETITION FOR CELOTEX RECEIVER IS DISMISSED BY COURT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Wilmington, Del., May 16.—The application of David Adler for a temporary receiver for the Celotex company, which caused a sensational decline in Celotex common shares on the New York Stock exchange a week ago, was dismissed today in Chancery court.

The motion for dismissal was made by counsel for Adler over the protest of counsel for the Celotex company. S. Randolph Hicks, contending the action had been filed for an ulterior motive. Celotex, he said, was anxious for an immediate hearing.

Mr. Hicks declared that the fifty shares of stock owned by Adler were transferred to him from another party some time after March 20, and that the information upon which the receivership action is founded was contained in a financial report made available to stockholders on Feb. 3. The chancellor said that under the rules of the court he could do nothing other than grant the motion for dismissal of the application.

The chancellor said whether the bill was filed with an ulterior design and to alter the market in the stock, he did not know. He added he read the papers and he knew stockholders had been hurt by the decline in the stock.

After the motion was granted, the chancellor asked both sides to agree on a date for a hearing on the application for a permanent receiver. Celotex said it was ready for an immediate hearing, but would agree on an early date fixed by Adler. The chancellor said that if counsel did not agree he would entertain a motion for the expediting of the case. Adler was to have filed affidavits May 14 supporting his application for a temporary receiver, but failed to do so.

Directors Approve Bond Issue for Armstrong Cork

New York, May 16.—(AP)—An offering to stockholders of $15,000,000 ten year convertible bonds has been approved by directors of the Armstrong Cork company. The proceeds will be used for payment of bank loans and for completion of expansion.

BY FRED HARVEY.

New York, May 16.—The stock market had a flat tire today. It just bumped along. Trading fell away to a measly 2,086,800 shares, the smallest total for a full day session since the middle of January, when business all but came to a standstill.

It was a professional affair out and out, with trading mixed, price changes unimportant, and little or nothing to relieve the dull routine. The drift during the forenoon was generally toward slightly lower levels. The tone improved somewhat toward the last, however, and final figures were mainly higher.

Little Group Activity.

There was no particular group activity anywhere in the list. Utility stocks made a puny effort to pull together toward higher and better things, but they made a pretty sorry thing out of it—even with the help of some rather forced merger talk. Consolidated Gas, American Foreign Power, Columbia Gas, American Power and Light, and one or two others moved up a point or so, but not all of them were able to carry on, and other issues of the division faded out of the picture without a struggle.

The stocks to which the market ordinarily look for leadership—Steel, Johns-Manville, New York Central, Radio, General Electric, and the like—did little.

Three or four of the so-called "fast movers" had their periods of activity, Case moving up for some 8 points, Coca-Cola advancing 5¼, Vanadium registering a net gain of nearly 5 points, and a few others doing their level best to brighten up the corners where they were. Reports or forecasts of improved earnings were the basis for the demand in some of these specialties—Coca-Cola among them.

Under Fire from Bears.

With the bear element on the lookout for vulnerable issues, National Supply company came under the fire of that element, yielding some 11 points to new low levels for the year before offering any important resistance. The drive against this stock had its basis in the poor showing in the quarterly earning statement published yesterday. Net after all charges for the March quarter totaled $174,830, equivalent after preferred dividends to 40 cents a share on National Supply common. This showing contrasted with net of $965,545 reported in the first quarter of 1929, which was equal to $3.03 a share on the common.

There were one or two rather sharp drops elsewhere in the list. Vulcan Detinning took a dip and American Locomotive went down some 3 points to a new low for the year, as a response to the reduction of its dividend from $8 to $4 a share.

Prominent on Up Side.

United Aircraft was rather conspicuous on the up side, on reports that the company had received an $8,000,000 contract from the government and that a batch of other important orders were in sight.

Oil stocks continued to act well. Standard of New Jersey, Pan-American B, Phillips Petroleum, and Houston were among the pacemakers in this corner of the field. Celotex ran up about 5 points on announcement that the suit for a temporary receivership for the company had been withdrawn.

Passing of midmonth financial operations added to the ease in money, and inasmuch as local banks are entirely clear of indebtedness at the federal reserve banks, the surplus credit became more pronounced.

Today, $10.00; average, $9.55.
Estimated receipts at Chicago today, 300 cattle; 7,000 hogs, and 4,000 sheep.

Good grades of hogs on the cash trade cleared quickly at stronger prices yesterday, and some medium and weighty butchers at the close were up 5@10c. The extreme top was unchanged at $10.30, but the general average advanced 5c at $10.05, comparing with a top of $10.35 and average of $10.10 last Saturday.

Small packers and shippers bought freely at the strength and only 4,000 remained at the close, consisting mostly of stock held off the market. The range of prices equaled the narrowest point of the year, the top and average being only 25c apart. Fluctuations of the hog market have been unusually mild during the last few weeks. In the last two months daily averages have been within a range of $9.80@10.35.

Heavy Hogs Active.

Heavy hogs for immediate delivery were in demand on the "to arrive" market yesterday, and specials averaging 350 lbs were sold for today's delivery at $9.85.

Lightweights for Monday were bid $10.40 and 260@310 lb averages $10.05. September lights were offered at $10.25 and bid $10.20 at the close. July light carried bids of $10.30 and June light, $10.20.

The meager supply of cattle on sale yesterday changed hands at about steady prices. Sales were 25@40c above the low spot last Monday, but still showed losses of 25@50c compared with last week's close. Few steers were good enough to pass $10.

One lot of 33 steers and heifers averaging 723 lbs topped the market at $11.75, prime weighty stock eligible to $14.25 being absent. Beef cows were stronger, while heifers ruled weak. Calves sold steady. Stockers and feeders were scarce and quiet.

Sheep Receipts Small.

Sheep receipts dropped off abruptly yesterday, the result of the drastic slashing of quotations during the last two weeks. Arrivals at 7,000 were below all expectations and compared with 13,399 the previous Friday and with 13,285 a year ago.

Hardly enough remained on the market to establish prices after directs had been deducted from the supply. The few lots offered brought about steady prices. Choice shorn lambs sold at $9.50 and good grades of native springers sold at $10.65. No Colorado wool lambs or California spring lambs were offered.

Probable receipts of hogs for Monday are estimated from 39,000 to 56,000. F. Knutsen marked 19,000, H. Patison and G. W. Chandler, 40,000; F. M. Sherwood, G. Brittain, J. T. Brown, and R. W. Thorne, 42,000; F. W. Young, 43,000; W. G. Olson, 45,000; W. T. Reneker and S. Lund, 48,000; C. Southwick, H. C. Carlson, F. Gehrmann, and A. G. Welhener, 50,000; J. M. Waters, 52,000, and C. Daley, 56,000.

FLEXIBLE TARIFF AND DEBENTURE NEAR SHOWDOWN

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 16.—[Special.]—The final test of strength on the export debenture and flexible tariff repeal provisions of the tariff bill will come in the senate on Monday. Senator Reed Smoot [Rep., Utah], chairman of the finance committee, introduced a resolution today to relieve the senate conferees of their pledge to take no action on these two controversial subjects without instructions.

The Smoot resolution follows:

"Resolved, that it is the sense of the senate that the majority members of the conference committee on the part of the senate on the tariff bill, H. R. 2667, should be relieved from the promise made by them that no agreement in conference on the export debenture or flexible tariff would be made until opportunity was offered in the senate for a separate vote on such items."

The Democrats and radicals will oppose the resolution, realizing that its adoption means the final death blow to the senate's export debenture amendment which already has been rejected overwhelmingly by the house and that it also is likely to lead to a compromise on the flexible tariff provision somewhat in harmony with President Hoover's desire for retention of executive authority to change duties.

Although the vote may be exceedingly close, the impression prevailed today that the senate would adopt the resolution and that the action would make possible a speedy settlement of the half dozen controversies still unsettled by the senate and house conferees.

WHEAT VALUES ARE ON UPGRADE; CLOSE NEAR TOP

Short Buying Lifts Corn Futures 2@2½c.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Wheat prices were on the upgrade Saturday the greater part of the day, with general short covering under-way, headed by local operators who see nothing in the situation to warrant higher prices.

Trade was much broader, and while still mainly of a local character there was some increase in outside interest. Prices advanced 2¼@2¾c over the finish of Thursday to the best figures from April 29, and closed well toward the top with net gains of 2¼@2¾c. May was $1.05⅝ and July $1.06 @1.06⅝.

News generally was much more favorable to holders, with export sales of over 1,000,000 bu, despite the adverse, making around 3,000,000 bu in the last two days, and there was some buying of futures here that was reported as for foreign account. The limited exports from Argentina, rapidly decreasing stocks on the continent, and unfavorable weather for the new European crops had some effect at Liverpool, which closed ⅝@1¾d higher, with the May only ¼d under the July, the smallest difference in a number of months. Winnipeg gained 1¾c for the day.

Russian Acreage Short.

Cables from abroad claimed that the Russian wheat acreage would fall far short of expectations, one report claiming about 50 per cent of the intended area had been seeded, and official returns showed that the work was progressing slowly. Wet and cold weather generally prevails on the continent. Germany was reported to have bought Argentine wheat. Clearances from the latter country for the week were 1,070,000 bu, the smallest in years, and no grain was cleared for the United Kingdom.

The technical position of the wheat market was regarded by close observers as having been weakened by the advance of late. The head of one of the largest Chicago houses, in discussing the situation, said a continued rise in corn is not altogether certain, as the big supply of cash grain is still a problem. However, he feels that the market has been thoroughly liquidated with the exception of North America and that importers will have to enter on the latter for requirements. He looks for larger takings during the next six months than they did the preceding period.

Reports to Nat C. Murray covering Kansas, Oklahoma and Texas showed that the improvement in various parts of the four states more than offset the areas in which deterioration was shown, with fair percentages showing no change in the winter wheat situation.

Corn Shorts Cover Freely.

Local shorts were free buyers of corn futures and lifted prices 2@2¼c over Thursday's finish, with some big loss orders uncovered on the way up. The finish was 1⅝@2¼c higher, with May, 80¾c, and July, 81⅝@ 81¾c. Low temperatures over parts of the belt, with frost or freezing temperatures predicted in the Dakotas, and frost in parts of Iowa and Missouri, combined with shipping sales of 235,000 bu, had considerable influence, but the buying lacked leadership. The technical position of the market was weakened by the advance, according to close observers. However, sentiment is less bearish than of late, despite a small increase in country offerings to arrive.

Cash interests continue to take May corn, with commission houses on both sides of the deferred deliveries. The movement was ⅝@1c higher, with May 80¾@81, and July, 42@42¼c. Receipts were 65 cars, reflecting the movement of grain to this market from Wisconsin points.

Bulk of the trade in rye was in spreading between the various deliveries and with corn. The close was 1⅜@ 1¾c higher in sympathy with wheat, May being 61¼c and July 65c.

PROVISIONS NARROW

A light scattered trade was on in lard and bellies, with a narrow range of prices and a close on lard unchanged to 2½c higher. Bellies were closed down 25c for May, while the deferred futures were only 2¼@5c lower.

Exports of lard were the heaviest in some time, 5,053,609 lbs, and of bacon 320,000 lbs. Cash trade in lard and meats was fair. Liverpool lard was unchanged and hog prices generally steady, with moderate receipts. Lard stocks in Chicago are 45,539,000 lbs against 44,144,000 lbs two weeks ago and 58,724,000 lbs last year. SUGAR.

NEW YORK, May 16.—(AP)—SUGAR—Raw sugar today, with prices 1-32c higher on renewed buying by operators, while refiners continued to hold aloof. On a report of covering and increased outside interest, futures were higher, closing with advances of 4 to 6 points. The advance was checked by encountering little opposition, the market at one time was 4 to 6 points above the previous close, when there was checked by realizing, with prices a little off from the best of the session. The principal factor mentioned in connection with a report that Russia would be in the market for 200,000 tons of sugar, 150,000 tons of which would be direct to Russia and 50,000 tons to Finland, refined and exported to Russia later, with British refiners reported to be aiding in the financing of the transaction. Approximate sales, 60,000 tons. Closing prices: No. 2, May, 3.21c; July, 3.21c; September, 3.47c; December, 3.47c; No 1 prices follow:

BUTTER EASES AFTER BULGE

An advance of ⅝c in spot butter failed to offset an enormous storage input on the four markets. November futures, after early strength, fell ¾c under the previous close, but finished only ⅛c higher. Sales were 58 cars and receipts 16,615 tubs.

November eggs weakened with an easing spot, but market regained the previous level on short covering and new investment buying. Sales were 57 cars and receipts 30,018 cases. Prices follow:

This fine riding seven pass. is as good as the new Paris styles and any mechanic will vouch for the excellence of the motor. Equipped with 4 whl. brakes, shock absorbers, wire wheels, heater, bumpers, spare tire, etc. $395.

HUDSON BROUGHAM. It cannot be duplicated any place else at anywhere near our price. The motor is okay and the interior is very clean. Many extras. $95.

NASH SEDAN. Adv. 6 that's in top notch shape, it's equipped with 4 whl. brakes, side sides, and every essential extra. The inner hums and the upholstery appears unworn. $175.

EVERYONE CLUB SEDAN, 1929, that was only driven a few thousand miles. This Six is in marvelous condition today and has built up comfort and the motor runs very smoothly. 4 whl. brakes, shock absorbers, bumper, spare tire, etc. Only $395.

PAIGE SEDAN. Recent model that was completely overhauled in our shop and advanced wherever necessary. The appearance is unusually attractive and the equipment is complete with 4 whl. brakes, snubbers, trunk, spare tire, etc. Reduced to $345.

NASH VICTORIA. Late Adv. 6 that's an absolute knockout in appearance. The finish is a smart two tone combination of red and black and has vermillion wire wheels and its equipment includes 4 whl. brakes, snubbers, bumper, spare tire, driving light, etc. Priced to $345.

STUDEBAKER DICTATOR. Late 1929 six was driven for less than 60 days. Every feature of this car is absolutely brand new and the motor is backed by a 30 day free service guarantee. Has hundreds of dollars worth of extra equipment. Will be sold at less than our price of $785.

STUDEBAKER COMMANDER, 1928 five passenger sedan, finished an attractive bottle green. The 8 cyl. Big Six motor is unusually powerful. The upholstery and carpets are in dandy condition. Has 4 whl. brakes, snubbers, bumpers, spare tire, etc. Special, $450.

HUDSON SEDAN. Late 1928 that's the last word for sparkling performance and attractive appearance. Equipped with shock absorbers, bumpers, shutter front, trunk, etc. Has actually outlasted its day. The finish is practically flawless. Has a host of other valuable extras. Will be sold at once for $695.

CHEVROLET COUPE. Here is an ideal car for the business man. Has exceptionally good tires, and many extras. Motor has carefully checked over. Pickup at $95.

ESSEX COACH. Late model. This car was in storage for 8 mos. Today it's in exceptionally fine condition. Has shutter front, spare tire, bumpers, etc. $145.

GRAHAM-PAIGE SEDAN, 1929, with 4 whl. brakes, shock absorbers, bumpers, spare tire, etc. The owner of this car was forced to sell it mos. and then decided what he wanted was a Victoria, so he sacrificed this car at a low figure. His loss is your gain, so now you have an opportunity to get a practically brand new Graham-Paige at only $695.

MARMON SEDAN, Late str. 8. The finish, upholstery and tires are in the original new condition and the motor runs very smoothly. Equipped with 4 whl. brakes, shock absorbers, bumpers, spare tire, etc. $495.

OLDSMOBILE COACH. We recommend this as one of our best buys. The motor runs smoothly and quietly and the appearance is attractive. Has trunk, 5 good tires, bumpers, etc. $275.

6-10 GRAHAM-PAIGE 5 PASS. SEDAN. This car is coming into our stock in almost new condition mechanically. The paint, a beautiful dark blue, is like new; interior protected by seat covers and there is much equipment, including cowl band and lights, practically new tires, etc.; guaranteed mechanically, $475.

BUICK MASTER 6 SEDAN. Full 5 pass. 4 dr. type and a model very much in demand at present. This car is 100% through and through. You will be more than impressed when you see it and drive it. Painted blue; excellent tires and ready to go. Of course, it's guaranteed. $375.

6-19 GRAHAM-PAIGE SEDAN. 5 pass., 4 dr., with 4 speed transmission and one of the most desirable motor cars on the market today. Painted 2 tone apple and olive green; has excellent tires, cowl lights, perfect interior and would make some family ideal transportation; gladly guaranteed. Come in and look it over. $775.

PACKARD 1927 5 PASS. SEDAN. Popular 4th. series car with rebuilt motor. Blocks rebored, new rings, pistons, new timing chain and many other details taken care of. Paint, upholstery, nickel, etc., perfect; guaranteed. We believe this car should give new car service; $750.

NASH 1929 2 DOOR SEDAN. One of those beautiful Brewster green jobs with L head motor, insuring complete quietness at all speeds; upholstery, tires and all details exactly as you would have them; in fact, the car presents every appearance of a new one; chrome plated, other features; guaranteed. $575.

OAKLAND 1929 SEDAN. In tiptop condition throughout. Painted blue; tires excellent; cowl lights, fully equipped; the gentleman who traded this car told us he drove it carefully every inch of its low mileage, and the car's condition certainly bears this out. If you want a bargain act quick; guaranteed, $475.

CHEVROLET SIXES. We have two 1929 models; 1 coupe; 1 sedan; both practically new condition mechanically, with perfect paint, upholstery and details. The opportunity presents itself to own either one of these beautiful cars at the money saving price of $450; both guaranteed.
